BLIZZARD AT 22° BELOW CLAIMS MANY VICTIMS

Fires Spread Among Ruins of Towns.

ANKARA, Turkey, Dec. 28 (AP).—Three additional tremors, subzero weather, and blizzard winds which spread ravaging fires added to the damage and panic of the Anatolian earthquake today as officials gave at least 60,000 as their preliminary estimate of casualties. Of the casualties, perhaps 20,000 were counted as dead.

Temperatures 22 degrees below zero Fahrenheit and fierce winds whipped from the Black sea claimed many victims among the hundreds of thousands of homeless driven into the fields and mountain fastnesses.

Whole villages were buried under the steep cliffs of the Janik mountains which skirt the Black sea shore on the Turkish-Armenian border.

Water Supply Frozen.

In the Erzincan region, high in the mountains of Armenia, there were 41,000 killed and injured.

Every building in the district of Erzincan was in ruins, and fires were raging. A message from the governor general said many were frozen to death. The water supply was frozen and prevented effective fire fighting.

Reports from Erzincan province said virtually every one of the 16,000 inhabitants of the ancient town of that name was killed or injured. They were trapped in their beds by the first shocks.

1,000 Houses Razed in Town.

In the district of Sivas, the little town of Zara had 1,500 inhabitants killed and 1,000 houses destroyed.

The quakes caused frightful destruction in Hafik, Bayburt, Susehri, Sharkishla, Kuyuluhissar, Terdcan Trabzon, Vakfikebir, Machke, and Kirasun.

The ministers of health and interior left Ankara for Erzincan, and several medical squads were sent to the stricken region from nearby districts. A national emergency committee was gathering funds and directing rescue work.

Martial law was proclaimed throughout the quake zone, and military and police squads were on patrol with orders to shoot any one caught looting.

Children Hide in Woods.

As special trains arrived in the quake districts with nurses, doctors, and relief workers many children were found hiding in the woods in a miserable condition from cold, hunger, and fright.

Panic still was strong, and many of the population were seen prostrate in prayer before collapsed mosques. Officials feared that hundreds of thousands were wandering in open fields without shelter, prey of constant snowfall and bitter cold.

Reports from districts other than Erzincan indicated the toll of dead elsewhere was far above previous estimates, but the chaos in communications was so great it was impossible to obtain many details of the catastrophe.

Water and gas mains were ripped under as the earth buiged in some places and burst open in gaping crevasse in others.

The measure of the disaster in Anatolia, a region often visited by earthquakes along with the fear of epidemics as a result of the difficulties of getting relief to the stricken thousands—grew as the day advanced.

The first report was that total known casualties for the whole of Anatolia had been estimated unofficially at 9,000 persons. Later the dead alone were placed at a minimum of 20,000.

Seaside Fomes Destroyed.

Fierce winds whipped the Black sea into fury and sent it pounding against the coast and destroying seaside homes and spreading havoc among ships.

The battering by wind and waves followed a heavy storm which had swept the coast for two days before

QUIZ 7 IN LABOR SLUGGING; HOLD GARAGE PICKETS

Victim Unconscious Day After Beating.

Marinus Hvid.

Detectives from State's Attorney Courtney's office, investigating the slugging and serious injury on Wednesday night of a garage owner, yesterday raided the offices of a labor union and a garage owners' association. The victim, Marinus Hvid of 438 Briar place, had had trouble with both organizations.

The heads of the union and the association were seized, questioned, and released with instructions to return today. Town Hall police held two members of the union and a former member, who have been picketing the Hvid garage at 3514 North Halsted street for months.

Victim Critically Injured.

Hvid, who is 51 years old and the father of four children, was reported in a critical condition last night in the John B. Murphy hospital. He was unconscious. His jaw, skull, and a vertebra had been fractured, supposedly with a baseball bat wielded by one of his attackers.

The assault took place in front of 655 Buckingham place, where Hvid had driven in the car of Milton Cohen, one of his customers. As Cohen stepped out and started to the door of his apartment, two men dragged Hvid to the street and began slugging him. Cohen told police a club or bat was used.

Capt. Daniel Gilbert, chief of the state's attorney's police, ordered the office raids after Mrs. Dagmar Hvid, wife of the injured man, told of terrorism that had been attempted against him. Once, she said, some one had called her on the telephone and informed her Hvid had been killed by labor sluggers.

Union's Records Seized.

The union raided is local 727 of the Auto Livery Chauffeurs, Drivers, and Garage Helpers, 220 South Ashland avenue, an American Federation of Labor affiliate. It is a member of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters. Edward Reilly, the union president, was taken into custody for questioning and all the union records were seized.

The second raid was made on the headquarters of the Affiliated Garages of Chicago, 134 North La Salle street. Those questioned as a result of this visit are Emil Mermall, executive director; Miss Mary Mack, 1032 North Dearborn street, a clerk, and Ben Chase, 3828 Maypole avenue, a solicitor.

From Miss Mack, Assistant State's Attorney William Crawford learned that the Affiliated Garages has between 350 and 400 members, and that the income exceeds $2,000 a month. Mermall, she said, was paid $100 a week salary and allowed expenses.

Expelled Over Dues.

Hvid was expelled from the association last spring for failure to pay dues. Mermall and Miss Mack said that when this occurred the union headed by Reilly was notified. Crawford said that shortly afterward the union's picketing activities began.

Crawford was interested in Miss Mack's statement that members of the garage association were given preferential wage scales by Reilly's union. This was denied by Reilly. He asserted that altho he received the notification of the expulsion of Hvid his picketing had no other object than to get Hvid to pay a union wage scale.

Crawford's comment was that the picketing seemed to be "more than a coincidence." The books of both organizations are to be examined by auditors.

Mrs. Hvid said that her husband joined the association in 1938, but withdrew because he was informed he would have to pay a $75 fine or order one of his customers to return to a garage the customer patronized formerly. She also said Hvid had

Milk Drivers Oust Fitchie and Sumner

Insurgent members of the Milk Wagon Drivers' union yesterday unseated the two men who have been dictators of the union's affairs since the early 1900s. In the first election held by the organization since 1921 the drivers ousted from office Robert G. Fitchie, president since 1906, and Steve Sumner, 90 years old, secretary-treasurer, who began as business agent in 1902.

Fitchie was beaten decisively, running third to Henry Weber, who got 2,023 votes to 680 for Harry Van Asten and 654 for Fitchie. Sumner lost his office to Thomas J. Haggerty, who collected 1,784 votes to the veteran's 1,261.

No Disorder in Voting.

The election, held in the hall at 330 South Marshfield avenue, was quiet. There was some last minute electioneering and drivers milled about waiting for results, but police assigned to prevent disorder found they had nothing to do.

Weber, the new president of the union, is a wholesale driver in the loop for the Bowman Dairy company. He was a leader in the movement to bring new blood into the union offices. He and his followers decried the "lifetime officer" principle as undemocratic.

James Kennedy was reëlected vice president, polling 3,160 votes to 938 for Peter Didier. The business agents, Ray Bryant and Al Richards, also retained their offices, with Richards leading the eight candidates with 2,272 votes and Bryant ranking next with 1,241. Gus Moline defeated Joseph Patterson, the custodian and trustee.

4,093 Out of 4,700 Vote.

There were 4,093 votes cast out of the union's membership of 4,700. Fitchie had two other rivals for the presidency in addition to Weber and Van Asten. They were Al M. Grant, who got 621 votes, and Walter Thomsen, who received 137. The other candidates for Sumner's place besides Haggerty, who won, were George Bender, 769 votes, and William Delesandro, 292.

The election was supervised by Leslie G. Goudie, president of the teamsters' joint council. The vote was held on orders from the parent body of the drivers' union, the International Brotherhood of Chauffeurs, Teamsters, Stablemen, and Helpers, an American Federation of Labor affiliate. Certified public accountants were brought in to count the ballots. The counting was completed early this morning, some five hours after the polls closed.

Weber and Hoban thanked their followers. Fitchie had little to say, echoing Sumner's statement that "it's just one of those things. The young fellows wanted to move in, so we'll have to step out."

Sumner a Power Since 1902.

Sumner, short and stocky and square jawed, was in command of the union when many of its present members were baby consumers of the product they now deliver. He was known as a direct actionist and more than once became involved in tilts with police.

Some 30 years ago he invaded saloons which sold liquor to his drivers and employed demonstrative tactics in efforts to halt that practice. In 1917 he ran afoul of the law when he urged garment workers on strike to picket in spite of an injunction. For that he served 32 days in jail. In 1921 and in 1925 he and fellow union officials were indicted on charges of conspiracy.

Sumner and Fitchie in 1931 and 1932 successfully resisted the efforts of the Capone mob to muscle into the union. In 1931 Fitchie was kidnaped and ransomed for $50,000, which Sumner paid. Sumner later named Murray Humphries as the ransom collector. The rank and file of the union admired Sumner's spunky showing against the hoodlums.

REUNION OF QUINTS WITH THEIR FAMILY SEEN IN NEAR FUTURE

CALLANDER, Ont., Dec. 28.—The Dionne quintuplets are going home to their father and mother, it was reported tonight. The reunion was virtually assured, it was believed, by a formal agreement in which Dr. Alan Roy Dafoe, who brought the famous children into the world, was said to have agreed to resign as one of their guardians. The document, already signed by Oliva Dionne, the girls' father, became formal when Dr. Dafoe was said to have affixed his signature. The agreement apparently marked the end of a dispute over the custody, care, and future of the famous five little girls, now approaching their sixth birthdays.

Dr. Dafoe will remain the personal physician of the quints, "in full charge of their health and hygiene," according to the terms of the reported agreement. Since a few days after their birth the children have officially been wards of the province of Ontario and this condition will continue.

Snow Scatters Flivver Flyers Over 3 States

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Louisville, Ky., Dec. 28.—The 1940 flivver plane cavalcade to Florida is to have an unsurpassed record for amazing and laughable aeronautical adventures, it became apparent tonight. The first day's flying for the 30 sportsmen pilots participating from the middle west came to an end here at dusk.

For the first item there were 75 of the little 40 to 75 horsepower single and two place planes staked out in eight inches of snow on the airport as darkness fell. Apparently the pilots who found Louisville were the exception rather than the rule.

Flight leaders who are shepherding the middle western contingent received reports that another 200 planes which started for Louisville this morning were down at other airports and in some instances in pastures and barn lots. These planes are carrying 400 persons.

Flying Weather Is Bad.

Difficult flying conditions with low ceilings, poor visibility, and plenty of snow were responsible for the straggling of the aerial tourists. Many pilots didn't get away from their home fields. Others found the going too tough and landed in South Bend, Ind.; Bloomington, Ill.; Indianapolis, and Lafayette, Ind.

A check among the known participants tonight disclosed that while at least four planes are unaccounted for, no one is worried particularly. The theory is that if there had been accidents they would have been reported.

When the Tribune's tour plane and this writer landed in Louisville at 2 p. m. there were only five of the little flivvers on the airport. Immediately afterward they began arriving singly and in groups of from three to seven.

Fly in All Directions.

"They're swarming down on the field like a lot of locusts," said Richard Fender, civil aeronautics authority inspector who is taking the tour with the central division. "I've been herding them back on course all day and they're due in immediately."

Within the next hour the rain of

BRITAIN EXTENDS FOOD RATIONS TO MEAT AND SUGAR

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 28.—The British public, already feeling the pinch of wartime food shortage and soaring prices, was told tonight it would have to tighten its belt another couple of notches at the beginning of the new year.

W. S. Morrison, minister of food in Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's war government, announced food rationing, which has been operating unofficially for the last month, would be extended and become effective officially on Jan. 8.

Contrary to expectations, not only butter, bacon, and ham, but also sugar will be rationed from that date. Rationing of meat will follow soon after, probably early in February, according to Morrison.

4 Ounces of Butter a Week.

Beginning Jan. 8 no one in this island kingdom will be allowed more than 4 ounces of butter, 4 ounces of bacon or ham, and 12 ounces of sugar a week.

The amount of the meat ration has not yet been announced, but housewives were ordered to register with retail butchers within the next 10 days if they want to obtain supplies for their families. Hotels and restaurants will tear off coupons from ration books of guests when they order meat with their meals.

Excluded from meat rationing will be tripe, liver, hearts, tongue, sweetbreads, kidneys, and chitterlings. In addition, meat pies, pastes, sausages, and brawn will be free from rationing subject to restrictions on meat content.

[Germany's weekly food rations for the average person are 1.1 pounds of meat, 3.95 ounces of butter, 2.37 ounces of lard, bacon, or tallow; 8.75 ounces of sugar, 5.3 pounds of bread or 4.1 pounds of bread and 13.1 ounces of flour, 4.37 ounces of margarine, 2.18 ounces of cheese or 4.37 ounces of whey cheese, and 3.5 ounces of marmalade.]

Government in Wheat Business.

Morrison furthermore announced that government control of live stock marketing will begin on Jan. 15. Under the scheme, the government will buy all fat cattle, sheep, and pigs from farmers and supervise control of slaughter and distribution.

Pork will be available to the public thru registered pork butchers, but a shortage of pork exists because of the conversion of pig meat into bacon. The government control system was expected to result in higher prices.

The food minister appealed to the public not to hoard sugar before rationing commences. He disclosed that a plan for an extra allowance of sugar for confectionery manufacturers, brewers, beekeepers, jam and marmalade makers was being worked out.

Comparison Is Drawn.

In the world war compulsory rationing was not introduced officially until February, 1918, or three and a half years after England declared war on Germany. Since the beginning of this month, however, British housewives have been unable to get more than four ounces of butter a week per person, owing to restrictions on supplies of retailers. The present war is four months old.

The food minister in announcing the new ration measures advanced two explanations. One was that space which would be filled by food cargoes in ships was needed to transport arms and munitions. The other was that money which ordinarily would be used to buy commodities abroad was required to purchase essential war materials.

Britain is dependent to a large extent on overseas sources for its food supplies and in decreeing the reduction of consumption, Morrison said: "By restricting the demand for imported foodstuffs our resources are made free for the needs of the war services. In this way every consumer will make an important contribution to the national war effort."

Domino Players Build Skylight to Cut Bills

Sharon, Wis., Dec. 28 [Special].—A domino playing coterie which has made the Will Davis blacksmith shop its headquarters for a decade has built a skylight in the roof to reduce electric bills. Davis, U. G. Kitely, P. Haageson, Joe Englehardt are the faithfuls who never miss a day playing dominos at the shop. No man, it is said, retains the championship longer than two days at a time. Games are played in a lean-to addition to the blacksmith shop, which also serves as the office. Nail keg chairs are used and an old fashioned stove heats the room.

FINNS IN RAIDS FROM AIR HALT ATTACK ON CITY

3 Ski Units Cross Soviet Border.

BULLETIN.

HELSINGFORS, Dec. 29, Friday (AP).—The soviet Russian air force opened a new attack on southwestern Finland today, bombing railway junctions at Hyvinkaa, Riihimaki, and Karjaa. The results of the raids were not at once disclosed. During the night the coastal towns of Kotka and Porvoo also were bombed. There were air raid warnings at the Hanko naval base, on the southwestern coast.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Dec. 29, Friday (AP).—Finnish aviators were reported today to have silenced with bombs the long range Russian cannon which have been shelling Viipuri [Viborg]. The flyers thus were said to have relieved the pressure on Finland's second largest city, which has been bombed by day and shelled by night for a week.

Helsingfors had an air raid alarm for 40 minutes thru last midnight, but no planes were heard or seen.

The Finnish army held its ground in desperate battles on the ice of the Karelian isthmus, yesterday's military communique reported.

Three Spearheads in Russia.

The communique also indicated that fast moving ski troops had crossed the Russian border at three places on the eastern front—two of the points being east of Lieksa and the other east of Salla.

[Dispatches received in Stockholm from the Salla front, however, reported a new Russian assault supported by hundreds of new quick firing field pieces. The reports said that in the latest soviet effort to drive a wedge thru the narrow portion of central Finland to Sweden the Russians at one point became confused because of a lack of knowledge of the terrain and poured murderous artillery fire into their own troops.]

The official communique said the Finns had annihilated two more companies of Russians in a savage hand to hand battle on the ice of Lake Suvanto, eastern key of the Karelian isthmus Mannerheim line.

Cross Lake; Driven Back.

"The battle was fierce," said the terse Finnish army communique, which told of renewal of Russian attempts to break the Mannerheim line. The Red army was reported to have left 700 dead on the frozen surface of Lake Suvanto, in front of this line, last Tuesday.

This time, the Finns said, the Russians actually succeeded in crossing the lake to reach Finnish defenses on the rugged north shore, but they were driven back.

"The enemy again left numerous dead on the ice," said the army's story.

Summarizing the fighting of Dec. 27 in the fourth week of the war, the communique said nine soviet Russian planes had been shot down.

On the eastern front, 185 miles north of Lake Suvanto, the communique said, the Russians were "foiled" in fighting that was still proceeding east of Lieksa. "The enemy also has been pushed back across the frontier northeast of Lieksa," the communique added.

Ski Troops in the Van.

It is in the Lieksa area that a flying battalion of white clad "ski raiders" was reported to have crossed the frontier in an effort to stab at the main Russian line of northern communications, the Murmansk-Leningrad railway. The railway is approximately 150 miles from the border in that vicinity.

About 225 miles farther north, in the Salla area, a third group of ski troops was reported on a daring raid in an effort to slip thru the Russian lines to cut the railway—only 45 or 50 miles from the border at that point. Favored by snow and dark skies, and with luck in dodging Russian troops, ski raiders are able to travel 30 to 35 miles in a day.

Unconfirmed reports said some of these raiders already had reached the railway.

Finland's ski troops travel with 40 to 50 pounds on their backs—their rations and blankets—and carry light machine guns and even light artillery pieces with them. They also can carry explosives for blowing up a railway.

Yesterday's communique said, "Our own aircraft carried out, in addition to reconnaissance [scouting] and patrol flights, attacks on military objectives in the enemy's rear, on both sides of the frontier."

Soviet air raids were called "minor." Coastal points and the districts about Lahti, Tampere, the munitions center; Hameenlinna, and Riihimaki were attacked from the air, but the Finns said the damage was "relatively slight," except at Lahti where the city hall was set afire.

Aside from the fighting at Lake Suvanto, the Finnish command said the Russians made a tank supported drive between Matjalahti and Summa on the Karelian isthmus but were repulsed. There was intense artillery fire in some places elsewhere on the isthmus.

Fight Day Long Battle.

On the eastern front, in addition to the fighting around Lieksa, the Finns said a day long battle had taken place north of Suomussalmi, around Lake Kiantajarvi. The lake is about 115 miles north of Lieksa.

Farther north, in the region of Petsamo, Finnish port on the Arctic ocean, Russian troops started digging an extensive trench system south of Salmijarvi, indicating they had come to the end of a five day withdrawal.

Three contingents of Swedish volunteers are reported to have left for Finland, while the Norwegian Telegram bureau said in a dispatch from Oslo today that a "Nordic division" composed of Scandinavian volunteers was being formed. Only experienced winter sportsmen and ski experts were being accepted, the bureau said.

Report Italian Planes.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Dec. 29, Friday (AP).—Persistent reports which lacked official confirmation said today that Italian aviators, arriving at Tornio, Finnish port at the head of the Gulf of Bothnia, had brought along airplanes to attack Russia's vital Murmansk railway. British reports from Helsingfors said 2,000 Italian volunteers had arrived at Tornio to help the Finns.

Gift of 20,000 Skis.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Dec. 28 (AP).—More than 20,000 skis make up Sweden's latest contribution to the Finnish army. Their imagination captured by the accomplishments of the white clad Finnish ski troops, hundreds of Swedish citizens have brought their skis to agencies collecting materials for the Finns.

Norway States Position.

OSLO, Norway, Dec. 28 (AP).—Foreign Minister Dr. Halvdan Koht said in a radio address today that Norway under no circumstances could give military aid to Finland. Norway's attitude, as he outlined it, was one of readiness to lend moral or material help, but no soldiers.

"Our military establishment was created for defense and is unsuited for war outside the country," he said.

Meanwhile, an increasing number of volunteers, including many physicians, were departing to help the Finns.

Norwegian money contributions to Finland have reached a total of 8,000,000 kroner [about $1,816,000] and still are pouring in.

HOOVER PRAISES NATION'S ACTION TO ASSIST FINNS

All over America people are responding to the Finnish relief fund campaign as a national obligation, Herbert Hoover declared yesterday on arriving from the east. Hoover, who is national chairman of the drive, spent the day in Chicago to complete its organization in the middle west.

The campaign is meeting with a wider and more spontaneous support than any movement for the relief of humanity since the world war, Hoover said. Altho the drive is only 12 days old, $300,000 already has been dispatched to Finland for civilian relief, the former President said.

Hoover congratulated Philip R. Clarke, local chairman of the campaign, for his successful solicitation of aid for the Finns in Chicago.

The Chicago fund yesterday passed $38,000, the quota here being $100,000. Among the contributions received yesterday were those of $200 from Arch W. Shaw, 50 Locust road, Winnetka, long a close friend of Hoover; $500 from the Great States Theaters, $250 from John Stuart, $100 from Thomas E. Wilson, and $100 from the N. Shure company.

Pick Site in Philippines for Colony of 10,000 Jews

MANILA, Dec. 28 (AP).—The Jewish refugee committee of New York has selected Bukidnon province in the fertile central portion of Mindanao Island for settlement of 10,000 Jewish refugees, authoritative sources said today. It was understood the committee purchased, subject to governmental approval, a large cattle ranch as the nucleus of the proposed community.

Russians Launch New Offensive

MOSCOW MOVES HERO OF FAR EAST TO FINNISH FRONT

Replaces Commander of Leningrad Area.

MOSCOW, Dec. 29, Friday (AP).—Soviet Russia today put its military hero of the 1938 far eastern "vest pocket war" in charge of the invasion of Finland and gave official indication of dissatisfaction with foreign news accounts of the way that that campaign is progressing by restoring a rigid censorship on outgoing news dispatches.

Gen. G. M. Shtern.

Gen. Gregory M. Shtern, one of the soviet's youngest military leaders and a shining figure in one or perhaps two "border wars" against the Japanese, was reliably reported to have been appointed chief of the Leningrad military district, where he will be in charge of a reënforced Red army to prosecute the Finnish war.

[A Copenhagen dispatch said a neutral correspondent reported that German officers were with the Russians fighting on the Karelian isthmus.]

Predecessor Must Explain.

Gen. K. A. Meretskov, who has been chief of staff of the Leningrad district, was understood on Dec. 22 to have been called upon for an explanation of his failure to score more impressive successes in Finland and to have been dismissed from his post.

Altho Gen. Meretskov seemed to have lost favor, he was elected to the Leningrad local soviet two days after his reported dismissal from the Leningrad command, and appeared to have retained his rank of general.

Gen. Shtern, as chief of the first Primorsk army, commanded soviet troops in the month long clashes at Changkufeng hill, in the triangle of the Corean, Manchukuan, and Siberian borders, in 1938.

Decorated for Victory.

The "vest pocket war" ended in a truce on Aug. 11. Gen. Shtern was decorated with the order of the Red banner, and soviet Russia celebrated the anniversary of a "glorious victory" last August.

Later Gen. Shtern was replaced by Gen. Ivan Popov in the far east. There were reports Gen. Shtern had been transferred to another post, perhaps to Outer Mongolia where four months of clashes on the Manchukuan border were ended in a truce last September. Gen. Shtern had replaced Gen. Vassily Bluecher as the far east commander at the time of the Changkufeng fighting.

The commissariat of foreign affairs announced that censorship had been restored, an apparent indication of increasing Russian dissatisfaction with foreign news reports. Some of these dispatches have not confined themselves to the cryptic military communiques dealing with the Finnish war.

Reds Report "No News."

Tonight's communique, for instance, was one of a long series failing to report any important Red army success, and giving the impression that only minor skirmishes are taking place. It said:

"There were no events of importance at the front on Dec. 28."

[Soviet Russia formerly had a rigid censorship, but it was abolished about a month before Germany went to war. As in Germany and Italy, however, foreign correspondents continued under a strong personal responsibility for the dispatches they sent, altho the dispatches were not subjected to the censor's pencil before publication.]

FIND MORE MUNITIONS IN SEARCH FOR LOOT FROM DUBLIN ARSENAL

DUBLIN, Ireland, Dec. 28 (AP).—Recovery of several new caches of stolen ammunition was reported tonight after the government of Ireland had offered a reward of 1,000 pounds [about $4,000] for clews leading to the munitions stolen from the Phoenix Park army arsenal. The theft had been laid to the outlawed Irish Republican army.

Approximately three tons of cartridges were understood to have been found in Meath and Louth counties. How much of the 1,000,000 rounds stolen is still unrecovered was not disclosed. Twenty suspects were in prison under heavy guard for possible identification by arsenal guards.

243 Jews in British Force in France; May Send Rabbi

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 28.—London newspapers reported today that there are 243 Jews among the 200,000 officers and men who make up the British expeditionary force in France. The war office is discussing the desirability of sending a rabbi to France.

ITALY'S CAPTURE OF TRADE AT SEA UPSETS BRITAIN

London Eyes War Stand of Rome and Madrid.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 28.—The position of Italy and Spain in this war is receiving an increasing amount of studious appraisal by Great Britain's writers and politicians. President Roosevelt's appointment of Myron C. Taylor as his special representative to the Vatican also serves to focus interest on the Mediterranean and on the attitude of the two biggest Mediterranean powers.

The departure of William C. Bullitt, American ambassador to France, for North Africa, excites further comment. He left Paris "incognito."

Italy's attitude toward the war comes first in interest, but hardly less is Spain's attitude. The belief that the Rome-Berlin axis has wobbled became less certain after the latest pronouncements of Fascism's grand council, reaffirming Italy's military alliance with Germany and warning Britain and France to keep their hands off Italian shipping.

Italy Wins Sea Trade.

Nevertheless the British still believe that the trend of the Italian policy is toward the empires—not because Italy loves them more, but because she loves the Germans and Russians less.

Aside from this, anxious eyes are turned toward Italy, whose influence as a Catholic power is powerful in Spain for the reason that Premier Mussolini's government is capturing a great deal of sea trade.

Genoa is becoming the center of a shipping boom, London newspapers say. Ships leave the mine sown North Atlantic and enter the Mediterranean. Ships of the Italian Line have been doing an enormous business and soon the United States Line ships, Manhattan and Washington, which used to call at Southampton, will visit Genoa. Netherlands ships from Batavia, Java, also will call at Italian ports and cargoes and passengers will travel overland instead of risking a dash thru the English channel.

The Scandinavian countries also are likely to make Genoa their clearing house with goods being sent overland. A Swedish delegation is visiting Italy to discuss the matter.

Italy Builds More Ships.

When John Bull reflects on this his head splits with pain, especially as Italian shipyards, like Britain's, are active and Italy claims to have one of the largest merchant fleets in Europe. At present 42 vessels, totaling 200,000 tons, are being built in Italian yards.

All diplomats know that factories in northern Italy are receiving raw materials which they are turning into war equipment and munitions and shipping them across the frontier to France. In other words, northern Italy is becoming a French arsenal even tho French blue devils guard the mountain passes along one side of the Alps and Black Shirts guard the Italian passes on the opposite side of the mountains.

Hear Franco's Prestige Slips.

There are rumors here that the monarchist movement backed by France and Britain is growing in Spain and that Generalissimo Francisco Franco's prestige is slipping. The empires are making furious efforts to tie up Spain's economic resources at the same time that the Germans and Italians are trying to hold on to what they got during the civil war.

Meager sources of information indicate that it is an even struggle. But the British do not underestimate the strength which both Italy and Germany retain in Spain.

The British fear that the official sympathy in Spain, at least, is on the side of Germany. If Germany should ever quarrel with Russia, Spain's sympathy for Germany would not be concealed.

The Spanish newspaper, Diaro de Burgos, under the heading "Geographical Realities," recently attacked Britain. In London, it was said, the attack was inspired by Germans in Spain. The newspaper declared that without interference of Britain the totalitarian states would soon come to an understanding and Europe would again become mistress of the world. The article added:

"Perhaps Britain would have been better off to have admitted that her place in Europe ought to be reduced to the modest space that with her little isle she occupies in continental Europe, for no European state ever prevented her expansion in other continents and seas.

Sees Britain's Destruction.

"The question of suzerainty is under discussion. If the triumph of Germany would mean an advance toward the unity of Europe the ideal of Britain would be to convert Europe into one more part of her dominions. But the British giant has clay feet. It is bound to disappear like the other empires.

"A rout for Germany or France would mean a decline for a few years. But both nations, more or less battered, still would have their own national territory as Spain still occupies her own. But a rout or revolution for Britain would signify her death. The powerful British empire would crumble as a castle made of cards."

ROB CLEVELAND RELIEF HEAD OF CASH AND AUTO

Cleveland, O., Dec. 28 (AP).—Frank G. Jones, Cleveland's commissioner of relief, returned home this afternoon to end a search by police. His automobile had been found wrecked early this morning with Jones missing.

Jones, with a swollen lip and a forehead bruise, said he was slugged, robbed of $12, and left along a snowy highway by a man and a woman who solicited a ride from him.

Police who arrested a man and a woman near the wreck scene said the man—a burglar on parole—confessed the robbery.

Hotel Magnate Reported Seriously Ill in New York

New York, Dec. 28 (AP).—Postgraduate hospital reported today as very serious the condition of Ralph Hitz, 48 years old, a chain hotel operator, who is suffering from a complication of ailments. Hitz entered the hospital two weeks ago for observation and rest before going south for a vacation. Born in Vienna, Austria, in 1891, he came to the United States in 1906, and has been president of the National Hotel Management Company, Inc., since 1932. This company operates the Congress hotel in Chicago.

ONLY BEGINNING YOUR SACRIFICE, FRENCH WARNED

Are Told They Must Make Each Sou Count.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Dec. 28.—Paul Reynaud, minister of finance, today told the French senate that time, which generally is assumed to be working for France and Great Britain, still is neutral and it depended on France and French citizens to make it an ally. Reynaud said that to win the war against Germany every French citizen must be prepared to make great personal sacrifices.

The finance minister said the government was taking every precaution against the danger of continuing the totalitarian economy after peace is won. He added that prolongation of the economic and financial accord with England—pooling resources until six months after the end of the war—was intended to prevent disorganization during the change from war to peacetime economy.

For Purchases Abroad.

Reynaud admitted the war had raised economic and financial problems capable of creating a monster Moloch state. He defined the problem as one of necessity to find francs for purchases abroad.

[Moloch was an ancient Semitic deity, probably a fire or sun god, whose worship was accompanied by human sacrifice.]

It was vital, Reynaud said, that both the government and citizens spend not one sou unnecessarily. He recommended that every government and military leader repeat every morning on awakening, "I will commit today a crime against my country if thru negligence or laziness I shut my eyes to unnecessary expenditure." Reynaud also urged that all savings made by personal sacrifices—such as women going without the latest gowns and silk hose—be spent in subscribing to government bonds.

Condemns Instalment Buying.

He condemned instalment buying of automobiles not only because their construction deprived the army of skilled mechanics but because the money could better be invested in bonds, which would be a real aid to the country. For foreign exchange he urged prohibition of tobacco, automobile and other luxury importations, and increased production for foreign commerce.

Hopeful of preventing inflation, Reynaud separated the civil budget of 80 billion francs [about $1,800,000,000] from the war budget, which will be met by loans. Altho the civil budget is twice that of any in the last four years, it is being fully met by receipts, the finance minister declared. He derided so-called experts who pretend to guess what the war actually will cost.

LOSS OF THREE SHIPS, ONE A NAVY TRAWLER, REPORTED IN ENGLAND

LONDON, Dec. 28 (AP).—Three ships, one a British naval trawler, Loch Doon, were reported sunk today. British officials said the 534 ton Loch Doon was long overdue and that her crew of 15 must be presumed lost. Also believed lost with her crew of 13 was the British steamer Moortoft, 873 tons. The Danish steamer Hanne, 1,080 tons, was sunk by a mine off northeast England.

The Royal Mail Lines announced eight survivors of the British cargo liner Navasota, sunk in the Atlantic Dec. 8, had landed Christmas day at Capetown, South Africa. Two others died on the rescue steamer. The captain and 34 others were missing after the 8,795 ton vessel sank.

Land Germans in Spain.

CADIZ, Spain, Dec. 28 (AP).—Part of the crew of the German cargo vessel Glucksburg, 2,680 tons, which went aground near San Lucar de Barrameda landed today at Port Bonanza while others remained aboard to attempt salvage. A British warship pursued the German ship toward Spain's Atlantic coast but withdrew when a Spanish torpedoboat signaled that it was in Spanish territorial waters.

Schools Report 6 Per Cent Fewer Aspiring Lawyers

The number of young men seeking to become lawyers is decreasing, said Dr. Wilbur H. Cherry, professor of law at the University of Minnesota and president of the Association of American Law Schools yesterday. He addressed the association's annual meeting in the Palmer House. Dr. Cherry said 33,494 students were enrolled in the nation's 166 law schools this year, a decrease of 6 per cent from 1938.

ARMY HEAD HITS HISTORIANS FOR WASTEFUL WARS

Calls on Schools to Bare Lessons of Past.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—General George C. Marshall, chief of staff of the United States army, exploded an oratorical bomb in the laps of several hundred historians today by attributing colossal wastefulness in past wars to botchy histories and slipshod teaching of the lessons of the past.

Gen. G. C. Marshall.

The mild-mannered head of the army jarred a joint meeting of the American Historical association and the American Military institute with the assertion that deficient teaching methods resulted in decreasing national defense efficiency and led to costly errors in war.

He called for histories which would detail America's mistakes in war as an example to the present and which would recite the causes and effects of war in their relation to the national defense.

Thomas Defends Teachers.

The general's scholarly assault brought Senator Elbert D. Thomas (D., Utah.), member of the senate military affairs committee, to his feet in defense of the teachers. He insisted it would be dangerous for persons in public life, including teachers, to call attention to unpatriotic and blundering soldiers and the nation's inefficiency in war.

There was no exchange between the soldier and the senator. Thomas suggested the army and navy do a better job of training personnel to teach history properly and insisted he had thrown the general's challenge to historians and teachers back to the general.

Marshall launched his attack on historians and teachers of history in an extemporaneous address before the group.

Errors Glossed Over.

"We are taught that we have won all the wars in which we participated," he said.

"We are given the comfortable belief of our invincibility.

"We are told of our victories, but our defeats, our errors are glossed over. The causes, the effects of war are ignored.

"I believe that much of the colossal waste, much of the tragedy of war are due to the ineffective manner in which history is written and taught."

The general cited the Spanish-American and world wars as evidence that if the truth had been told misfortune could have been avoided.

"We read of our victory in the war with Spain in 1898, but we do not read that we went into that war totally unprepared," he said.

Read Only of Victories.

"We read of our victories in the world war, but we are not told that it was a year and a half before we put an army into the field in France and that even then most of our weapons and our ammunition were furnished by our allies.

"We are not told of the untrained men who were sent to war—a thing that is costly and tragic. Instead of being told the true condition of things, we are told of nothing but victories. We are not told of causes or consequences."

Gen. Marshall revamped Sherman's famous statement on war by labeling it as a disease. The civil war general bluntly defined war as "hell."

"War is a deadly disease that today is affecting hundreds of millions of people in all parts of the world," he continued. "What we must do is determine the nature of war. We must isolate the germ, and then we must destroy the germ.

"Before we can do that we must have better histories and better teaching. The student must be told what happened and why.

"In time of emergency members of congress pass legislation to give the army what it needs, but if history were to tell the true facts, it would reveal that the cycle has been the same in every war.

"First the army is given what it needs and then after the war the good work is undone. There are war debts, higher taxes. Appropriations are cut down. Pressure of public opinion is put on to cut expenses. The army sinks back to a state of unpreparedness."

Urges Proper Groundwork.

The general said that the public should understand the requirements of national defense in times of peace, so that the army would not be allowed to fall into decay, so that huge, wasteful outlays would not be made in periods of emergency.

The army's commander said the press and radio are doing excellent educational work, but historians and teachers of history should lay the proper groundwork.

As the result of war lessons, the national defense act of 1920 was passed, but it was scarcely on the books before the same old cycle set in and the authorized standing army of 280,000 was cut to 115,000 and the authorized National Guard of 420,000 was cut to 175,000, Gen. Marshall said.

"We slipped back to where we were before the war," the general concluded, "and all because of the fundamental question of public understanding.

"Now we are building up an adequate force for defense of the nation. It takes time to raise an army and train men. The navy in peacetime has 75 per cent of its war strength. The army has less than 25."

Sues for Divorce

ARLINE JUDGE.

Bridgeport, Conn., Dec. 28 [Special].—Arline Judge, brunette beauty of the screen, today filed suit for divorce in Bridgeport against Daniel Reid Topping, millionaire Greenwich sportsman and owner of the Brooklyn Dodgers football team.

A statement by lawyers for both sides indicated a friendly agreement. The attorneys said Arline's recently filed separation suit would be dropped and that there would be an out-of-court settlement of alimony and custody of their son, Daniel Reid Topping Jr., born Feb. 2, 1938.

SWISS PUT 'ARMY OF UNEMPLOYED' IN REGULAR ARMY

Make Them Build Roads, Forts; Dole Ended.

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BASEL, Switzerland, Dec. 28.—Swiss unemployed today were pressed into service in the army to construct roads and fortifications.

The jobless will be put in uniform and will get army pay of 2 francs daily [about 45 cents] plus 2 to 3 francs for family allowance. The 5 to 6 francs they received as a dole will cease. About the same amount of money is received in the army, but the reliefers do not like it because in the army they have to work for the cash instead of getting a dole.

This action was protested by the Schweizerischer Gewerkschaftsbund labor union which assailed the rate of pay as being under union scale. However, the public which foots the bills is strongly in back of the move.

The general public, however, fears men pressed into service will soldier on the job. Mobilization and taxes cost every Swiss a minimum of 1 franc daily and they want to get all they can for their money.

New Army Corps to Be Formed.

BERNE, Dec. 28 (AP).—Generalissimo Henri Guisan today ordered formation of a new Swiss army corps to bulwark the country's defenses before the border foothills are cleared of snow in the spring.

The Swiss army had been based on three corps. The fourth unit will includes between 80,000 and 100,000 men.

Thousands Being Reëxamined.

Thousands of persons previously excused from military service are being re-examined, it was reported, with about 60 per cent declared fit for call if necessary. Even blind persons were being placed on reserve lists for use in anti-aircraft listening posts. The reorganization extends the service eligibility from 48 to 60 years.

Two newspapers, the pro-Nazi Neue Basler Zeitung and the communist Daily Freiheit, were banned today by the general staff because both "continually compromise Switzerland's independence and neutrality by their attitudes."

Liechtenstein Prince Gives Holiday Gift to Each Pupil

VADUZ, Liechtenstein, Dec. 28 (AP).—Each of Liechtenstein's 1,800 school children was given a present of five Swiss francs [about $1.15] when they went to school today. The coins were a holiday gift from the young ruling prince, Francis Josef, who has left Germany and moved into a castle overlooking the principality's 65 square miles, for the first time since he was crowned his uncle's heir last year.

32 Years in Service, Dutch Liner Makes Last Voyage

AMSTERDAM, Dec. 28.—The liner Rotterdam returned home tonight after her last Atlantic crossing, leaving the service after a prosperous 32 years. She is considered as not worth passing the obligatory survey for 1940. The Holland-America Line owns sufficient ships to replace the Rotterdam.

King Boris Receives First Jap Minister to Bulgaria

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Dec. 28.—Teroo Hashia, the first Japanese minister to Bulgaria, presented his credentials today to King Boris. Japan has shifted her headquarters for Balkan diplomatic work from Athens to Sofia. Japanese sources expressed the hope progress will be made in commercial relations with Bulgaria.

Bases for New Air Squadrons

Map locates the army air force bases to which 52 new coast defense squadrons will be assigned in the United States and the Caribbean area. Some of the squadrons also will go to Alaska and Hawaii, which are not shown.

CREATE 52 AIR SQUADRONS FOR COAST DEFENSE

West and Canal Zone to Get Planes.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—Creation of 52 new air force squadrons, effective Feb. 1, was announced today by the war department. Some of the unit designations will be new and others will be those of inactive units. Most of the personnel for the new units will be provided by recent expansion of the air corps.

A squadron is a flexible unit of from 6 to 18 planes. A group includes two or more squadrons.

A considerable proportion of the new units will go to Porto Rico and the Caribbean coast of the canal zone to swell the Caribbean defenses in keeping with plans to keep the American military and commercial artery open under all circumstances.

Strengthen Pacific Defenses.

Other groups will go to Alaska, Hawaii, and the Pacific coast of the canal zone to increase the effectiveness of the Pacific chain of air and naval bases being improved and created to make the nation safe from attack from the west.

To Porto Rico, headquarters of the recently created special naval district of the Caribbean and the army department of Porto Rico, the army will send the 25th bombardment group, consisting of a headquarters and headquarters squadron and three bombing squadrons of heavy bombers; the 36th pursuit group, consisting of a headquarters and a headquarters squadron and three pursuit squadrons, and the 24th base squadron.

The canal zone will get the 27th bombardment group of medium bombers, the 37th pursuit group and the 43d pursuit squadron for Albrook field, the 3d bombardment squadron of medium bombers and the 39th observation squadron for France field, and the 2d squadron of medium bombers.

Send Bombers to Alaska.

Alaska will get the 28th composite group of heavy bombers and pursuit planes and the 23d base squadron.

Hawaii will get the 11th bombardment group of medium bombers at Hickam field and the 86th observation and the 78th pursuit squadron for Wheeler field.

Among new groups which will be created for continental defense are the 29th bombardment group of heavy bombers for MacDill Field, Fla., the 27th bombardment group of light bombers for Barksdale Field, La., the 31st pursuit group for Mitchell Field, N. Y., and the 35th pursuit group for Moffett Field, Cal.

ARMED FRENCH LINER BRINGS TECHNICIANS TO AID WAR PURCHASES

New York, Dec. 28 (AP).—The armed French liner Oregon, which was diverted from her Pacific coast trade by the war, arrived today from Havre with five French technicians who said they would join their country's purchasing commission here. They refused to discuss their work.

Gun on French Liner.

The liner, armed with a .75 millimeter naval gun and an antiaircraft weapon, was camouflaged in a new pattern of light gray, dark gray, and blue geometrical designs.

The passengers included a German born San Francisco artist who spent three months in a French concentration camp. He was Franz Bergmann, 41 years old, who had some murals at the San Francisco fair. He was in Marseilles on Sept. 2 on a round the world pleasure trip, in Paris the next day, and on Sept. 6 in Rouen he wanted to communicate with friends in the United States. Display of his German passport brought quick arrest by Frenchmen and he was held three months until they were satisfied with their investigation.

GERMANS ROUTED IN HAND TO HAND FIGHT BY FRENCH

Repulse 2 Attacks; Clash All Along Front.

PARIS, Dec. 28 (AP).—French troops repulsed two German attacks yesterday, in one instance in a hand-to-hand combat, during a day of heightened patrol activity described by military sources today as extending all along the north flank of the western front.

The German actions were an offensive against a hamlet between the Saar river and the Vosges mountains.

The second raid was supported by artillery and mortar barrages. The German troops were forced to retire after hand to hand fighting, military advices said.

Both Sides' Patrols Busy.

Meanwhile, both French and German patrols operated on reconnaissance missions.

The allied communiques said there was "nothing to report" during last night and that today there was "reduced activity of contact units."

British Fly Over Germany.

LONDON, Dec. 28 (AP).—The air ministry today announced a "successful reconnaissance" flight over northwestern Germany from which one British plane failed to return.

[Yesterday's German communique said British planes had been driven off in a foray against the North sea coast and that a British plane was shot down.]

Lloyd's Tells Shipping Losses.

Lloyd's Shipping Gazette today said 205 allied and neutral vessels, with a total tonnage of 744,288, had been lost since the war started. The German loss was set at 22 vessels of 136,317 tons sunk and 19 ships aggregating 88,218 tons captured.

Non-German losses were listed as follows: British, 111 ships of 421,974 tons; French, 12 ships of 56,106 tons; Polish, one 14,234 vessel, and neutral, 81 ships of 251,914 tons.

Germans Report on Sinkings.

BERLIN, Dec. 28 (AP).—Official German figures today set allied and neutral shipping losses up to Dec. 20 at 279 merchant ships totalling 1,029,635 tons. Authorities acknowledged loss of 18 German ships of 128,689 tons, all but one of which were said to have been scuttled. They said the British lost 134 ships of 526,169 tons, the French 12 of 64,759 tons, and the neutrals 78 ships of 258,209 tons, sunk "with certainty."

SAY AFGHANISTAN TROOPS ARE PUT ON RED BORDER

ROME, Dec. 28 (AP).—Dispatches from Peshawar today said Afghanistan apparently was mobilizing her armed forces at the Russian border. The reports were denied by Afghanistan officials. The same advices said Iranian [Persian] troops were concentrating on the Russian-Iranian border between Kezuit and Tabriz and that at least 20,000 soldiers were massed between Hamadan and Kermanshah, near the southern tip of the Caspian sea. A British military mission was reported to have reached Koweit to direct construction of fortifications to defend the Gulf of Persia.

CANADIANS BEGIN TRAINING SECOND OVERSEAS FORCE

Montreal Soldiers Off for Toronto Camp.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 28.—Canada's second overseas division started to move into camp tonight to prepare for the day when it will follow the first Canadian soldiers to England, where the 1st division of the active service force arrived about two weeks ago.

Mustering began with the departure from Montreal for a Toronto camp of the 1st battalion, Black Watch [royal highland regiment] of Canada. At Notre Dame church in Montreal, Le Regiment de Maisonneuve, a crack French-Canadian unit, today deposited its colors for the duration of the war. This regiment will leave soon for Quebec for training.

Already in England are troops from India and Australia, as well as the first group of Canadians.

Attacks Defense Regulations.

The first legal attack was made today against defense regulations adopted by the dominion government as a war measure. R. L. Calder, Montreal lawyer, entered court to demand dismissal of charges against eight men and two women arrested for illegal distribution of antiwar literature.

He declared the defense regulations exceeded the powers accorded the dominion government under the war measures act, and were in contravention of the principles of democracy and of liberty of speech and press.

One of the women is the wife of the Quebec president of the communist party of Canada.

Seized in Series of Raids.

The men and women were arrested several weeks ago in coördinated raids by city, provincial, and royal Canadian mounted police. Others are being detained on similar charges in Toronto, Windsor, Calgary, and Vancouver.

BRITISH PROMOTE SEA OFFICER WHO FOUGHT THE SPEE

Commander Elevated to Post of Captain.

LONDON, Dec. 28 (AP).—Commander D. H. Everett of the cruiser Ajax was promoted today to the rank of captain for his part in the Dec. 13 naval battle with the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee. The Ajax was the first to sight the German raider and summoned two other cruisers, the Exeter and the Achilles, to help give battle. Engineer Commander L. C. S. Noake of the Ajax was named engineer captain. Lieutenant Commanders R. B. Jennings and C. J. Smith of the Exeter and P. T. A. Love of the Achilles were made commanders.

Warship Pauses at Rio.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Dec. 28 (AP).—The British cruiser Shropshire docked here today for provisions and fuel. The British naval attaché declined to say where she came from or where she is bound. The Shropshire, a 9,830 ton vessel with eight inch guns, will sail within the 24 hour time limit.

MORE DETAILS OF BATTLE

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Dec. 28.—Further dramatic details of the battle between the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee and three British cruisers off the coast of Uruguay have been disclosed here. The additional information, considered the most authentic yet disclosed on the progress of the daylong battle Dec. 13, indicated that misjudgment of the meaning of a smokescreen may have cost Capt. Hans Langsdorff of the Graf Spee the chance of avoiding a decisive action.

The participation of the British cruiser Exeter in the final stages of the battle also became known for the first time. It originally was thought that the Exeter, damaged early in the fight, had been forced to withdraw after only a few hours' cannonading.

Late in the Day.

Capt. Langsdorff apparently made his mistake late in the day as he neared a haven in Montevideo harbor. If the Graf Spee could have reached Punta del Este it would have escaped concentrated battle with the Exeter and the two other British cruisers, Ajax and Achilles, and would have been able to retreat without having run any particularly dangerous risks.

If this was Capt. Langsdorff's intention it was destroyed quickly when the approach of a great smoke screen off his port stern indicated the arrival of a naval force, the size of which he could not estimate. This smoke screen first appeared 22,000 yards away and approached at great speed. The smoke screen hid only the Ajax and the Achilles, but they succeeded in making Capt. Langsdorff believe there were more than two warships behind the screen.

Had His Course Set.

Capt. Langsdorff had set his course to run between Punte del Este and Lobos Island. At 6:30 p. m. the Exeter had drawn up to within 15,000 yards of the Admiral Graf Spee and almost directly behind. The Ajax and Achilles were then 15,700 yards away on the port side.

The Admiral Graf Spee passed Lobos Island at 7:18 p. m. The ships were then battling less than three miles from the Uruguayan shore line, and at 7:32 they entered the mouth of the Plate river, which is under joint Argentine-Uruguayan jurisdiction.

At 7:34 as the Admiral Graf Spee passed Point Ballena she turned toward open sea, at the same time laying a heavy smoke screen between her and the Exeter, which then was only 5,500 yards behind and firing effectively from that close range with its 8 inch guns. At 7:50, however, the Exeter was forced to withdraw from the battle, practically helpless from the battering it had received from the Admiral Graf Spee's guns.

The Ajax Retires.

During the fierce fighting between the Admiral Graf Spee and the Exeter, the Ajax and Achilles had drawn even with the German ship and as the Exeter fell back they fired on the Graf Spee with all guns from less than 6,000 yards. Return fire put out of action two turrets on the Ajax, which then retired from the battle at 8 o'clock behind a smoke screen laid down by the Achilles.

But the German ship took advantage of the smoke laying maneuver to change its course again, quitting the battle and making straight for Montevideo which she reached shortly before midnight.

The Achilles and Ajax stood guard outside Montevideo waters while the Exeter continued slowly toward Flores island with her dead and wounded. They still were waiting to renew the battle when Capt. Langsdorff, who later committed suicide in Buenos Aires, took the Admiral Graf Spee out into the river, set fire to and scuttled her.

Raeder Book Cited.

Despite this authentic reconstruction of the battle, naval experts still are wondering why the Admiral Graf Spee fled from her lighter foes, over which she was far superior in every way except speed. Some of the experts think they have found the answer in the first volume of "Cruiser Warfare in Foreign Waters" by Grand Admiral Erich Raeder, commander in chief of the German navy. In the book he wrote:

"He who conducts an offensive commercial war must, to comply with his mission, preserve at all times with the greatest care the speed and fighting condition of his ships, endeavoring to avoid any decrease in these primary qualities. For these reasons he must avoid combat in the first place because even if victorious the aforesaid qualities would be destroyed or permanently diminished, especially if he finds himself in circumstances that prevent him from finding supporting points at which to repair damages.

Spee About to Return Home.

"Finally this conduct is tied up with the danger already mentioned that a tactical success would leave ships damaged in such a form that without a long time spent in repairs they would not be in a condition to renew cruiser warfare against commerce or that the heavy consumption of ammunition would leave them prematurely incapacitated for battle."

Naval experts presume that Capt. Langsdorff was operating under orders based on these principles. On the morning of Dec. 13 the Admiral Graf Spee had been away from her base 100 days and was reportedly under orders to return to her base in the first two weeks of January. In accordance with the foregoing supposition regarding his orders he had to return to his base in good navigating condition and with sufficient ammunition. Hence the flight.

TELLS HOW YALE CLASSIFIES DATA ON CIVILIZATIONS

A plan under which specialized knowledge of the customs of people living in many civilizations, classified in minute detail, has been made available to scholars by Yale university, was described last night by Dr. George P. Murdock, head of Yale's department of anthropology. He spoke at the meeting of the American Anthropological association at the University of Chicago.

Dr. Murdock described the plan as a means of formulating scientific principles in the social sciences. He said that a scholar desiring to compare special customs of varied peoples, ancient and modern, would save much time by consulting the "cross-cultural survey," which contains transcripts of many documents that will throw light on the behavior of peoples.

REPORT 2 JAPS HELD FOR TAKING U. S. FORT PHOTO

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 28 (AP).—Unexplained secrecy surrounded the reported seizure and detention today of two Japanese who had been taking photographs around Fort MacArthur, United States army post at Los Angeles harbor, San Pedro.

The two were reported to have been detained for several hours for questioning by Fort MacArthur officers and it was said that the federal bureau of investigation had been called into the case.

Fort authorities would say nothing. Chief R. B. Hood of the F. B. I. here would neither confirm nor deny that any one had been detained.

There have been other instances of reported official concern over photographing at the harbor, altho photographing is common among sightseers, especially when naval ships are at close range in harbor.

Youth Congress Pledges Fight on Totalitarianism

The National Youth Anti-War congress, being held in International house at the University of Chicago, last night reaffirmed its opposition to all forms of totalitarianism, including "the steady encroachments on American liberties." The meeting is being attended by 400 delegates representing 3,500,000 youths in 39 states.

U. S. GRAND JURY TO INVESTIGATE SPY ACTIVITIES

Inquiry on Sabotage Also on Program.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28 (AP).—Attorney General Murphy disclosed today that a special grand jury would convene here Jan. 2 to investigate espionage and sabotage, and also announced that the justice department had undertaken a broad inquiry into anti-Semitic activities.

Questioned as to how the department would try to prosecute anti-Semitic organizations, the attorney general said that he would use the income tax, passport, and foreign agent laws.

Murphy said that the department had sent for certain persons in connection with the investigation, most of which would be carried on in New York by District Attorney John Cahill.

Quiz on Anti-Semitism.

Previously, the attorney general had said that his men were keeping watch on 700 or 800 organizations whose objectives were detrimental to the civil rights of some minorities. He explained that while the New York inquiry was centered largely on anti-Semitism, his department was as much concerned with activities against any other racial or religious groups.

Murphy said that the grand jury convening here Jan. 2 would make an exhaustive inquiry into espionage, sabotage, foreign agent activities, and alleged monopolistic practices in the building trades.

Reports of Sabotage.

There had been reports, he said, of sabotage in the automobile, airplane and munitions industries, and the investigation will extend to both coasts. Some of the information gathered by the special grand jury here will be parceled out for further action in various localities.

Murphy declared that while it was difficult to halt espionage, he felt that the department could do something about sabotage thru grand juries.

Reports from the automobile industry, he said, indicated that not much sabotage had occurred but that plans had been made for more by a "foreign nation."

Calls for Annenberg Trial.

Murphy also said that he had instructed United States District Attorney William J. Campbell to press for trial in Chicago of the income tax case of M. L. Annenberg, publisher of the Philadelphia Inquirer and former operator of a nation-wide racing service, by Jan. 15.

Discussing reports that a plea of guilty might be entered in the case, Murphy said it would be in the best interests of the public if the case went to trial because the importance of the case requires a full legal scrutiny of the facts involved.

Murphy said he believed that important legal cases should be fully tried in order to maintain confidence in governmental procedure.

WITNESS FOUND WHO WILL 'PROVE' JUDGE WAS SLAIN

Miami Beach, Fla., Dec. 28 (AP).—Emil K. Ellis, a New York attorney, said today he had found a woman whose testimony in an insurance suit next February might reveal the facts about Judge Joseph Force Crater's mysterious disappearance almost 10 years ago.

Ellis did not make the woman's name public. He said he expected her story will help prove that Crater was murdered the night of Aug. 6, 1930, a few hours after he was seen for the last time.

Crater recently was declared legally dead. A suit was brought by his widow to collect double indemnity on $30,000 insurance. The companies, denying proof of his death by violence, fought to pay merely the face of the policies.

Ellis said the woman was identified as the one who dined with Crater the last night he was seen. Crater drew $5,000 from his bank the day he disappeared.

LIFE SENTENCE GIVEN BOY, 17, IN GIRL KILLING

Charles City, Ia., Dec. 28 (AP).—Warner Blewett, 17 years old, was sentenced to life imprisonment in the state penitentiary when he pleaded guilty today of first degree murder in the slaying of his girl friend, Dorothy Carter, 14, during a jealous rage.

Blewett told authorities he beat the girl on her head with a gun stock until she died. The beating followed an unsuccessful attempt to shoot her. The tragedy occurred the night of Dec. 10 as they were en route home from a date.

BRITISH HOPEFUL U. S. MAY RESTORE ENVOY TO BERLIN

Hint Efforts Directed Toward That Step.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 28.—British diplomacy in Washington, D. C., is seen here behind intimations that the United States shortly will be sending an ambassador back to Germany.

All the British press today reported that Stephen Early, secretary to President Roosevelt, hinted broadly that the administration was looking for some one to succeed Hugh Wilson, who was recalled more than a year ago in protest over the treatment of minorities in Germany.

See Dictators Embarrassed.

The appointment of an ambassador to Berlin most certainly would embarrass both Fuehrer Hitler and Dictator Josef Stalin, in the opinion of diplomats here. At the same time doubts were expressed as to which thought of the idea first—London or Washington.

Representative Hamilton Fish of New York was struck by America's lack of diplomatic representation in Berlin when he visited Germany last summer.

Fish was impressed by the fact that Alexander Kirk, charge d'affaires of the American embassy there, had never met Joachim von Ribbentrop, German foreign minister.

Long and Wilson Mentioned.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—Comment by Stephen Early, secretary to President Roosevelt, on the possibility of sending an ambassador to Berlin arose in connection with reports yesterday that Breckenridge Long, former ambassador to Italy, and Hugh R. Wilson, former ambassador to Germany, soon would receive appointments to important foreign posts.

Both Long and Wilson have been assigned to special duty in the state department. It was indicated that Wilson might go to Belgium as successor to Joseph E. Davies, who has been transferred to the state department as an assistant to Secretary Hull on trade treaties.

Early asserted positively that Long would receive an important foreign post, but would say nothing more except that it would not be Belgium.

ORDER 'LOTHARIO' EXAMINED BY PSYCHIATRISTS

New York, Dec. 28 [Special].—Joseph Huebscher, 69 years old, described as a Lothario who won the hearts and savings of lonely women, today was ordered examined by psychiatrists. General Sessions Judge George L. Donnellan said he would take steps to have Huebscher officially declared insane.

A report submitted to the court said Huebscher developed a psychosis after he encountered a series of legal difficulties upon his arrival from Europe last Nov. 1. He was charged with attempted grand larceny, illegal possession of a revolver, and possession of a fraudulent passport.

The larceny complaint was made by Miss Margaret Leff, who accompanied him here from Europe after he met her thru a Lonely Hearts club. She said she gave him $800 and deeds to $7,000 worth of property on his promise to employ her as a housekeeper in a house he would buy in California. Officers took temporary possession of $36,000 in stocks and bonds which Huebscher carried.

MEXICAN PARENTS PROTEST BAN ON SCHOOL RELIGION

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 28 (AP).—Thousands of Mexican parents and sympathizers were reported tonight to be planning to assemble Sunday in a series of demonstrations thruout Mexico against the proposed constitutional amendment to "socialize" education.

The meetings were scheduled to be held in the nation's principal cities outside the capital, including Tampico, Monterrey, Guadalajara, Vera Cruz, Morelia, Ciudad de Juarez, and Chihuahua City.

Affiliates of the National Union of Heads of Families were understood to be sponsoring the demonstrations. Speakers of various political, educational, and family factions were reported to be preparing to attack the amendment, approved by the chamber of deputies and now before the senate. The government project excludes all religion and religious instructions from schools.

Weather Forces Transfer of Air Base to Baltimore

New York, Dec. 28 (AP).—Pan-American Airways announced today that because of weather conditions its operating base would be transferred from Port Washington, N. Y., to Baltimore immediately. The Yankee Clipper will leave for Bermuda, Horta, and Lisbon tomorrow from Baltimore.

JURORS PONDER CASE OF 5 SEIZED IN STORE ATTACK

The case of five defendants charged with malicious mischief, based on the smashing of windows of the Goldblatt Brothers west side store, was given to a jury in the Criminal court of Judge John Sbarbaro last night. Unable to agree after three hours of deliberation, the jurors, eight of whom are women, were locked up and will resume their deliberations today.

Three of those on trial are admittedly members of the Silver Shirt league, a Fascist organization. They are Homer Herman Maertz, 28 East Huron street, and Fred Pokorny and Douglas Campbell, both of 3832 Janssen avenue. The others are George Heppner, 1113 Chicago avenue, and Joseph Schimpf, 1528 North Claremont avenue.

Assistant State's Attorney Richard Devine asked that they be found guilty and sentenced to 1 to 10 years in prison.

BUND SECRETARY DENIES HIS GUILT IN PERJURY CASE

New York, Dec. 28 (AP).—James Wheeler-Hill, secretary of the German-American bund, pleaded not guilty today to a charge of second degree perjury, a misdemeanor, when arraigned following his arrest in the office of District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey.

A three count indictment against him alleges contradictory statements to the grand jury and in testifying at the larceny trial of Fritz Kuhn, bund leader. Kuhn was convicted and is now in Sing Sing prison.

Bail for the bund secretary was fixed at $3,500 and he was released pending his trial on Jan. 29.

Only 75 Beat Snow to Reach Louisville.

the flivvers began, Piper Cubs, Aeroncas, Taylorcraft, Luscombes, Porterfields, and little Stinsons. All the ships should have come in from the north, but strangely enough many approached from the east, and west, and even the south.

"Sure we got lost," Rome Boekenhoff Jr. and Gene Denham of Quincy, Ill., grinned as they landed their Cub Trainer. "We were 45 minutes in thick freezing mist and didn't know where we were."

Couple Arrive by Truck.

"It was this deep," he declared, measuring a yard or more with his hands.

"What was?" he was asked.

"Why, the snow, the snow in the pasture where we landed."

A volunteer crew of rescuers went with the doctor to the scene, five miles southeast of Louisville where they moved the plane to a larger field for the takeoff tomorrow.

"We had a mighty fine trip," said Mrs. Maude Squire Rufus, 59 years old, wife of a professor of [illegible] at the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor.

Mrs. Rufus, who holds a [illegible] license and has 85 hours of [illegible] ing time is making the 2500 mile round trip to Miami and the [illegible] American air maneuvers with [illegible] son, Herman, 27 years old, who is a private pilot. They are flying a new Cub coupe, 65 horse power motor.

Teaching Bride to Fly.

A little 40 horse power Cub [illegible] landed after the Rufuses were [illegible] by Theodore Patecell, 26 years old, 5301 West 65th street, Chicago, a mechanic at the Howard Aircraft company. With him was a bride of young woman.

"We're on our honeymoon," said Patecell. "We've been married for a couple of months but didn't want anyone till this trip. I'm teaching Mrs. Patecell to fly."

Jack F. Mallecek and Floyd Bennett from Fargo, N. D., led in a [illegible] string of planes with their Taylorcraft.

"We had it easy," said Mallecek. "The towns came up right on course. That new compass of mine is a dandy."

The pilots here were called together at the Kentucky hotel tonight to organize for the remainder of the trip.

MRS. DELLA PADLEY WINS DIVORCE FROM HER LONDON HUSBAND

Mrs. Della Bosworth Padley divorced Gordon Padley of London yesterday. She told Judge Oscar F. Nelson that her English husband urged her to return to the United States and forbade her to return to London.

Mrs. Della B. Padley.

Mrs. Padley is the daughter of Mrs. Charles Henry Bosworth. Her father, who died in 1937, was formerly chairman of the Federal Reserve bank of Chicago. Mrs. Padley is a sister of Mrs. Trevor Stamp of London, whose husband is a son of Sir Josiah Stamp, British economist. The Padleys were married Sept. 3, 1930, at the Bosworth home, 225 Hamilton street, Evanston.

On Feb. 10, 1938, Mrs. Padley returned to the family home in Evanston.

Mrs. Padley asked no alimony. She said she is well able to support her daughter, June, 5 years old.

Dance to His Music, but Don't Marry Him, Girls

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 28 (Special).—Domestic minded maidens were advised today by two sociologists to steer clear of dance band musicians when husband shopping. Dance band musicians, Dr. Richard T. La Piere and Dr. Carlo Lastrucci of San Francisco State college told the American Sociological society, find themselves forced to live nontypical lives. Their working conditions are such that all their other activities are affected. If one is married, and particularly if he has children, he leaves his wife behind and sees her when he can.

JAPS MAKE PLANS FOR BIG MILITARY VICTORY IN 1940

Want Tribute for Japan's 2,600th Anniversary.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 28 (AP).—A sharp Japanese drive in South China and widespread air raids today laid the groundwork for a more sweeping offensive which the Japanese hope will prove a fitting military celebration of the 2,600th anniversary of Japan's legendary founding.

The southern campaign, spreading out north of Canton, was led by the imperial bodyguards division in an advance which Japanese said had progressed 50 miles in five days.

Japanese reported that the bulk of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's Kwangtung province forces, about 200,000 men, has sustained a defeat, but Chinese declared the Japanese were being checked in a battle still in progress.

Three Days of Air Raids.

Three days of air raids on Lanchow, capital of Kansu province in northwest China, were described by a Japanese spokesman as the largest of the war. Lanchow is on the supply route from soviet Russia. Other raids were carried out in southwest China, designed to sever Chinese supply routes from French Indo-China.

[The Chinese official news agency at Chungking reported that a Japanese raid on Hoku in northwest Shansi province on Dec. 13 destroyed the International China Inland Mission church and killed a Norwegian missionary.]

The Japanese spokesman said the present offensives were merely a prelude to a huge new land offensive in China as "part of the Japanese program for commemorating the 2,600th anniversary of the Japanese empire."

Anniversary on Feb. 11.

Japan celebrates Feb. 11 as the anniversary of the founding of the Japanese empire and dynasty in 660 B. C. The spokesman did not disclose whether the planned offensive would be launched on that date or at the opening of 1940, the 2,600th year.

Five divisions of Japanese troops landed in South China in early December. They were intended as replacements for soldiers tired by lengthy service. Chinese asserted that renewed activity by Chiang Kai-shek's forces had prevented sending any old Japanese divisions back to Japan.

Two of the new divisions are being used in the southern drive. One is the imperial bodyguards division which normally is assigned to guarding of the imperial palace in Tokio.

Chinese Scoff at Claims.

A Chinese army spokesman asserted Japan had suffered 100,000 casualties on all battle fronts during December and scoffed at Japanese reports of military successes, which he said "betray their own fears and anxieties, reflecting alarm over their own staggering losses." Japanese claims were aimed, he said, at helping passage of the military budget in Tokio and at impressing America.

Officials of the American Chamber of Commerce at Tientsin asked Lieut. Gen. Masaharu Honma, commander of the Japanese forces there, to lighten restrictions on American trade caused by the Japanese blockade of the British and French concessions.

Honma promised consideration for the chamber's requests that American goods be permitted free passage thru the blockade barriers, free passage for Americans without passing thru examination sheds, and permission for Chinese employés of American firms to cross the barriers without delay.

Jap Cabinet to Stay.

TOKIO, Dec. 28 (AP).—Premier Gen. Nobuyuki Abe, in an interview today, declared the cabinet had no intention of resigning, despite a resolution presented yesterday by a majority of the house of representatives unofficially suggesting that the cabinet "consider" such a step.

Abe said the government was concerned solely with disposition of the war in China and readjustment of foreign relations, and could not be troubled by "maneuvers of professional politicians."

Respecting relations with the United States of America, Abe said, "Perhaps the American ambassador does not intend to be severe with Japan after lapse of the commercial treaty." [The Japanese-American treaty is due to expire Jan. 26, having been denounced by the United States.]

"The government," he said, "is studying the worst eventualities which may strike American-Japanese trade after the treaty terminates. Such a situation would be most unwelcome, therefore the government is trying its hardest to prevent it."

Cold Increases Quake Terror

the first shock was felt in Anatolia yesterday.

The center of the shocks was believed to be in the Janik mountain range, whose peaks reach 10,000 feet.

But the entire slope from the main ridge of the range to the Black sea suffered, with several good sized towns almost wholly leveled and hundreds of villages wiped out.

Minarets toppled from mosques and domes crashed down upon roofs which fell in upon sleepers sheltered beneath them. Walls tumbled into streets.

Officials feared that the danger of typhoid fever and pneumonia was great among the homeless survivors.

Americans Believed Safe.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28 (AP).—John Van A. MacMurray, American ambassador to Turkey, cabled the state department today that it was believed no Americans were injured in the earthquake which struck the Anatolian region of Turkey yesterday.

Quakes in South Africa.

LONDON, Dec. 28 (AP).—An Exchange Telegraph [British news agency] dispatch from Cape Town today said there had been 25 earth tremors during the last 24 hours in the Rand, in Transvaal. Two tremors were severe, jarring buildings and alarming residents.

Salinas, Cal., Dec. 28 (AP).—An earthquake was felt here at 4:15 a. m. today. Many persons were awakened. No damage was reported. The shock was felt at Coalinga, Bakersfield, and Santa Maria.

JAP SENTRY SLUGS AMERICAN WOMAN; INQUIRY DEMANDED

SHANGHAI, Dec. 29, Friday (AP).—American authorities today lodged with Japanese officials a request for disciplinary action against a Japanese sentry who slugged Miss Frances Donaldson of Louisville, Ky., manager of an embroidery exporting concern.

Frank P. Lockhart, acting American consul general, asked an "immediate investigation of the incident, disciplinary action against the guilty sentry, and measures to prevent repetition of such incidents."

Miss Donaldson told authorities yesterday that a Japanese sentry struck her Dec. 20 with his fist as she inadvertently crossed the Szechuen road bridge into the international settlement on the right side, contrary to Japanese military regulations.

Japs List 1,218,462 Chinese Soldiers Killed in War

TOKIO, Dec. 29, Friday (AP).—Japanese imperial headquarters announced today that 1,218,462 Chinese soldiers had been killed in the undeclared war with Japan between July, 1937, and November, 1939. The Japanese death total between October, 1938, and December, 1939, was placed at 27,000. In addition, 18,000 Japanese soldiers were killed or wounded in fighting last summer at Nomonhan between Japanese and soviet Russian forces on the Outer Mongolian-Manchukuo border.

POPE PIUS CALLS FOR PEACE ON HIS VISIT TO RULERS

Hear Mussolini Now May Go See Pontiff.

ROME, Dec. 28 (AP).—Pope Pius XII rode thru a chilling rain to Quirinal palace today to pay an unprecedented visit to Italy's king and queen and to voice his yearning for peaceful understanding between the peoples of the world.

This visit, in return for the call made by King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Elena on the pope at the Vatican a week ago, symbolized complete reciprocal recognition of the two sovereignties established on opposite banks of the Tiber river.

Reports circulated that Premier Mussolini would visit the pope on Jan. 5, in further exemplification of the close understanding between the church and the Italian state.

Agreement Sealed Again.

The pope, in a brief speech devoted largely to peace, expressed his joy over the visit paid him by their majesties and then added:

"In this royal palace after 10 years the happy agreement [Lateran accord] between church and the state has been sealed again, an agreement which joins under the same light of glory both our venerated predecessor, Pius XI., and his majesty, Victor Emmanuel III."

Popes in the long distant past have called on royalty, but today's visit was exceptional in that it was the first time a pontiff had visited the rulers of territory which formerly was papal domain, in a palace seized from the pope.

The pope told his royal hosts he hoped Italy's peace, "safeguarded by the wisdom of its rulers," would spur warring peoples to obtain an understanding.

"Making Italy Greater."

In praying to "God and the Virgin Mother to extend their protection to the august sovereigns," the pope also named the royal princes and princesses and "the illustrious chief of the Italian government" and his ministers.

He asked this "in order that the peace which, safeguarded by the wisdom of its rulers, is making Italy greater, strong, and respected before the world, may become a stimulus and incitement to future understandings for peoples who, almost as brothers turned enemies, are fighting across lands, skies, and seas."

CHARGE BUILDING PROBE AIMED AT RUIN OF A. F. OF L.

Union Fights Federal Monopoly Quiz.

Benjamin H. Vanderveld, attorney for the Ceramic, Mosaic and Acoustical Tile Layers' union, local 67, served notice yesterday on United States Attorney William J. Campbell that the union will fight the government's current investigation of the building trades.

Vanderveld said he will go before Judge Michael L. Igoe in federal District court today and ask that subpenas for 25 individuals and 50 corporations in the tile industry, which were issued by Judge Igoe last week, be quashed.

Charge Shot at A. F. of L.

"Union officials feel that indictment of the various building trades is an attempt by the government to ruin the American Federation of Labor," Vanderveld said. "The tile layers' union is an affiliate of the A. F. of L. The building trades are the life blood of the federation and we consider it significant that no similar attempt at destruction has been aimed against the Congress of Industrial Organizations."

Vanderveld said that after the 75 subpenas were issued, he sought to obtain a copy of the petition for the subpenas. He said that he was told at Campbell's office that the petition had been mislaid. Then, he said, he went to the offices of Leo F. Tierney, assistant attorney general in charge of monopoly investigations here, and was told he could not have such a copy, since it had been suppressed.

In his notice to Campbell, copy of which was served on Tierney, Vanderveld said he would first enter a motion for permission to see the petition, and then he would seek to have the subpenas quashed, on the grounds that they are too general, unduly oppressive, and in violation of the bill of rights.

Raise Constitutional Point.

The constitutional point would be raised, he said, since the government would use testimony obtained under the subpenas against the witnesses who appeared.

The government for several months has been preparing for its investigation of the building trades. Issuance of the subpenas was the first active step to bring the investigation before the federal grand jury. It is expected that between 400 and 500 persons and corporations in the building industry will be summoned.

Similar investigations have been conducted in other parts of the country as a part of the government campaign against monopolies.

FIRE CAUSES $3,000 DAMAGE.

Allegan, Mich., Dec. 28 [Special].—The large home of G. Ray Sturgis, Allegan county school commissioner, was damaged by fire and water to the extent of $3,000 today.

SURVEY SOURCES OF SUPPLIES FOR U. S. INDUSTRIES

Geographers Hear Report on Asia's Importance.

Prof. Robert B. Hall of the University of Michigan compressed a tour of the world's industrial supply sources into one speech yesterday at a session of the Association of American Geographers in Mandel hall on the University of Chicago compus.

On his figurative tour Prof. Hall docked longest at ports in southeastern Asia, which area, he said, supplies the bulk of five of the most important materials used in United States industry. They are manila fiber, quinine, rubber, silk, and tin. As secondary imports from the same region he listed tungsten and mica.

War Upsets Balances.

"Of course," he said, "appreciable quantities of rubber, tin, wool, and quinine reach us, in normal trade, from the United Kingdom, the Netherlands, and Belgium. But these are reëxports from southeastern Asia, Australia, and South America. The war has radically curtailed this trade."

Prof. Hall named 16 imports, selected from compilations of the Army and Navy Munitions board, as vitally necessary to American industry. These imports, their sources, and the percentage of the United States' total requirements that they represent are as follows:

ALUMINUM—5 per cent from France and Norway, 93 per cent from Dutch and British Guiana.

ANTIMONY—75 per cent from Mexico, 8 per cent from South America, 17 per cent from Chile and Bolivia.

CHROMIUM—12 per cent from Greece and Turkey, 21 per cent from Cuba, 33 per cent from South Africa, 5 per cent from Mozambique.

MANGANESE—16 per cent from South America, 4 per cent from Cuba, 25 per cent from African gold coast, 33 to 50 per cent from Russia. [Latter withdrawn since war began. Probably will be supplied from African gold coast, British India and Brazil].

MICA—30 per cent from Canada, 61 per cent from southeastern Asia.

NICKEL—99 per cent from Canada, 1 per cent from northwestern Europe.

OPTICAL GLASS—99 per cent from Germany, United Kingdom, and Belgium.

QUICKSILVER—91 per cent from Spain and Italy, 2 per cent from Mexico.

QUININE—99 per cent from southeastern Asia.

RUBBER—98 per cent from southeastern Asia.

SILK—98 per cent from southeastern Asia, 2 per cent from Italy.

TIN—93 per cent from southeastern Asia.

WOOL—5 per cent from eastern Mediterranean lands, 30 per cent from South America, 2 per cent from Canada.

Other speakers were John W. Frey of the department of the interior and Profs. W. O. Blanchard of the University of Illinois, Harold S. Kemp of Harvard university, Eugene Van Cleef of Ohio State university, Mark Jefferson of Michigan State Normal college, and Richard Hartshorne of the University of Minnesota.

U. S. CIRCUIT COURT REFUSES REHEARING ON SITDOWN ISSUE

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 28 (AP).—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals has denied the Apex Hosiery company's petition for a rehearing of the decision which set aside a District court verdict awarding the company $711,932.25 damages against a union for a sitdown strike in 1937.

The order dismissing the company's plea was handed down late yesterday without an opinion.

In throwing out the verdict against branch 1, American Federation of Hosiery Workers [C. I. O.], the high court had said the union should be compelled to answer in damages in Pennsylvania state courts.

SECURITY BOARD SEIZES BATTERY MAKER'S TRUCKS

York, Pa., Dec. 28 (AP).—The federal government, challenged by Fred C. Perkins to come and get the $105.36 it says he owes in social security taxes, did that today by seizing two of Perkins' trucks.

Four federal agents drove the trucks from Perkins' battery plant to the federal building garage and announced the machines would be offered for sale Jan. 8.

Perkins, who gained nation-wide prominence by defying the NRA before it was ruled unconstitutional, announced friends and relatives have promised him cars to deliver his batteries.

Perkins reiterated his determination to refuse to pay federal and state social security and unemployment taxes because he considers them unfair and burdensome on small business men.

THE COST OF WAR PROSPERITY

By CALEB

ON August 1, 1914, our gross national debt was $1,000,000,000. Five years later it was $21,000,000,000. We had never been a large-scale lender before 1915. By the Great War's end we had loaned $9,500,000,000. We have gotten some of it back.

The prices of 22 key foodstuffs in the United States rose 60 per cent during the four years of the war in Europe.

Money cost of the war to us has been estimated at 35½ billion dollars, or three times the total cost of our own government during its first 100 years.

That does not include uncounted costs piled up against oncoming generations of American youth. It does not include the loss of life and health and economic independence to several hundred thousand young men who paid high personal prices for war "prosperity."

The war destroyed 186 billion dollars' worth of physical property. Do you know how long it takes a civilization to create that much wealth—how much toil and sweat and human endeavor of every kind? That's 10 million dollars of destruction an hour, for weeks and months and years on end—for the entire duration of the war!

Wealth comes from production—creating things and values, not destroying them. And material well-being comes from whatever wealth there may be to distribute. When the machinery of War roars savagely into action, civilization's economy goes into reverse. Holocaust ruthlessly burns and blows up and engulfs the collected fruits of men's labors.

While our national debt, from 1914 to 1919, increased 21 times over, Great Britain's increased but 11 times. Britain had three and a half times our debt when the war started, and less than twice our debt when the war ended. France's debt and Russia's each increased fivefold. Italy's increased fourfold. Even Germany's increased but eightfold.

Those who have held that our great economic maladjustments of recent years were due to war's effects on our national business and social machinery can eloquently support their case. While no one won the war, we were its superlative loser. We gained nothing we fought for, and we lost most of what we fought with.

War prosperity is a mirage. There is no such thing as ultimate profit from sheer destruction and the ravages of human depravity.

DEPRESSED TYPE SUPERHIGHWAYS SHOW ICE PERIL

St. Louis Has Trouble in Removing Snow.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 28.—Snow removal difficulties inherent in the depressed type of superhighway—the type favored for Chicago by the city's engineers—are being experienced on a mile and a half of such roadway here. A series of snowfalls for a total of 10.1 inches, starting with a heavy downfall Saturday afternoon, have demonstrated to some observers that an elevated type of superhighway would be superior in severe winters.

"We have been able to keep our express highway open during this weather, which is unusual for St. Louis," said Frank J. McDevitt, director of the city street and sewer department, "but I wouldn't like the job of doing it in the climate that you have in Chicago.

Wind Factor Considered.

"We don't have the high winds from Lake Michigan to blow snow into a depressed highway or off the roadway of an elevated highway, as the case might be. Furthermore, we have thaws here thru the winter to help remove snow. And, being built in hills rather than on a prairie, St. Louis storm sewers can drain faster."

McDevitt said that, even without a drift from winds, at least one plow has been operating almost continuously since Saturday afternoon to keep traffic moving over the 3 miles of express highway here, half depressed and half at grade on the border of a park. Trucks have hauled away part of the downfall and the rest has been piled on shoulders and gutters with a 12 inch drain pipe.

Tours Express Highway.

The Tribune road car, in a day of darkness from smoke and fog threatening more snow, toured the St. Louis express highway with Matt Morse, general manager of the Automobile Club of Missouri, and J. E. Jacobs of the Chicago Motor club, accompanying this staff reporter.

"Our main problem here has been the ice," said Morse, as we maneuvered a curve in the depressed section. "Snow on the slope, at the right angle to receive the full benefit from the sun, will melt onto the roadway where it is banked for the curve. Then at about 4 o'clock in the afternoon, when the sun gets low, the water on the concrete freezes."

"I suppose," said Jacobs, "that you have a similar freezing and thawing condition due to the viaducts for the cross streets, thawing where the sun strikes the pavement and freezing in the shade of the cross street viaducts."

"That hasn't been as bad as you might imagine it would be," replied the St. Louis Motor club executive.

Removal Methods Suggested.

In an interview after this inspection trip, McDevitt commented on the possibilities of simplified snow removal on elevated highway designs that might be favored in climates of severe winter.

"An elevated roadway with an open grid pavement," he said, "would remove snow automatically. Tire impact would drive snow and ice thru the pavement. Melting snow, and this applies to rain water as well, would drain thru the pavement.

"On an elevated highway with a solid pavement on an earth fill, a simple, single blade plow of the grader type might push the snow off the roadway onto the sloped sides where it would melt and flow away from, rather than toward the traffic lanes."

Packed snow and ice on central and south central Illinois highways still present a serious traffic hazard. Highways south of Mount Vernon were completely cleared, the state highway department said, but from Mount Vernon north to Peoria there remained an inch to an inch and a half of snow and ice. Roads in the northern sector of the state were open.

Morton Grove, Lincolnwood to Get 2-Way Police Radios

The village boards of Morton Grove and Lincolnwood have made appropriations to install two-way radio sets in their police cars. Their connections will be thru the county highway police station at Morton Grove. Other northwestern suburbs already linked with the highway broadcasting station are Northbrook, Glenview, and Mount Prospect.

Auditors Hired After Pendergast Scandal.

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 28 [Special].—An audit of the financial affairs of Kansas City was reported today to a citizens' committee which promoted the examination as a result of scandals that accompanied the breakdown of the Pendergast Democratic political machine.

The citizens' group was brought together by the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce, the Real Estate board, and the Forward Kansas City committee, a citizens' organization formed at the beginning of the Pendergast upheaval.

The city council appropriated $60,000 to finance the audit which was performed by George Rossetter & Co. of Chicago. The examination was begun last May and only recently was completed. The report was read today before the membership of the citizens' audit committee in the board room of the chamber of commerce.

May Be Basis for Suit.

It is expected that results of the audit will be used as a basis for civil suits against those believed to be responsible for alleged waste or misapplication of city funds. Several such suits already have been instituted on the basis of previous reports of conditions revealed by the audit.

The accountants' investigation dealt mainly with Kansas City's 32 million dollar 10 year bond program which was voted in 1931. Their report said $23,113,150 of the bond money went for construction purposes.

Of that sum about half, $11,445,008, was paid for work on which no contracts were used, the auditors reported. They said $2,420,542 went for the rental of machinery and equipment.

No Competitive Bidding.

"Rentals were paid without competitive bidding or written contracts," the report stated, "and, apparently, on an excessive daily rate basis, indicating the principal consideration of the machine city officials was favoritism rather than economy."

In the group of firms to which payments for construction were made without contracts were four companies which previously has been revealed as being controled by the now deposed and imprisoned Democratic boss, T. J. Pendergast. The companies and the amounts paid them were:

Boyle-Pryor Construction company, $1,343,142; Ready Mixed Concrete company, $489,374; Midwest Precote company, $215,383, and the Midwest Paving company, $182,035.

AUTO HITS GIRLS AFTER COLLISION; 1 KILLED, 3 HURT

Three little girls stood on the sidewalk watching skaters on a pond at 87th street and Jeffery avenue yesterday. Two automobiles approached. They collided. Before the girls could scamper out of the way, one of the machines bounded over the curb, turned over four times, and struck the children.

Virginia Rudd, 5 years old, 8540 Bennett avenue, died while being taken to the South Chicago hospital. The injured girls, Lois Curtis, 13, of 1520 East 73d place, and Jane Amelong, 12 years old, 1504 East 74th street, were taken to the South Shore hospital. Rex Flach, 44, of Amboy, in Lee county, a railroad switchman and a state policeman, who was driving one of the cars, was also injured.

Flach's car, east bound in 87th street, struck a machine driven by Harold Moberg, a chain store superintendent of Des Moines, Ia., and then went over the curb and struck the girls. Flach's companion, Miss Hazel Stroud, 29, of Dixon, Lee county, was critically injured. Moberg was only scratched. He was ordered to appear at the inquest. Flach was placed under police custody at the hospital.

Saves 7 from Flaming Car.

Seven persons were saved from fiery death last night by the heroism of Jack Andersen, 20 years old, 1635 North Shore avenue, after a collision between their car and his machine at Oak avenue and Church street, Evanston.

The first car, driven by Miss Kathryn Ariana, 20, of 216 Oak Ridge avenue, Highwood, overturned, imprisoning her and six companions. A moment later it burst into flame. Andresen kicked in the windows, and dragged out Miss Ariano; Mrs. Minnie and Betty Scotese, 1104 South Racine avenue; Mrs. Lena and Irma De Bartolo, of 11 Highwood avenue, Highwood, and two unidentified persons. The fire destroyed the car completely. The Scoteses and the De Bartolos were slightly injured. Miss Ariano was charged with ignoring a stop sign.

Killed by Hit-Run Car.

Mrs. Anna Paulson, 56 years old, 6610 South Wabash avenue, was fatally injured when she was struck by a hit-run automobile in front of 6610 South State street.

Reginald Cullerton, 13 years old, 6408 Stony Island avenue, died in the South Chicago hospital of injuries incurred when he was struck by a hit and run automobile at 87th street and Kimbark avenue.

Thomas J. Sander, 18 years old, of Maple Park, Kane county, a student at the Northern Illinois State Teachers college, De Kalb, was killed when his automobile was struck by a Chicago and Great Western train in Richardson, on the Kane-De Kalb county line.

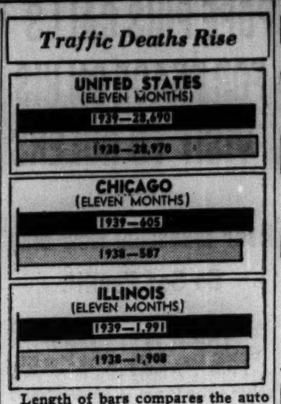
Nathan Chamblis, colored, 45, of 3212 Vernon avenue, died last night in the county hospital of injuries suffered Christmas eve when he was struck by an automobile at Michigan avenue and 33d street. Peter Badie, 37, of 942 North La Salle street, the driver, was charged with reckless driving.

Accused of Manslaughter.

Lynn Naples, 29 years old, 226 Aberdeen street, a radio inspector, was booked yesterday for appearance in Felony court on a charge of manslaughter. His automobile struck and fatally injured Dorothy Jablonski, 9 years old, 1941 South Homan avenue, Wednesday.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 918 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 703 were killed in Chicago, where 22,340 were injured in the same period.

Traffic Deaths Rise



Length of bars compares the auto massacre in the United States, Illinois, and Chicago for the first 11 months of this year with the similar period of 1938.

Unless motorists behave themselves on New Year's eve, the nation's traffic toll will be greater this year than in 1938, the National Safety council predicted yesterday. The massacre figures stood at 28,690 on Dec. 1, only 1 per cent less than the number killed during the first eleven months last year.

The council suggested three rules for safety on New Year's eve:

Don't drink if you drive.

Ask your children not to ride with drinking drivers.

Keep alert; be prepared for what the other fellow may do.

Both Chicago and Illinois reported an increase in traffic deaths for the first 11 months of the year.

The Chicago death rate was 18.9 per 100,000 population, keeping the city in 12th place among the 13 cities with more than 500,000 population. Milwaukee had the best 11 months record among cities in that group, reporting only 9.1 deaths per 100,000 population. The Illinois death rate stood at 12.8 on Dec. 1.

Police will make strong efforts to keep Chicago's automobile toll low during the week-end. Capt. David Flynn, head of the traffic division, said 700 motorcycle and other traffic policemen will be on duty continuously to direct traffic on major streets and highways.

Chief Lester Laird of the county highway police said his regular force would work extra shifts in some cases to patrol roads in unincorporated areas on New Year's eve.

Four Killed, 7 Injured as Automobiles Collide

West Branch, Mich., Dec. 28 (AP).—Four persons were killed and seven seriously injured tonight when two automobiles, one bearing CCC camp enrollees home for New Year holidays, collided southeast of here. The dead were Mrs. Vernon Wilson, 36 years old, Cheboygan; Howard Elliott, 22, Cheboygan, believed a brother of Mrs. Wilson, and Milton Brick, 18, Detroit, and Jack Ferguson, 17, Hubbard Lake, CCC youths. Survivors were so badly hurt none could give a clear statement of the crash.

Village Clerk Released; Official Duties Call Him

Clarence Peterson, village clerk of Stone Park, was released from jail on $2,500 bond yesterday so he may make up the village pay roll and arrange for payment of village bills. Judge James G. Gullett of Elizabethtown, Ill., sitting in County court here, was informed that Peterson's return to his office was urgently required. Stone Park is a community at North avenue and Mannheim road. Peterson was locked up Dec. 21 for failure to pay an $878 judgment.

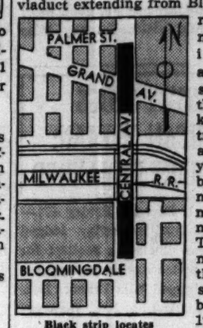
Comes and Gets Her Goat, Which Got the Neighbors'

South Bend, Ind., Dec. 28 [Special].—For 30 minutes today a fighting billy goat held the basement of the Ralph Hennings home on Edison road against efforts of a dozen persons to drive him out. He got into the basement by diving thru a window just ahead of a pursuing dog. Finally an unidentified women appeared and said she was looking for her missing goat. The women called out, "Come, Bruce!" and the goat meekly emerged.

O. K. CENTRAL AV. VIADUCT TO SPAN MILWAUKEE ROAD

Half Mile Structure Will Cost Million Dollars.

Construction of a million dollar viaduct extending from Bloomingdale road to Palmer street in Central avenue, spanning the Milwaukee road tracks, was approved yesterday by the Illinois Commerce commission. The commission said the present structure, built in 1907, is now inadequate.



Black strip locates new viaduct.

The railroad will pay $97,000 of the cost and the county the rest, financed out of the county's share of state gasoline taxes. Bids for construction will be taken Jan. 17. Completion is scheduled within two years.

Structure Half Mile Long.

The new viaduct, with approaches, will be a half mile long and 65 feet wide. It will carry a 50 foot, four lane concrete roadway with north and south bound lanes separated by a two foot concrete wall equipped with reflector buttons. Sidewalks 7 feet 6 inches wide will extend from each side of the pavement.

A by-pass will be built 100 feet east of Central avenue extending from Palmer street to Grand avenue, which will be spanned by the viaduct. This will enable traffic to move between Grand and Central avenues.

The substructure will consist of reinforced concrete piers and columns set on creosote piles. The viaduct itself will be built of 17 spans of steel girders and concrete roadway, with trolley poles and wires for the Central avenue trolley bus line.

Present Roadway Inadequate.

The present viaduct is 1,880 feet long and has a roadway only 18 feet wide with 5-foot sidewalks on either side. This structure will be moved east about 100 feet and used as a temporary viaduct during the new construction work.

Commission studies showed that Central avenue is heavily traveled at the location of the structure. A count taken last July 1 between 7 a. m. and 11 p. m. disclosed a total southbound traffic of 7,160 passenger cars, 1,004 service vehicles and 1,588 pedestrians. Northbound traffic was nearly as heavy.

TELLS $20,000 BRIBES TO FIX FEDERAL CASES

Charges Listed Against Ex-Prosecutors.

Two former federal prosecutors, both under indictment for conspiracy to fix cases against alcohol peddlers, were accused yesterday of receiving more than $20,000 in bribes within a year, in weekly instalments of $430.

The charge was made in a bill of particulars filed in federal court by Martin Ward, assistant United States attorney. Attorneys for the defendants had requested a detailed account of the government's charges. Ward replied in a 16 page brief containing answers to fifty questions.

Indicted with 3 Others.

Daniel D. Glasser and Norton I. Kretske are the former government attorneys named as the receivers of bribes. Glasser was on the federal pay roll for four years, Kretske for three years. They were indicted on Sept. 29 with Attorney Alfred Roth, Anthony Horton, colored, a professional bondsman, and Louis Kaplan, an alcohol peddler.

The government charges that Roth acted as the defense lawyer in cases to be fixed. Horton and Kaplan were the contact men and bribe collectors, according to the indictments.

Prosecutor Ward's bill of particulars cited 21 alcohol tax cases in which, he charged, Glasser and Kretske tampered with federal justice. Offers of bribes, according to the bill, ranged from $25 to $1,500 a case.

Violate Oath of Office.

"Glasser failed to represent the government honestly, properly and dutifully in that he failed to present certain evidence in his possession," the bill states. "He failed to present sufficient evidence for a just disposition of the cases. He accepted money and other things of value to influence his official action and conduct.

"Kretske violated the oath of his office; corruptly and felonously asked certain persons who had offended against the laws of the United States to pay him certain sums of money, and corruptly failed to prosecute certain cases."

In reply to a question about who made the bribe solicitations and who were solicited, Ward's bill stated:

"Kretske, Kaplan and Horton made the solicitations, and the persons named as defendants in the cases enumerated [in the bill] were the persons solicited. The evidence will show a payment of $430 each week for approximately one year by the defendant Kaplan to Glasser and Kretske for protection and immunity from prosecution for operating certain stills."

Division of Alleged Bribe.

Recounting the division of one of the alleged bribes, Ward's bill states:

"The defendant Kretske delivered to the defendant Glasser part of $800 he had received from Frank Hodorowicz on or about Jan. 15, 1937, in the city of Chicago."

The five alleged conspirators are to be tried before Federal Judge Patrick Stone of Madison, Wis., who was brought here to hear this case.

VIOLINIST DODGES AS FATHER FIRES ON 2; KILLS SELF

New York, Dec. 28 (AP).—Miriam Solovieff, 18 year old concert violinist, dodged two bullets and escaped injury tonight when her father, Aaron, shot and wounded her mother and sister and killed himself in their fashionable Riverside drive apartment.

Solovieff, 41 years old, who had been estranged from his wife for five years, died a few minutes after the shooting. The wife, Elizabeth, 38, was wounded in the abdomen and is expected to die. Their daughter, Vivienne, 12, was struck in the neck and had an even chance to survive.

Police Captain William Hughes said Solovieff arrived from San Francisco this morning and went from the train to the apartment and began to argue with members of his family. "Apparently he terrorized them all day long," Hughes said. "Tonight, apparently realizing the futility of his argument, he drew the gun, shot first at Miriam and missed. He shot the little girl and then shot his wife. He shot himself in the head."

60 Seized in Keno Raid Face Arraignment Tomorrow

Sixty men and women arrested in a gambling raid by Wilmette police Wednesday night while playing keno at the Vista Del Lago resort in No Man's Land, now part of Wilmette, are to be arraigned at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow before Police Magistrate John J. Peters in Wilmette. Six of the defendants are charged with operating a gambling resort. The others are charged with being inmates.

W-G-N AUDIENCE CHEERS KIEPURA AND YOUNG WIFE

Present 2d Concert of Holiday Series.

BY IRENE STEYSKAL.

Two radiant voices brought a holiday gift of music to a crowded W-G-N concert studio and to thousands of radio listeners last night.

One was a romantic tenor voice that has become well known to Chicago operagoers—that of the Polish artist, Jan Kiepura. The other was the sunny soprano of Kiepura's pretty Hungarian wife, Marta Eggert. Beyond the blue and silver studio the largesse of the musical feast was carried from coast to coast on the network of the Mutual Broadcasting system. The program was the second in W-G-N's holiday concert series.

Third Concert on Sunday.

The third concert of the series, which is presented to stimulate interest in the City Opera company's campaign for funds, will be held Sunday evening. Allan Jones, featured film player, who will sing on that program, arrived in Chicago yesterday.

Assisting Mr. Kiepura and Miss Eggert in last night's program were the W-G-N concert orchestra, with Henry Weber conducting, and the station's octet. John Weigel was master of ceremonies and Lou Jackobson, production manager.

Kiepura was first to appear. There was no appeasing the audience with gracious smiles and bows after his "M'Appari" from the opera "Martha." So he sang as encore the Rossini "La Danza." The orchestra, caught in the festive mood, dashed gaily thru the "Russian Soldier Dance" from Gliere's "Red Poppy Ballet."

Song from "La Boheme."

Then came Miss Eggert, slim and fresh of face, romantically gowned in ivory satin and lace, her light brown hair crowned with a high floral headdress in the Hungarian tradition. From "La Bohême," the opera in which she is to make her American operatic debut here on New Year's eve, she sang a plaintive "Mi chiamano Mimi." The enthusiasm of her first Chicago audience was rewarded with Schubert's "Serenade."

In a second group of songs Kiepura included an aria from Massenet's "Werther," "Le Reve" from "Manon," a stirring Polish folk song, and "Tell Me Tonight," a ballad from "Be Mine Tonight," a motion picture in which he appeared.

Then He'll Find Way to Go On Indefinitely.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Columbus, O., Dec. 28.—Man's future on earth, whether he can bring about a golden age, how long his resources will last, whether the age of insects will overwhelm him, and what science has already done for him, were subjects of discussions in the sessions of the American Association for the Advancement of Science today.

Dr. Kirtley F. Mather.

If present trends continue, according to Dr. Kirtley F. Mather, Harvard geologist, mankind is safe on a friendly earth for another thousand years or so, and by that time he will have developed ways of going on indefinitely insofar as material resources are concerned.

Man has a long and tenacious history, and is still in the stage of youth, according to the scientists' viewpoint. Taking man as a part of the nature which they study, he has still half a million years or more to go before some other organism supplants him or he develops into a superman of new dimensions.

An Optimistic Outlook.

It is, on the whole, an optimistic outlook which science offers.

Dr. Allan Gregg, director of medical sciences of Rockefeller Foundation, spoke of the biological effects of science on man.

He listed among the effects a better chance to live long, better growth, a larger number of living human beings enjoying a higher average of vitality, with a wider consciousness and a deeper understanding of their environment.

The impact of science, he said, falls most heavily upon the nervous system and the endocrine glands. Man has survived against adversity and needs to beware against pampering and enervation. Dr. Gregg suggested the use of exercise, quiet meditation, play and relaxation, unprocessed foods, simple sensations.

Insect Threat Discussed.

Dr. Charles T. Brues of the Harvard biological laboratories discussed whether this was an age of insects. He cited the recent claims of entomologists that man is already a back number and soon must fight for his life with the evolving insects. He pictured the air squadrons of economic entomologists spraying poison dust on the front lines.

There is some truth in this, he said, but for his answer to the threat he went back to an earlier age of insects, the ants and wasps found in the so-called Baltic amber, and concluded that such insects were as good a few hundred thousand years ago as they are today and that there is not much to fear from their evolution into a greater threat.

The insects which he studied were caught in sticky resin exuding from trees in the oligocene age. The resin has now hardened to amber. These ancestors of present day insects, he said, "were neither dowdy in appearance nor Victorian in manners, but would readily be mistaken for preview models of 1940. They were in no way inferior. It is reasonable to discount the dire predictions that insects will engulf the animals who now share the world with them."

A Comfortable World.

Dr. Mather, who gave the annual Sigma Xi lecture this evening, said in part: "For many scores of millions of years the earth will be comfortably habitable for creatures like ourselves. The geologist may turn with confidence from the long perspective of geologic past with its one and a half to two billions years of recorded earth history to a similarly long prospect for the future.

"Probability is strong that, say in five or ten million years, the earth will display again the physical conditions of many past geologic periods which were characterized by broad lowlands, wide shallow seas, and a uniform genial climate.

"At last it is generally understood that man is a part of nature. He may be something more than an animal [that depends largely upon definition], but he is nonetheless truly a part of the animal world. We may be the latest product of the creative forces displaying themselves in the organic development taking place in this particular portion of the cosmos, but we have no reason to assume that we are the last achievement of those forces.

"Evolution does not guarantee progress; it merely guarantees changes.

Power, Then Oblivion.

"Again and again, in the procession of the living, dynasties of animals or plants have arisen from a humble origin to a position of world supremacy maintained for a comparatively brief period and then lost forever.

"From the point of view of geologic development man has today a unique opportunity to gain continuing security for himself and his progeny on the face of the earth, but whether or not he takes advantage of that opportunity is to be determined largely by himself.

"Taking all things into consideration, world stores of needed natural resources are adequate to supply the basis for the comfortable existence of every human being who is likely to dwell anywhere on the earth for something like a thousand years to come.

"The critical question for the 20th century is: How can two or three billion human beings be satisfactorily organized for the wise use and equitable distribution of resources which are abundant enough for all but are unevenly scattered over the earth?

"Transcending all that has gone before is the development of the human society, obviously the most difficult, but at the same time potentially the most glorious organization yet attempted."

TAMMANY WILL LOSE LAST FOOTHOLD IN NEW YORK CITY HALL

New York, Dec. 28 [Special].—Once mighty Tammany Hall will lose its last political foothold in city hall—fat jobs in the office of city clerk including the marrying deputy—next Monday when the Brooklyn-Bronx-Queens Democrats reorganize the city council.

The once powerful political clan of Hines also takes it on the chin along with Tammany. Philip A. Hines, brother of James J. Hines, former Tammany leader who was convicted as a racket "fixer," holds the $7,800 marrying deputy job which the Brooklyn Democrats are taking over.

Tammany, which contributed only two members to the Democratic delegates of 14 in the new council, is being allowed to retain the clerkship itself. Warren Hubbard gets that job, but he was forced to agree on the ousting of all the Tammanyites who have held those deputy jobs for years.

FINDS SURE WAY TO STRAIGHTEN AIRPLANE BENDS

Science Comes to Rescue of War Flyers.

Columbus, O., Dec. 28 (AP).—Discovery of a complete preventive for the airplane "bends" was anounced today from the Mayo clinic.

The discovery, initiated and completed all within the last six weeks, was declared of immediate use to pilots in the European war, particularly in meeting bombing raids over the North sea.

The announcement was made to the American Association for the Advancement of Science by W. Randolph Lovelace II., Walter M. Boothby, and Capt. O. Benson of the clinic.

It's a New Malady.

Airplane bends itself is something new. It was first reported recently by Capt. Harry G. Armstrong of the army medical corps. It is literally the upside down version of the deep sea bends. The air trouble doubles up the pilots with the same kind of cramps, but in addition plays other havoc, sometimes causing quick unconsciousness.

Divers' bends come from the release of nitrogen bubbles, squeezed into the blood and tissues by the extra pressure of the depths, when the pressure is relieved. The plane pilot suffers in reverse. He goes into rarefied atmosphere and the pressure around him drops faster than his internal pressure.

The result is exactly the same, with appearance of nitrogen bubbles, particularly for pilots who have to rise very rapidly to 30,000 feet altitude, as do European interceptor fighters.

Getting Rid of Cause.

Six weeks ago the Mayo physicians got the idea that the bends might be prevented if, before take-off, a pilot's body could be almost freed from nitrogen. Altho nitrogen is about 80 per cent of the air breathed, it is not necessary to life and is, in fact, useless for anything except reducing the amount of oxygen breathed.

They placed experienced pilots of the Northwest Airlines, Inc., in a compression chamber where the conditions of rapid ascent up to 40,000 feet are completely simulated. It was discovered that by breathing 100 per cent pure oxygen for two hours, the human body could be freed of nitrogen, with no bad effects. For this, a new Mayo mask which fits over the nose only, was developed.

RESUME PARLEYS WEDNESDAY ON TRACTION SNARL

Ald. James R. Quinn [50th], chairman of the city council committee on local transportation, yesterday called a joint meeting of his committee and the seven man board recently appointed to represent the transit lines for next Wednesday. Quinn said negotiations would be resumed in an effort to reach an agreement with the lines on the terms of a unified traction franchise. Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson two weeks ago added four members to the transit lines' three man negotiating committee after the committee had been unable to reach an agreement with the city during seven months of discussion.

HELD AS DEATH DRIVER.

East Moline, Ill., Dec. 28 [Special].—Ledine Meincke, 22 years old, of East Moline, was arrested on a charge of manslaughter today in connection with the death of Carl Clark of East Moline September 2. Clark died of injuries incurred when he was struck by a hit and run driver. Meincke was remanded to jail in default of a $5,000 bond.

FINISH SECTION OF DEARBORN STREET SUBWAY

Philip Harrington, commissioner of subways and tranction, announced yesterday the completion of the second subway section in the eight mile system under construction. The portion is a part of the Dearborn street tunnel, extending under Milwaukee avenue from Chicago to Ashland avenues, a distance of 3,577 feet.

The first subway section was completed last month. It runs under State street from Illinois street 3,600 feet to Bellevue place. Eight other tunnel contracts are under construction, with about 40 per cent of the tube finished.

Bids will be taken Thursday on a contract to built two mezzanine stations in State street at Chicago and at Grand avenues. Included in the project is an auxiliary entrance at Ohio street, which will be equipped with an automatic turnstile.

GEORGE WASHINGTON SAID:

"Europe has a set of primary interests which to us have none or a very remote relation. Hence she must be engaged in frequent controversies, the causes of which are essentially foreign to our concerns. Hence, therefore, it must be unwise in us to implicate ourselves by artificial ties in the ordinary vicissitudes of her politics or the ordinary combinations and collisions of her friendships or enmities."—From the Farewell Address.

MR. HANES RESIGNS.

When John W. Hanes, undersecretary of the treasury, appeared as an adviser before the house ways and means committee last June he said: "There are at the bottom only two ways of producing wealth. One is to conscript labor and capital and put them to work under government compulsion. This way is unthinkable in America. The other way is to provide the incentive of wages, interest, dividends, and profits. With this thought in mind I most earnestly suggest that your committee make it clear that it is the intention of the government to establish a tax system which preserves and increases the incentives that are essential to the perpetuation of a system of free enterprise in a nation of free men."

Mr. Hanes has resigned. Apparently he could not find in the government's program any intention to encourage the perpetuation of a system of free enterprise in a nation of free men. Mr. Morgenthau probably, in private, agrees with the undersecretary he is losing, but Mr. Morgenthau is pliable. He doesn't resign. He does not put up a spirited opposition. He goes along. The ideas of the New Deal, which Mr. Hanes in vain opposed, were outlined by A. A. Berle Jr. when the Securities and Exchange commission presented him as an expert to the monopoly committee.

Said Mr. Berle Jr.: "Briefly the government will have to enter into the direct financing of activities now supposed to be private and a continuance of that financing must mean inevitably that the government will control and own those activities. Over a period of years the government will come to own most of the productive plants of the United States."

The New Deal adopts the first of Mr. Hanes' two basic methods—the conscription of labor and capital to work under government compulsion. That is the battle cry of the third term.

SMOKE AND PROFITS.

Frank A. Chambers, city smoke inspector, says his department earned a "profit" of $11,598 this year. By this he means that it collected in inspection fees that much more than it spent on salaries and supplies.

Smoke inspection is a useful activity, and Mr. Chambers appears to be conducting it efficiently, but his department can no more earn a profit than can the police or fire department. The smoke bureau is supported by fees charged the owners of furnaces and boilers that it inspects. That is a good way of supporting this particular activity. Those who make inspection necessary are required to support it. The fees they pay, so far as their own accounts are concerned, are no different from the general taxes they pay for fire and police protection.

What Mr. Chambers calls a profit is really an indication that the owners of inspected premises are being overcharged for the service rendered them. Instead of having 10 per cent of their fees turned into the general treasury of the city, they should get a 10 per cent reduction in fees. Mr. Chambers' service is not one that should be expected to produce "profits."

The smoke bureau has a number of reporting stations about the city, from which it is possible to estimate the amount of dust that falls. The chart of these dust readings for the early months of 1937 shows a startling drop, from about 144 tons to the square mile in February to about 67 tons in June.

Mr. Chambers would probably be the last person to claim or want credit for this decline. There was, of course, a seasonal drop in fuel consumption for heating between February and June. But the first half of 1937 also saw one of the swiftest industrial collapses in the history of the country. The dust that fell on Chicago was more than cut in half within four months because the fires were drawn in hundreds of the city's factories.

This suggests that if Mr. Chambers were a fanatic, pursuing smoke elimination purely as an end in itself, he might accomplish wonders by a fee of $1,000 or $10,000 on any smokestack that was used during the year. Chicago would shortly be as free of dust and soot as Miami Beach, and equally free of industrial pay rolls.

Such a course is not as absurd as it sounds. Smoke inspection fees are not putting out the fires of Chicago industry, but they are an infinitesimal part of the local tax load, and there is ample evidence that local taxes are driving industry from Chicago. So long as the only yardstick of permissible spending accepted by the county board and city council is the appropriation of every penny that can be raised by applying the maximum tax rates allowed by the legislature and by torturing logic to stretch estimates of other revenue, Chicago will continue its progress toward the sorry goal of a smokeless town.

THE WAR AGAINST RED RUSSIA.

Great Britain and France are shipping planes, antiaircraft and antitank guns, and other needed material to Finland. The Finns told their sympathizers that their ability to hold out would be determined by the amount of war material they could get. Their only hope against the vastly superior numbers the Reds could employ against them was in an abundance of guns and planes.

Stalin's attack on the Finns has broadened out the war in more ways than one. The full extent to which it may extend is for the future to disclose. It would seem at present that Britain and France have an undeclared war with Russia, or at least are intervening after the fashion of Stalin himself in China and of Hitler, Mussolini, and Stalin in Spain. It doesn't follow that this will develop into a recognized state of war, but it does change the attitude of France and Britain so largely as to affect the communist conquest of part of Poland.

The British government accepted the Red invasion of Poland without any obvious embarrassment and even with some complacency. The war was started for the defense of Poland and the problem of restoring its land to its people appeared to be at least complicated by the division of Polish territory on an almost 50-50 basis between Hitler and Stalin. There were two aggressors to throw out instead of one, and yet the British statesmen observed that for the time being, at least, it was not disadvantageous to have part of Poland in the hands of the Reds. To whom, aside from the communists, it was advantageous did not appear.

There was a theory that soviet Russia, as Hitler's ally, sooner or later would make a great deal of trouble for the Nazis. Curiously enough it was regarded as making trouble for the Nazis when the Reds invaded Poland. A more sensible view might have been that this was making trouble for the two powers which had gone to war ostensibly to protect the independence and territorial integrity of their Polish ally. And it might have been thought that when Stalin invaded Finland he was making more trouble for Hitler, but this conclusion was not accepted.

Presumably the British and the French in going to the assistance of the Finns are at last putting Stalin on the list of public enemies and intend to throw him out of his newly acquired lands if they are successful in dictating the peace. That would mean that not only the Nazis but the communists must be defeated to accomplish war aims unless by some blessed miracle the war in the west could be brought to an early peace and a united effort made to chase Asiatic barbarism out of the new parts of Europe which it has occupied or reoccupied. It is something at least to have the most brutal tyranny in the world recognized for what it is. Some people, it is true, did not need the recent revelations.

ONE YEAR TO LIFE.

The superintendent of Illinois prisons, Mr. Joseph E. Ragen, suggested the other day that all penitentiary sentences be from one year to life. If that were done, he said, it would be possible to keep the habitual criminals in jail instead of releasing them periodically at the expiration of their terms.

"We have many men serving their fourth or fifth sentence," he said, "and they must be freed when their time is up. Usually these chronic offenders come back on a 1 to 10 year sentence and we can keep them only six years and three months."

Mr. Ragen's idea is not a new one and it has a certain plausibility; the trouble with it is that it overlooks a number of facts. Illinois has a habitual criminal act which can be invoked to keep repeaters permanently out of circulation. The act is not used as often as it might be for a number of reasons, a principal one being the political influence possessed by many professional criminals.

If there were no reason to fear a criminal-political alliance, no record of such an arrangement ever having existed, and unqualified satisfaction with the record of the present parole board of Mr. Ragen, a great deal of discretion could properly be placed in the hands of parole and prison officials. It could be assumed that the power would be used not for the benefit of the criminal but for the protection of the lives and property of honest citizens. As matters stand no such assumption can safely be made.

Public opinion will have no quarrel with Mr. Ragen's proposal that any penitentiary sentence, at least for a repeater, be extensible to life at the discretion of the parole officials. It is the minimum sentence which has caused most of the trouble. The legislature in 1937 sought to remedy that by permitting the trial judge to fix the minimum term and thus prevent political influence from obtaining the release of a dangerous man after only a few months of imprisonment. This measure was vetoed by Gov. Horner, tho it offered a substantial promise of improvement in prison administration. The Ward-Schnackenberg proposal was born of experience; the Ragen proposal is the product of wishful thinking.

Editorial of the Day

NOTE ON AN ATTEMPT TO TURN THE TABLES.
[Baltimore Sun.]

President Roosevelt's attempt to turn the tables on Senator Taft in reply to the latter's demand that the federal budget be balanced is not exactly the neatest trick of the week. On its face, the President's suggestion that Mr. Taft give him a bill of particulars seems very plausible. But it has not been Mr. Roosevelt's way in the past to ask his political opponents for plans and specifications as to how to accomplish a particular task. If he really wanted to do the job, he has set his corps of heavy thinkers to work and has obtained from them all the necessary data on how to proceed.

His unwillingness to follow a similar course in connection with the budget suggests either that he thinks the task impossible or else that he does not want to put his shoulder to the wheel. The real question then is not whether Mr. Taft is able to produce a bill of particulars on short order. It is whether the chief executive believes it worth while to undertake the job. This is a case in which the will to accomplish counts for a good deal more than the plan of procedure. Where the will exists, ways and means of attaining the end can be devised. If nothing more elaborate suggests itself, there is always Senator Byrd's idea that the way to economize is to cut expenditures.

SONNET TO A CALENDAR.

Your pages still unturned upon my wall
Are challenges to coming days. I know
That as the seasons pass, what may befall
Me, joy or sudden grief, that you bestow
Your measured length of time. With each new dawn
I may renew my faith; I need not be Moved by relentless years, a hapless pawn.
These are your treasures hidden deep for me:
Inquisitive spring buds, bright summer flowers,
Crisp autumn days with musk of smoldering fires,
And winter's cheery hearth and snow filled hours.
Freely you grant to my vagrant desires,
Your span of months and each unsullied page

Dreams on an Abandoned Football Field.

I went out in the evening for a walk, and somehow my steps led me to Stagg field, where I had watched so many immortal contests. I wandered into the great north stands and sat down, and pondered. I thought myself alone, but then I saw below me a familiar figure, shoulders hunched, elbows resting on his knees, a cigaret drooping characteristically from his lips. Yes, it was Teddy Linn.

I wondered what the shade of Teddy was doing there. But as I watched a magnificent pageant unfolded on the field. There was Walter Eckersall, getting off a high, soaring punt; the great Herschberger, befuddling the opposition; little Wallie Steffen, weaving his way toward the goal; Bill Zorn, tearing an opposing line to ribbons; John and Harry Thomas, staging a matchless brother act; the masked figure of Jay Berwanger, gliding ghostlike to an amazing touchdown; wizened Jimmy Twohig, almost biting his pipe in two as he anxiously prayed for his "boys"; Amos Alonzo Stagg, standing confidently on the side lines, sure that his team would play the game to the finish.

And then I understood. Teddy is spending his eternal life in those stands, just as he lived the most memorable of his mortal days there. And the pageant continues to unfold for him—the glories of the Maroon, in which Teddy took such a great part.

As I walked homeward I envied Teddy. Thruout the ages he will see Chicago as she was, while we must bear the opprobrium of the present. I thought, "Teddy, you're a lucky man. Had you been alive last Friday, Chicago's abandonment of football would have killed you. Now you will never know."

Requiescat in pace! Sean O'Rourke.

"UPON WHAT MEAT . . . ?"

Yuletide Among the Gardens.

"Violets on Christmas Day!" exclaims Contributor Gaycelle, and incloses a blossom and leaf plucked in her garden on the northwest edge of town. She adds: "These are Viola Rosina, a sort that is supposed to bloom in autumn as well as in spring, but I think that its blooming on Christmas merits a specially joyous cheer. . . . Incidentally, the Christmas rose [Dec. 23] blooms in Chicago as well as in Europe. It is rather capricious; in 1937 it bloomed on Nov. 8, and last year not at all. It has no buds as yet, but looks so husky that I have hopes for this year."

OXYGEN RELIEVES AIR SICKNESS.

WHENEVER a young, healthy adult mounts into the ether it has been found that there will be no substantial disturbance of body functions until at about 10,000 feet above sea level. If the rate of ascent is as rapid as 1,000 feet per minute, unconsciousness may come at an altitude of 20,000 feet.

Harry G. Armstrong of the medical corps of the United States army relates that he experienced considerable distress unless oxygen were provided when flying at about 10,000 feet. He described his initial sensations as "awful all over." A severe headache, as tho the cranium were about to burst, and a sense of smothering dominated the picture. In addition, anxiety was encountered at about 12,000 and at 17,000 there was a tendency to collapse or to faint dead away. Promptly upon the administration of this gas, however, all symptoms were relieved and as long as he employed it he was able to carry on strenuous exercise at 25,000 feet without the slightest discomfort.

Other observers have noted the curious psychological reactions that may occur in some persons at about 12,000. Fatigue, depression, and drowsiness dominate. On the other hand, outbursts of hilarity, a feeling of superiority, even pugnaciousness, may appear. But we all differ. Some manifest only the mildest form of distress, but this very unreliability of individual response may constitute a hazard.

With failure to recognize the bad effects of altitude on the nervous system, errors of judgment may occur. In part, this may be the reason for difficulty in enforcing the rule that oxygen should be breathed by all pilots above certain elevations. Whenever heights are attained wherein the scarcity of vital gas in the atmosphere is great, the blood will fail to obtain a sufficient quantity. Much depends, however, upon the length of exposure. Two hours or more between 15,000 and 18,000 feet may be followed by so much mental confusion and muscular weakness as to render the flyer incapable of clear thinking.

What happens to breathing? Most passengers on air liners will remark that the depth of respiration is intensified. This is nature's way of providing more oxygen. As is well known, shallow respirations are not very efficient. At about 12,000 feet this increase is rarely less than 20 per cent and may be as much as 100.

The circulation is important because it may separate flyers into two classes—those who faint easily and those who do not. Should the blood pressure drop, and the rate of the heart beat slow down appreciably, we can understand why the brain may receive too little nourishment.

Prevention of altitude sickness is usually a simple matter. About all that is needed is to augment the percentage of oxygen or inclose the personnel in a tight compartment, in which the pressure is equalized with ground levels. It is essential also not to allow sickness to persist for too long a time as even after the return to sea level headache, insomnia, or even abnormal behavior may be detected. Only in extreme cases will there be any trouble. About all that will be called for is a good night's rest. Occasionally the inhalation of a mixture of 93 per cent oxygen and 7 per cent carbon dioxide will be helpful.

Oxygen has made airplane travel safe—even comfortable. While we require 20 per cent under ordinary home conditions, we will need about 40 per cent at 15,000 feet. Recent devices have made its employment dependable and practical. Furthermore, there is no more fire hazard in a concentration of 40 per cent in ordinary air.

Long continued breathing with the tube or open mask has a tendency to dry or badly chap the user's lips and, occasionally, the mouth. Cases of hoarseness have been reported lasting for as long as 24 to 48 hours. As a rule, however, these are negligible symptoms. It has been shown conclusively that the lungs are resistant to any irritation for which pure oxygen may be responsible.

NIGHT BLINDNESS.

M. C. G. writes: What diet is recommended for those suffering from night blindness?

REPLY.

This condition is thought to be due to a reduction in the visual purple and is associated with the lack of vitamin A. Foods high in this essential are: halibut and cod liver oils, spinach and other leafy vegetables, whole milk, and egg yolk. Commercially, the product is known as carotene.

STOMATITIS.

M. S. writes: What diet is advisable in stomatitis?

REPLY.

THE WORLD WAR 25 YEARS AGO

[From Tribune Files.]

December 29, 1914.
[154th day of the world war; 120th day of the present war.]

WASHINGTON—The United States government dispatched a note to Great Britain insisting upon prompt improvement in the treatment of American commerce by the British fleet. It warned that public feeling had been aroused and that criticism was widespread over unwarranted interference with the legitimate trade of the United States. The document represented the strongest statement the United States had made to any of the belligerents since the outbreak of the war.

PETROGRAD—Russian forces were reported to have driven a wedge between Austrian forces in the Tuchow region.

PARIS—The army of excavators who began to "dig Paris in" early in September, when the German siege was threatened, finished their work. The city is in the center of an intrenched camp the diameter of which is about 60 miles and the circumferences nearly 200 miles.

THE WARS NOBODY WANTS.

Chicago, Dec. 25.—Let me make a few observations on this sentence in your fine editorial today about "The Day of Peace in the Year of War":

We may, of course, reflect that these conditions do not represent the will of a majority of the people who have been plunged into them.

Why do people go into war when they do not want to? That is a question which has been neglected by the organs of discussion in this country—the school, the bar, the press, the pulpit, the platform.

When the republic of Germany was established by the constitution of 1919 the instrument read to me as tho it had been covertly written to bring back the imperial order. Apart from a mess of socialism and other isms having no place in a republic, the constitution contained [article 48] this:

If public safety and order be seriously disturbed or threatened the president of the reich [he to be the judge] may take the necessary measures to restore public safety and order; if necessary with the aid of armed force.

The preceding sentence gave him "supreme command over the entire military forces of the reich." And there was the making of Hitler.

What were the "necessary measures to restore safety and order?" For this purpose, the article continues, "he may temporarily suspend in whole or in part the fundamental rights enumerated in articles 114, 115, 117, 118, 123, 124, and 153." Those articles protected in the order given habeas corpus, the sanctuary of the dwelling, secrecy of all forms of communication, freedom of speech and writing, the right of assembly without permission, the right of association, and the right to property. When that had been done the people could not even meet to talk over what had happened to them. And then, with the whole military power in one fist, what could the people do to avoid going to war when they did not want to go?

The writers of our constitution knew the inherent weaknesses of all the governments that had risen and failed before, and they understood full well the inherent devilishness of the man intrusted with much power. So, for example, while they made the President commander in chief of the army and navy, they left him without a dollar to use them. Congress was empowered to provide the money, but only for two years at a time, when an unsatisfactory congress might be thrown out at the polls. Thus this most dangerous of powers was split three ways.

In the United States none of the fundamental rights which the German president was authorized to suspend "temporarily" at his judgment can be abrogated for a moment by anybody at any time in any circumstances, except alone that the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus may be suspended "when in cases of rebellion or invasion the public safety may require it." Jefferson put the belief of Washington and his compatriots in a single sentence when he said that no confidence is to be put in the man in power; we must "bind him down from mischief by the chains of the constitution." As if that were not enough, they prepared a bill of rights to chain him further.

Yet for three decades there has been much teaching in school and out against the restraints in our constitution. A truckload of books have been written condemning the Supreme court for applying the constitution against congressional invasions of it. The President is making trade treaties with foreign countries without "the advice and consent of the senate," as the constitution requires, and it provokes no comment from the organs of discussion. The constitution has been radically changed without amending it. We are just doting on leadership.

Unless we turn from our frantic attention to foreign affairs and begin a fundamental study of our own the breakdown, of which there are many indications, will become a fact. We, now quite uninformed about our constitution, should study it thoroly, and then hew to its every line. Otherwise we may in time find ourselves going to war when we do not want to. THOMAS JAMES NORTON.

WE HAVE FAVORED IT.

Chicago, Dec. 22.—I have just finished reading your editorial on the Municipal court in today's issue of THE TRIBUNE, headed "Death of an Ideal."

As I diagnose the cause of the death, it is the elective system for selecting judges that is now in vogue. Until some method is found which can secure sufficient backing of popular sentiment and political acceptability to be enacted in law, we will continue to have courts manned by the incompetent and lazy so far as judicial duties are concerned. The judges are probably very industrious, but their energy is expended in keeping up their political fences and getting themselves and families jobs to assist toward that end.

The bill introduced in the last legislature, with the indorsement of the Chicago Bar association and the Chicago Federation of Labor, offers something which has some chance of passage and which would, in the course of time, effect substantial improvement in the personnel of the Municipal court. I do not recall any very enthusiastic support being given to that bill by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

PAUL O'DONNELL.

THE THEATER IN CHICAGO.

Chicago, Dec. 26.—I'll wager the Tribune editorial writer who urged a theatrical revival saying, "If the business men of the theater won't send us plays to see we may have to produce our own," hid in shame when he read in your same issue the article headed "Union Boss Rifles 'Scandals' Skit," telling how the little man, Jimmy Petrillo, misused his labor power to mutilate the text of a musical show and to issue dire threats to blue pencil another called "Hellzapoppin," which is on its way hither.

If any one wants to know why theaters are dark, why theatrical managers strike Chicago from their itineraries, why hundreds of musicians and stage hands are on relief it seems to me the answer is quite clear.

The so-called "legitimate theater" in Chicago is the joke of America's amusement industry. Kelly won't let us see "Tobacco Road." Petrillo turns thumbs down on "Scandals" and "Hellzapoppin," producing managers erase Chicago from their routes, and THE TRIBUNE urges Chicagoans to invest their money and talent to "produce their own." Fuck had the answer. But how long are we going to stand for it? A PLAYGOER.

BRIDGE REPAIRS.

Chicago, Dec. 20 [Friend of the People].—When will the bridge at Irving Park and the river be fixed? When wet it is slippery and very often I have found myself swaying or skidding when crossing it in rainy weather. I thought there was a plan afoot to replace the bridge with a modern, wide structure. A. N.

Reconstruction of this bridge was on the program of Cook county several years ago. In view of this proposed construction, repairs to the paving and decking were minimized. Recent word from the Cook county highway department indicates that the reconstruction of this bridge has been dropped from the program thru the years 1939, 1940, 1941, and 1942. As a result the city will endeavor to obtain funds for this reconstruction and in the meantime repairs will be made to correct the conditions you complain of in so far as it is practicable under the circumstances above outlined.

GRAND JURY ASKS EXTENDED PROBE OF VOTE FRAUDS

Urges Court Supervision of Police at Polls.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

The December grand jury, finishing its work, recommended yesterday that the offices of County Judge Jarecki and State's Attorney Courtney continue the investigation of vote frauds before the January grand jury. The jury's report was given to Chief Justice John Prystalski in Criminal court.

The jury, which examined the records of scores of precincts in which it said "flagrant fraud is apparent," asserted that it concurred in the findings of the October and November grand juries of "shocking conditions" in recent elections.

Changes in Laws Urged.

The grand jury, which was discharged from further service, suggested some changes in the election laws. One suggestion was that the selection in a precinct of one election judge who does not live in the ward would help to insure honest elections. Another was that policemen at polling places should be placed under jurisdiction of the county judge.

The jurors also recommended changes to permit the selection of a special list of jurors of "at least ordinary competence" to try election fraud cases. It was suggested that this plan might be modeled on the "blue ribbon" jury system in use in New York City.

Urge Jurors of "Highest Type."

"Indictment without conviction is no real deterrent to vote stealing," the report said. "Election fraud cases are of sufficient importance to warrant the service of jurors of the highest type."

Judge Prystalski commended the work of the grand jury, and said that blue ribbon juries are not part of a democracy.

The chief justice said police on duty at polling places are subject to the authority of the election judge, who is in supreme command. He said it might help if policemen, as the jury suggested, were made officers of the election board on election days. He said "many fine, honest, and capable policemen are doing their duty," and resent imputations in other grand jury reports.

Suit Filed to Halt Trials.

A suit for an injunction to halt the prosecution of vote fraud trials until the Illinois Supreme court rules on a pending petition for a mandamus to force the destruction of ballots more than six months old was filed in Circuit court. It was filed by Joseph T. Harrington, an attorney, as a taxpayer. He has represented a number of the defendants in the current vote fraud inquiry.

The suit names as defendants Judge Jarecki, John F. Cashen Jr., special prosecutor of vote fraud cases; James Connery, special election commissioner; Stanley Ronski, ballot box custodian, and John S. Rusch, chief clerk of the election board.

According to the suit, the Supreme court may not reach a decision until the February or April term on the mandamus petition. This was filed recently by Carl G. Stockholm, proprietor of several cleaning and dyeing establishments and a former six-day bicycle rider. The mandamus petition asks that the election board be ordered to obey a provision in the law that all ballots in a public election be destroyed six months after the election. The fraud inquiry has dealt chiefly with the last April elections.

The suit seeks to halt the prosecutions on the ground that if the Supreme court orders the ballots destroyed the prosecutions will be void and a waste of money.

COURTNEY MOVES TO RENEW CHARGE AGAINST M'GARRY

Open Way for Appeal on Indictment.

State's Attorney Courtney moved yesterday against Judge Eugene L. McGarry of the Municipal court, who has been under investigation by the judiciary committee of the Chicago Bar association.

John Gallagher, assistant state's attorney, obtained a writ of error from the Illinois Appellate court as a preliminary for an appeal from the recent dismissal of an indictment against McGarry.

Charged with Malfeasance.

The indictment, charging malfeasance and conspiracy to accept false bail bond acknowledgements, was dismissed Nov. 21 by Judge Joseph Graber in Criminal court. Judge Graber held that the alleged acts came within McGarry's discretion as a judge.

The Appellate court directed the clerk of the Criminal court to produce the record of the case by Jan. 17 and allowed McGarry until Feb. 6 to file an answer.

The bar association board of managers after a two and a half hour session refused yesterday to discuss the report of its judiciary committee on the conduct of Judge Eugene J. Holland of the Municipal court. The report was submitted Wednesday by the committee.

Judge Relieved of Duty.

The investigation of Judge Holland is an outgrowth of the disclosure of his business deals with Edward J. O'Hare, front man for the Capone syndicate, who was murdered by shotgun assassins. The judge was temporarily relieved of bench assignments early this month.

The judiciary committee has the alternatives of recommending the disbarment or censuring of Judge Holland, or of absolving him of any irregularities. The board of managers is empowered to accept or reject the recommendation. In the event disbarment or censure were decided upon, the board would request the Illinois Supreme court to take such action.

PROBE CHARGES OF BRIBE OFFER TO PUBLISHER

Investigators for United States Attorney William Campbell pressed an investigation yesterday into the charges of Frank H. Just, publisher of the Waukegan News-Sun, that he was offered $100,000 to withdraw his opposition to syndicate gambling in Lake county. Just said the offer was made shortly before the establishment Sept. 5 of a new daily newspaper, the Waukegan Post, by William Goldstein. Goldstein is the attorney for William R. Skidmore, reputed gambling boss.

Yesterday the investigators questioned Goldstein, Frank B. Fowler, general manager of the Post, and A. E. Smith, formerly an employé of the Post's circulation department. Smith recently furnished the government with a list of names of subscribers to the paper. Among them was the name of Edward J. O'Hare, slain front man for the Capone interests. Goldstein has denied that Skidmore has any interest in the Post.

JUDGE ATTACKS GAMING REPORT OF GRAND JURY

Complains That It Slurs Municipal Court.

The state's attorney's office was notified yesterday that Chief Justice John Prystalski of the Criminal court would be asked today to expunge all or parts of the report of the September grand jury. This report, in general terms, asserted that gambling in Chicago and Cook county was widespread and that enforcement as carried on was only a "colossal sham battle."

Attorneys George Quilici and Myer N. Rosengard, acting in behalf of Judge George B. Weiss of the Municipal court, gave the notification. It was explained that Judge Weiss objected to alleged slurs by the grand jury against the whole membership of the court.

Contend Jury Exceeds Powers.

In their formal notice to State's Attorney Courtney the attorneys contended that there is no power granted to grand juries to make general charges against courts and enforcement officers, and that the jurors should remain silent unless they have evidence to justify indictments for malfeasance or misfeasance.

Further, it was alleged, the "charges and innuendoes" tended to cast doubt, suspicion, and mistrust on all judges of the Municipal court, seriously affecting its standing and credit with the public. Another point was that the members of the court had been given no chance to defend themselves and "prove such charges unfounded."

Attorney Cites a Precedent.

Attorney Rosengard said last night that there was ample precedent for the demand for expunging. He recalled that in 1919 Judge Irwin R. Hazen of the Municipal court objected to a grand jury report that made general charges against his court, and that Judge Marcus A. Kavanagh had the report withdrawn.

"Grand jury powers are well defined," the attorney asserted. "Reports on the county jail's condition are the only ones specified. When the grand jury does not indict its duty is to keep the testimony it takes secret. We shall argue this matter strictly on the law."

Other observers said that if Judge Prystalski expunges the September report similar attacks might be made on general observations about vote frauds turned in by the October and November grand juries.

Gambling Record Assailed.

Among the statements in the September report, to which Judge Weiss objects, are the following:

"That branch of the Municipal court before which these [gambling] cases come obtains no evidence, but the judges contribute to the travesty by condoning the steady parade thru their courts. Thousands of arrests have been made, but there has not been a single conviction in years. Millions of dollars are wasted yearly in this colossal sham battle. . . .

"First of all we seriously condemn the prevalent practice of passing the buck between the policing bodies of the city and county and the courts."

Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby of the Municipal court yesterday announced the assignments of judges to take effect Jan. 1. Judge John V. McCormick is to sit in the State Street court. Judge Jay A. Schiller, who has been in that court, goes to the Court of Domestic Relations.

Will County Bailiff Made Chief Deputy Sheriff at 80

Alfred J. Lindgren, 80 years old, bailiff in the Will county court, was appointed chief deputy sheriff of Will county yesterday by Sheriff James O'Neill. Lindgren will succeed Chief Deputy Arthur Kelly, who is resigning, effective Jan. 8. Lindgren served a term as chief deputy 15 years ago.

Hundreds of Fowls Perish as Flames Damage Store

Hundreds of live turkeys, geese, and chickens perished early today when fire attacked the two story building of the National Poultry and Egg company, 1132 Randolph street. A supply of dressed fowls also was destroyed. Fourteen fire companies were summoned by a 2-11 alarm.

NUDE, YOUTHFUL BLONDE IS FOUND KNIFED TO DEATH

Victim Slain During a Struggle.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 28 (AP).—A dog's excited barks led today to discovery of the nude and mutilated body of an attractive blonde young woman in a vacant lot a few blocks from the new Union station.

The victim was identified as Jerry Burns, 23 years old, an entertainer. A friend, Beverly Ann Greenwood, made the identification. She said she last saw the girl at 8:30 o'clock last night.

"I work in the same place she did," Miss Greenwood asserted, "but I don't know who killed her. I didn't know she had any enemies."

Stabbed Five Times.

The young woman had been stabbed five times in the back, surgeons reported. The broken blade of a razor-sharp dagger was imbedded in a shoulder wound. Possibly in the hope of preventing identification, the slayer had slashed once from the girl's neck in a semicircle up the side of her face to her forehead.

A butcher, Refugio Remirez, discovered the body just after dawn when he stepped outside his house to quiet his barking dog.

Beneath the still warm form police found a crushed artificial red rose, probably a hair ornament. Near by was a 5-inch yellow gold brooch. A white gold wedding ring and a diamond were on her ring finger; another diamond on her right hand.

Evidence of Struggle.

Police said the girl probably died after a struggle in a motor car, presumably with a spurned suitor. Tire tracks indicated an automobile had been driven slowly into the lot and stopped. It had left at high speed, however, with spinning wheels digging deeply into the dirt.

Miss Greenwood told detectives the dead girl arrived here a short while ago from Texas, and that she had a husband in San Bernardino, Cal.

MOVES TO QUASH 3 INDICTMENTS IN MANTENO DEATHS

Motions to quash indictments against A. L. Bowen, state director of public welfare, and two other state employés indicted with him on charges of malfeasance in office, were filed yesterday with Judge Roscoe C. South of Watseka, sitting in Kankakee county Circuit court at Kankakee.

The indictments were returned after 53 deaths in the typhoid epidemic at the Manteno state hospital. Others named were Dr. Ralph T. Hinton, former superintendent of the hospital, and Mrs. Lillian Williams, dietician.

Attorney John Mayhew of Kankakee attacked the indictments on the grounds that the special grand jury which returned them was illegally chosen and impaneled; was convened before the regular grand jury was dismissed, was partial and prejudiced, and returned vague and indefinite indictments.

tried to settle his differences with the union, but had been told he would have to rejoin Affiliated Garages first.

Three Pickets Are Held.

Two pickets seized by the police yesterday are Frank Dougherty of Delavan Lake, Wis., and Charles Gilliam, colored, 3541 North Halsted street. Gilliam was formerly employed in the garage at $14 a week. He told Capt. Patrick O'Connell that he was being paid $5 a day as a picket for "working in his Sunday clothes." Both denied knowing anything about the slugging of Hvid.

Alex Schragel, 30 years old, 1108 North Pulaski road, who said he was formerly a member of the union, was seized in his home by police last night, and held for questioning today. Police said he had been on picket duty at the garage for several months until Dec. 10. He is a former boxer.

William Bibe, a business agent for the union, said the garage had been picketed since March and that he hadn't heard of any troubles Hvid might have had with the Mermall association.

THREE MURDERS UNSOLVED

Police admitted yesterday that three murders in 1939, all attributed to labor terrorism, were still listed on their records as unsolved mysteries.

In addition, several persons, including one woman, were shot and wounded in labor violence. Many were slugged, and considerable property was damaged by labor vandals. Few of those who took part in this labor lawlessness of the year have been brought to justice.

The unsolved murders were those of:

James Lawrence, shot to death at Walton and Paulina streets April 12 while guarding a Wieboldt department store truck against the violence of labor terrorists.

Louis Schiavone, killed by shotgun assassins in Oak Lawn July 5. He was carrying a copy of an audit of the books of the rich Elevator Operators and Starters' union which had just been delivered to union officials. Investigators blamed a struggle over control of the union.

Paul Peters, ambushed and killed by gunmen in front of his home at 3505 North Oak Park avenue Oct. 31. He was an insurgent in Local 4 of the International Pressmen and Assistants' union.

The principal nonfatal shootings and sluggings:

Charles Youngblood and his wife, Loretta, shot and severely wounded March 16 in the 2200 block of Jackson boulevard. Youngblood, an ex-convict bandit, was business agent for local 147 of the painters' union. He was a close friend of James G. Dungan, czar of the union, who was assassinated Aug. 8, 1938, in the sixth murder of eight years of the union's internal warfare.

John Borowski, a driver for the Wieboldt stores, beaten into unconsciousness with ball bat April 12, the day James Lawrence was murdered. Terrorists beat two other Wieboldt drivers and shot at two more the same day. The violence was attributed to a dispute between the unions seeking to represent the Wieboldt workers. There was no strike by the employés.

Harry Thieme, financial secretary of the Egg Handlers' union, shot and wounded in a fight in front of a produce store at 6520 South Cicero avenue on April 17. The fight started after Herman Wadler, the owner, protested to pickets about vandalism in which his trucks were damaged.

Herbert March, shot and wounded July 14 at 58th street and Ashland avenue in the second attack on his life in a year. He was a district supervisor for the Packing House Workers' Organizing committee, an affiliate of the Congress of Industrial organizations.

Hyman Brand, clubbed Aug. 11 on his way to work in a fruit store at 4810 South Ashland avenue. The store was being picketed by local 1248 of the Retail Clerks' International Protective association.

Gust Terzakes, owner of three restaurants, ambushed by ball bat terrorists Sept. 20 in front of one of his restaurants at 123 East Oak street. The Bartenders' union and Restaurant Employés' union were picketing Terzakes' restaurants in a membership drive.

Joseph Lowicz, bludgeoned with auto jack handles Oct. 25. He was an employé of the Central Metallic Casket company, 2333 Logan boulevard, where the Casket Makers' union, local 166, had called a strike.

Leon R. Cooke, shot and seriously wounded Dec. 8 in the Scrap Iron and Junk Handlers' union headquarters at 3159 Roosevelt road. Cooke, an attorney, was one of the organizers of the union.

Charles Siebelt, clubbed Dec. 15 as left his work at the American Stove company plant at 157th street and Commercial avenue, Harvey, where he is a foreman. He was a leader of 150 employés who had refused to join the Steel Workers' Organizing committee union.

Six men were burned by acid and showered with metal bars and rocks Aug. 22 when a motorcade of terrorists attacked a truck during the lawlessness at the Revere Copper and Brass company, 2200 North Natchez avenue. The terrorists pursued the truck crew into a store and severely injured the son of the proprietor. Stench bombs and bricks were thrown in other disorders growing out of a strike called at the plant by the United Automobile Workers of America.

URGES REFORMS IN RURAL COUNTY SHERIFF SYSTEM

Ross C. Saunders.

A demand for reform of the sheriff system of law enforcement in rural areas was made yesterday by Ross C. Saunders, chief of the state bureau of rural crime prevention. He spoke before the annual meeting of the Illinois State's Attorneys association in the Morrison hotel.

"The sheriff's office as an institution is as antiquated as oxen," he said. "The state constitution prevents the office from being modernized, properly manned, and adequately equipped. It provides that the expenses of the sheriff's office cannot exceed the fees collected by the sheriff."

Saunders asserted the constitution should be changed so that county expenditures for law enforcement could be financed on a budget appropriation basis like other public offices. He recommended, also, that a sheriff be permitted to succeed himself in office, a practice now prohibited.

The problem of rural crime was summarized in an address by George A. Hall, president of the association and state's attorney of Montgomery county.

Two Drug Store Robbers Flee in Exchange of Shots

Shots were exchanged at close range last night between two bandits and Edward Marek, a tavern owner at 1059 North Pulaski road, when Marek went to the aid of Harry L. Landsman, owner of a drug store at 1101 North Pulaski road. The bandits were holding up Landsman when a woman passerby saw what was taking place. She ran across the street and notified Marek. The tavern owner and his bartender, Arthur Jones, ran out and attempted to stop the robbers. One fired several shots at Jones. Marek fired five shots at the bandits. They escaped.

Chicagoan's Will Benefits K. M. Landis Also.

The University of Chicago was left approximately $2,000,000 yesterday under the terms of the will of Orson C. Wells, retired Chicago broker. The will was filed in Clearwater, Fla., where Mr. Wells died Dec. 10 at the age of 80.

The bequest to the university increased the institution's endowment gifts during December to about $8,000,000, and made December one of the richest income months in its history.

3 Other Gifts in December.

On Dec. 9 the university was given $1,000,000 by the estate of the late Mrs. Clara A. Abbott, widow of Dr. Wallace C. Abbott, founder of the Abbott laboratories in North Chicago. This was followed by a grant of $1,500,000 from the Rockefeller Foundation.

On Wednesday Robert M. Hutchins, president of the university, revealed that Albert D. Lasker, advertising executive, had given his Lake Forest estate, valued at $3,500,000, to the university.

University officials were unable to say last night how much of the month's $8,000,000 gifts would be added finally to the permanent endowment fund, which at present amounts to $78,500,000. They said that shrinkages often occur in the value of gifts due to market fluctuations and other causes.

Specified for Medical Research.

In making his gift to the university, Mr. Wells directed that it be used to found a permanent fund for medical education and research in connection with the Billings clinic at the institution. The clinic, which specializes in teaching and research in internal medicine, is a section of the Albert Merritt Billings hospital. It was named after the late Dr. Frank Billings, one of the school's noted faculty members. Mr. Wells and Dr. Billings were close friends, and Mr. Wells became interested in medical research in 1931 thru that friendship.

"Mr. Wells became interested in the medical field in 1931," recalled President Hutchins last night. "At that time he proposed at some date to make a substantial gift. The university will use the gift to meet expenses in its medical work. It is a very important and encouraging gift, and will make it possible for us to continue to carry on our work on the highest level."

Leaves Landis $50,000.

Mr. Wells left $50,000 to his old friend, Kenesaw Mountain Landis, baseball commissioner, and $50,000 to the Presbyterian hospital of Chicago, for use in urological research. He also left $50,000 and his Clearwater home to his nurse, Mrs. Nina Callahan Skorcz of Galesburg, Ill.

To his brother, Benjamin Wells, 84, of Neenah, Wis., Mr. Wells left $20,000 and an annuity of $6,000. To Orson McNellis, young Chicago broker and son of a former business asociate and friend, he gave $25,000, plus "various jewelry and other tangibles," and to Mrs. L. J. Cassell of Vincennes, Ind., also a friend, he gave $10,000.

Mr. Wells was once a partner of the famous speculator, John W. [Bet a Million] Gates, and made the bulk of his fortune before the turn of the century. He retired in 1907. He never married. He was a world traveler and clubman and a friend of writers and artists.

TEACHERS FAVOR CIVIL SERVICE IN ILLINOIS SCHOOLS

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 28 (AP).—Delegates to the 8th annual convention of the Illinois Education association today backed proposals for teacher civil service and raising of educational requirements for certification of beginning teachers.

The meeting adopted a report of the association's committee on tenure, presented by Chairman Blanche Cline of Champaign, which declared:

"State legislation is necessary to provide adequate tenure for teachers. Tenure founded upon local board action is too easily changed to give protection. A tenure law should apply the civil service principle to teachers."

Adoption of the tenure report presaged a renewed effort to secure tenure legislation. The association's bill on teacher tenure failed to pass in the house at the last session of the in the house at the last legislature.

College Students' Morality High, Says Health Expert

New York, Dec. 28 [Special].—Dr. Robert J. Legge, retired health director of the University of California, addressing 200 physicians and educators attending the annual session of the American Student Health association here today, said he had found that college students, especially women, have "exceptionally high standards of sex morality." Dr. Legge criticized the attacks on college morals, many of which have come from the ranks of educators. He asserted that of 4,836 undergraduates at the University of California who submitted to tests for syphilis, only seven were found to have been afflicted. Out of 5,000 undergoing similar tests at the University of Minnesota, he said, only 10 cases of syphilis were discovered.

SENATORS URGE CONVENTIONS BE HELD IN CHICAGO

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28 (AP).—A trio of Republican senators plugged for Chicago today as a logical site for their party's 1940 national convention, while Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.] said the Democrats should go to Chicago or to San Francisco.

With the Republican national committee expected to meet in January, Senator Charles L. McNary [R., Ore.] disclosed that the convention site already has become the subject of extended discussion. The committee will fix the date and place.

"I favor Chicago because it is in the center of Republican strength in normal times and it is the major trading market for the farm producers of the country," McNary said.

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] called Chicago "the logical choice," and Senator Arthur Capper [R., Kas.] declared that if Kansas City, Mo., did not make a bid, Kansas Republicans would favor Chicago.

TWO CHICAGOANS GET $75,000 EACH IN WIDOW'S WILL

Two Chicagoans were given bequests of $75,000 each in the will of Mrs. Harriet Burton Gould, widow of a Wilmington, Ill., farmer, filed yesterday in the Will County court. They are Earl Meyers, now in Batavia, Java, and Walter Meyers, 4821 Fletcher street, brothers, who are nephews of Mrs. Gould. A third brother, Joseph of Wapato, Wash., receives a similar amount.

Attorney Fred W. Walter said Mrs. Gould left an estate in excess of $300,000 on her death Nov. 21. Much of this is in farm land in the vicinity of Wilmington, 19 miles south of Joliet. The will provides a bequest of $5,000 to the First Presbyterian church in Wilmington, and smaller amounts to other relatives.

TRAINS CRASH AT CROSSING.

Clinton, Ill., Dec. 28 [Special].—Trainmen escaped injury today when an east bound Illinois Central freight train crashed into an Illinois Terminal train at the Monroe street crossing here. The I. C. locomotive smashed into the traction train, cutting it in two. A dense fog was blamed for the accident.

TAXES TAKE THIRD OF ESTATE LEFT BY BUFFINGTON

Federal and state taxes took one-third of the estate left by Eugene J. Buffington, former president of the Illinois Steel company. This was shown yesterday in a supplementary final accounting filed with Joseph F. Geary, assistant to Judge John F. O'Connell of the Probate court. Federal taxes on the $3,023,000 estate amounted to $815,696 and the state inheritance tax was $219,479, a total of $1,035,175. Mr. Buffington died Dec. 9, 1937.

Rockford College's Oldest Alumna Dies in Santa Fe

Belvidere, Ill., Dec. 28 [Special].—Word was received here today of the recent death in Santa Fe, N. M., of Mrs. Phoebe Pier Woods, 95 years old, a native of Boone county and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Pier, who settled in this community in 1841. She was the oldest alumna of Rockford college, where she received her degree in 1865. She later had charge of a girls' school at Warren and then taught in the high school here and at Galena.

SCULPTOR CHARGES HIS WIFE WED HIM TO HELP HER CHANCES IN FILMS

Carl Hallsthammar, sculptor and wood carver, accused Mrs. Genevieve Grant Hallsthammar yesterday of wooing and marrying him so that she might establish herself in the motion picture world. The charge was his answer to her divorce suit, in which she charged cruelty.

Hallsthammar divorced Mrs. Martha Hallsthammar Nov. 15 on a charge of desertion. Two days later he married the present Mrs. Hallsthammar, who was the model for his best known work, "Venus in Red Cherry." Five days after the marriage she sued for divorce, charging that he struck her.

Hallsthammar lives at 1638 Berwyn avenue. He is 42 years old. His wife is 28. His answer, drawn by his attorney, Irving D. Levin, asserted that Mrs. Hallsthammar sought contracts with several motion picture corporations after the wedding, and that she emphasized that she was the sculptor's wife.

SERVING CHICAGO FOR 92 YEARS

BAR COLIN ROSS FOR PROPAGANDA, DIES GROUP ASKS

German Spy in Last War, Committee Reports.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28 (AP).—The Dies committee recommended today that Colin Ross, whom it described as a "Nazi propagandist," be prevented from ever setting foot again on American soil.

Colin Ross. [Acme Telephoto.]

Ross has been registered at the state department as an agent for various German interests, including motion picture companies, but the committee expressed the opinion in a formal statement that he had not reported the full scope of his activities.

The committee report declared that during the world war Ross was a "German spy and secret service agent." He has been in the United States intermittently in recent years and sailed for Japan last March. He is now believed to be in Germany and there has been no public indication that he wished to return to this country.

Report Secret Orders.

The committee, which was directed by the house to investigate un-American activities, said that high federal officials have issued warnings and secret orders concerning Ross' affairs while he was in the United States.

The committee announced, however, that it was reporting only on its own investigation of his activities. It summarized some of its findings as follows:

"That many of the speaking engagements in this country featuring Ross were arranged for by the various Nazi consular officials situated thruout the nation and that he was promoted by, and spoke for, gatherings of the German-American bund.

Boys Taken to Germany.

"That Ross was instrumental in having 30 American boys taken to Germany and that the greatest part of the expense of this trip was paid for by various subdivisions of the Nazi government and some alleged German-Americans residing in Germany.

"That within the past 12 months Ross toured the United States with his wife, sons, and uniformed chauffeur in a special Mercedes automobile, equipped with motion picture cameras and that he appeared to have funds far in excess of his reported earnings from Nazi agencies.

"That he attempted to photograph several specialized industrial plants and that at least one American refused to comply with Ross' requests because they were so extremely derogatory to the best interests of the United States."

The committee said it had information that Ross carried expensive photographic equipment which was arranged to permit him to take pictures quickly and from any angle.

Made Public by Voorhis.

The report was made public by Representative Voorhis [D., Cal.], chairman of a subcommittee on Nazism and Fascism. He said the six other committee members concurred.

Voorhis said in a statement accompanying the report that the form of government of Germany or any other nation was not a committee concern, but he added:

"Attempts by any foreign agency to influence American citizens in favor of a foreign form of government and against American democracy are quite a different matter."

The committee announced that, in releasing the report, it wanted to make the "emphatic statement" that none of its members "entertains the slightest doubt of the unswerving loyalty to the United States of our fellow citizens of German descent."

Red Fund to Fight G. O. P.

The committee also made public tonight a confidential report saying the communist party in California sought the defeat of the Republican administration in that state last year with a $25,000 campaign fund and an organization campaign in mass industries.

The committee released the proceedings of the California convention of the party in May, 1938, which was seized at secret headquarters of the party in that state by James Steedman and George Hurley, committee investigators, and became a part of the committee record.

This document asserted the party had a membership of about 6,000 at the time, sought a 4,000 increase by the start of this year, described former Gov. Frank Merriam as the "Charlie McCarthy of California's economic royalists" and called for better organization in large shops and basic industries.

The convention minutes carried a list of 24 members of a presiding committee, including "Comrade Germanie" and "Comrade Don." These were not further identified in the record.

The pamphlet said in a section on the 1938 campaign and expenses:

"Two major tasks face the California party during 1938—the defeat of reaction in the 1938 elections and the building of the party to reach a membership of 10,000 by Jan. 1, 1939. To carry on the election work effectively and to guarantee our force of 10,000 members, the convention indorsed the raising of an election party building fund of $25,000 from now until Labor day."

Ross' Chicago Acquaintances Tell How G-Men Trailed Him

Two Chicago acquaintances of Colin Ross, who was described as a Nazi propagandist and former German spy yesterday by the Dies committee, revealed last night that they were visited last summer by federal agents who sought information about Ross' activities in Chicago.

Dr. Adolph H. Dyckerhoff, a special industrial engineer for the Commonwealth Edison company, said government agents came to his Glencoe home in August to ask about Ross, whom Dr. Dyckerhoff had met when Ross was visiting and lecturing in Chicago last winter.

Came to Him for Help.

"I told them everything I knew about Ross, which wasn't much," Dr. Dyckerhoff said. "Ross came to me in December of last year and told me that he wanted to take pictures of the latest achievements in American life and industry for use in his books and lecture tours. He asked me to suggest what he should photograph, and to help him obtain permission to take the pictures.

"I suggested several subjects, including the Tennessee Valley authority and the rising chemical industries of the south, but when I tried to get Ross permission to take the pictures the TVA and the industries refused to grant it. Why, I didn't know. Shortly after that Ross left the city."

Mrs. Frieda Brown, wife of Dr. E. V. L. Brown of the faculty of the University of Chicago medical school, said she and her husband had known Ross for about six years.

Knew Ross as Lecturer.

"We understood that he was traveling about the United States taking pictures and making studies of life and industry here for use in his lectures," she said. "He visited our home in Winnetka a few times, and once or twice I heard him lecture on his travels in various club meetings. At one of these lectures he denied emphatically that he was in any way connected with the Nazi party."

Mrs. Brown said government investigators visited her home about the same time they called upon Dr. Dyckerhoff.

Prof. Martin Sprengling of the department of oriental languages and literature at the University of Chicago, scoffed at the assertions of the Dies committee that Ross was employed by the Nazi government to spread their doctrines.

"Ross was a personal friend of mine," Prof. Sprengling asserted. "There was nothing secret about his work. He was simply a lecturer and traveler, and the pictures that he took were for the sole purpose of illustrating his books and lectures."

EDUCATOR RAPS STUDENT UNION AS CONSPIRATORS

Charges Red Plot to Sabotage Defense.

BY FRED GRAFF.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., Dec. 28.—John E. Waters, midwest secretary of the Constitutional Education league, disturbed the fifth annual conference of the American Student union here today by charges the A. S. U. was communist controled. He said the A. S. U. was on record as "planning to sabotage our national defense." Waters said he had forwarded his information to the federal department of justice.

No formal reply to Waters' charges will be made until tomorrow, but officials of the American Student union said they would "welcome as many observers as the government cares to send."

Charges Conspiracy.

Waters charged further that the organization is conspiring to capture and control the government's aviation training program. He quoted Molly Yard, national chairman of the A. S. U., as having asserted this would be possible because the government's program is in the hands of "persons we know and trust." He identified Molly Yard as Mrs. Sylvester Garrett, whose husband is an attorney for the National Labor Relations board.

"One of the highlights of the convention," Waters continued, "will be a vicious attack on the Dies committee. The under cover slogan is to 'get the Dies committee before it gets us.'"

Debate Russia's Actions.

A controversy over whether to adopt resolutions approving or condemning Russia's invasion of Finland also was disturbing the session as it moved toward a showdown some time tomorrow on its official attitude toward the domestic and international policies of the soviets. About 425 delegates, principally from the eastern states, are here for the conclave, which will end Saturday.

Opinion among the delegates on the Red invasion of Finland appeared to be about equally divided today following last night's symposium in which soviet policies were defended by Earl Browder, general secretary of the communist party in America, and assailed by Joel Seidman of New York City, secretary of the League for Industrial Democracy. Seidman condemned Russia's invasion of Finland as "one of the most horrible things the soviet union ever has done." Browder asserted Russia was forced to "regain" certain protective territory" before Great Britain, France, and "other large democratic countries use Finland as an opening wedge for an attack on Russia next spring."

MILK UNION HEAD SUED ON CHARGE OF RIGGING BONDS

Suit for $30,000 damages was filed in Superior court yesterday against the Milk Wagon Drivers' union and Robert G. Fitchie, who was defeated yesterday for reelection as president of the union.. The suit, filed by the 3333 Washington Boulevard Building corporation and three bondholders, accuses the defendants of manipulations by which stock of the corporation and bonds on the ten story apartment building at 3333 Washington boulevard were depreciated.

The union owned $10,000 [par value] worth of the bonds, according to the suit. Fitchie was made a member of the bondholders' protective committee when the building's financing was reorganized. But, says the suit, he interfered with the management until the bonds depreciated.

The union then bought stock and more bonds, the plaintiffs charge, raising the value of its holdings to $110,000 market value. The plaintiffs charge that Fitchie and the union depreciated the value for the purpose of gaining control of the building. Joining with the corporation in the suit are Rochelle Siegel, Samuel Levy, and Miriam Harris.

ONE of the most magnificent rooms in the world is used but once a year. On the Annamite New Year's Day, the Emperor holds an imperial reception in his lacquer, gold and jade decorated Throne Room. As Captain White watched this gala function, his fingers itched for a camera, but photographs of this precious chamber are strictly taboo. With silent suddenness a white-bearded mandarin whispered to Captain White, "If you keep this under your hat, you'll be able to use it." He slipped a tiny mechanism under the Captain's pith helmet. "Pretty clever, these Indo-Chinese," thought Captain White, as he bowed again and again to his imperial host, clicking his heels each time. For this was the way he covered the clicking of his concealed camera. Returning the favor, Captain White sent his mandarin friend a case of White Horse as a New Year's gift. For even in far off Annam, they know how to usher in a Happy New Year. Let White Horse grace your New Year's table and be the Scotch you enjoy the year round. Match it if you can!

Danger on the Border

SYNOPSIS.

Leonard speeds west by car after finding that the sample of ore sent to him by his sick friend, Dillon, is rich in gold. He picks up two strange companions, Mrs. Sebastian, who owns a Mexican roadhouse, and Louis Mestres, who claims to be a line jumper. In a lonely spot they come upon the pay car of the Golconda mine—all occupants murdered, and three holdup men still on the scene. They chase Leonard's car with a machine gun. Mestres drops tacks in the road and stops their pursuit. He recognizes one bandit as the mine's paymaster. Paul Collins, a crooked local assayer, tests Dillon's ore and gives him a false report. He enlists the aid of another rascal, Kent, to cheat Dillon. Dillon breaks the sad news to Pat, an orphaned girl, who owns an old hotel and who had staked him, then goes off to collect his tools. At Pat's hotel Leonard sees the girl slip out in the night with a gun. Distrusting Kent, Collins sends two hirelings to follow Dillon and locate his claim. Kent, suspicious, puts Papago, an old watchman, on the trail. Taylor, the Golconda's paymaster, arranges with Kent to have Leonard blamed for his crime. In Collins' office Pat finds the correct report on Dillon's ore, but Kent and Collins find her there. Kent kidnaps the girl in his car—her old Chinese servant clings to the spare tire. Leonard goes to see Mrs. Sebastian and walks into a trap set to capture him. Mestres is hobnobbing with one of the bandits and Mrs. Sebastian pretends not to know him. Leonard escapes only to accept a lift from Kent and be turned over to the Mexican police, but Mestres rescues him. They pass the building where Kent had placed Pat and are hailed by the Chinese servant. It is a marijuana den, run by an outlawed doctor and his wife, Anna. Leonard and his companions break into the building just in time to save her. Leonard and Pat set out to find Dillon. Kent and Collins also set out separately on Dillon's trail. Collins finds Dillon and kills him. Kent witnesses the murder. Coming upon Leonard they accuse him of the deed. They tie him up and go on to explore the mine. Pat, who hides till they are gone, comes to his rescue. They bury Dillon. Leonard sends Pat off to register the claim. She meets Papago, who was a friend of her father, and sends him back to help Leonard. But Pat's car is wrecked. Anna regains possession of her. In the mine Kent pushes Collins into a pit. Leonard enters the mine and finds Collins just as a charge of dynamite set off by Kent closes the mine. Leonard dynamites an opening.

INSTALMENT XLI.

A TIMELY ARRIVAL.

A burly half-breed who was living in the company store along with his multitudinous family, appeared in answer to a blast on the horn.

"I'm going to the Tanks," Papago told him. "Yo' can hold down the place while I'm away. I'll be back some time this afternoon."

Thus having established a basis of communication with the outer world in case the unexpected happened and he failed to turn up at home later, he shoved down the starter and threw in the gears. But he had not gone more than a hundred yards before he brought the little car to an abrupt stop. He picked up the field glasses from the seat beside him.

A cloud of dust was swirling down the pair of ruts which was designated on the maps as the county road. It was moving at a swift pace and it was so thick that the car within it was barely visible, but Papago had held those glasses on more than one mountain sheep when the animal was leaping from rock to rock, and he got a good look at the man in the driver's seat. He put the glasses down and started on. He was talking in an undertone, addressing himself as if he were another, after the habit of those who spend much of their time in the vacant spaces of the southwestern desert.

"That's Kent. And he's burning up the road. Now where do yo' reckon the other two would be?" Then, answering his question, "At Dillon's claims. I'll bet on that."

He was making the turn into the main road when he spoke again.

"'Pears like the showdown's come."

He lined out the car in the so-called highway and there was no deliberation in his driving now. As a matter of fact, there never was, once he was embarked. Like so many of the old timers, with whom the automobile was an innovation, he handled his in very much the same manner that he used to handle his saddle horse.

There were many moments when he and the car seemed to be plunging straight to ruin, but the disaster never came. There were slackenings of speed so abrupt that no one but a skilled horseman could have kept his balance on the seat, and the pickups that followed were breath-taking. The oil can and the canteen were rattling on the floorboards with a noise like a pair of riveters' hammers. And all the while, the lean, sunburned face remained as unperturbed as the face of an Indian chief sitting in the circle around the council fire.

He had known Dillon only slightly, a matter of saying howdy occasionally on the road and that was all. To him Leonard was but a name. He had seen Collins once or twice when he was in town, but never to exchange a word. His dislike for Kent was impersonal, born of the instincts which lead desert men to acceptance or rejection at first sight. The affair of the falsified assay receipt and the jumping of the claims were none of his business. But murder was a different matter. And Pat was his friend.

She was his friend because her father had been his friend. And when she told him her story, he had espoused her cause. And that included Leonard.

He had not smoked since he left the Old Stone House mine, because to roll a cigaret would have necessitated a brief halt, and there was no telling how much importance a few moments might assume when he reached his journey's end. So, when he threw on the brakes and shut off the power at the edge of the Little Mesa of the Dead, the first thing he did after climbing out of the car was to pull tobacco and papers from his shirt pocket. He was busy with his fingers while he was looking around him, and before he was done with the short inspection he was puffing contentedly.

The sun was throwing its first white hot rays into the canyon. The rocks, which had been like black velvet under the moon, were sharp now, rigidly outlined. The little white crosses looked very grim, the ironwood tree was a mockery of green boughs, a stiff imitation of the soft verdure which belongs to trees. The new grave showed plainly among the others. He glanced at all these things and he went on up the main gulch.

It was a narrow gorge above the forks. The walls were bare and sheer, the shadows hovered between them, dead black in contrast to the sunlight which lay upon the heights. The trail was unmarked and the granite held no sign of tracks for the ordinary observer, but Papago had learned the art of reading trails from the tribe whose name had been given him.

"Four burros," he murmured. "They came down and they went back. A man with them when they came down and that was Dillon. And here's signs of Kent on his trip out." He climbed on, leisurely, taking long strides, and as he went he nodded. "Must of been Kent and Collins driving them burros up. And one of them was having a hard time. That would be Kent, I reckon."

He had the rifle in his hand. The field glasses were in their scuffed leather case, slung over one shoulder; the canteen was over the other. Sometimes he halted; it was not for rest, it was to examine the skyline for some sign of men. Occasionally he spoke under his breath.

"A prospector's pick in his back. Hell of a thing for her to see. Here's where Kent fell down again. It must of come off at the mine, whatever it was. And where would Collins be? How about this fellow, Leonard?"

When he reached the side hill where the trail took off toward the old mine, he halted for some time and looked the land over before he started on this, the last lap. And when he was nearing the mouth of the amphitheater he heard a sound that brought him to an abrupt stop.

"Somebody's set off a stick of powder," he said. And when he started on, his leisure had departed. But there was no suddenness about his entrance into the bowl upon whose side the mouth of the tunnel showed as a narrow black crevice above a heap of broken rock. He was on his knees now, his rifle in one hand, in the other the field glasses. And when he brought the glasses to his eyes, the thing which had looked like a heap of clothes near the bottom of the pile of broken rock, resolved itself into the forms of two men. As he was looking, the man who was lying on top of the other raised himself. Papago remained motionless, watching the spasm of nausea. Then the man turned his face, and he recognized Collins. He took the glasses from his eyes and threw a cartridge into the chamber of the rifle. When he raised them again, Collins had Leonard's revolver.

Papago set the binoculars down on the hillside. He said,

"Two hundred yards. No wind worth figuring. I can cut it close; mebbe that will do the business."

Collins was raising the revolver and his eyes were venemous. His finger slipped inside the trigger guard. Then a sharp little wind brushed his cheek. He heard the whine of a slug as it ricocheted from the rocks in front of him; he saw the spurt of dust that it had raised. The flat report of the rifle reached his ears.

He lowered the automatic and looked around. Papago had come into the narrow neck of the amphitheater. He was on his knees; the rifle was at his shoulder. His placid voice floated across the interval,

"Put down that gun."

"Next time it will yo'r head I'll aim for."

Collins threw his pistol from him, and when Papago came to him he was sitting with his head bowed; his back was bent, his folded hands between his knees. Papago spoke slowly, his voice was barely audible. His words were not polite; they were unfit for repetition. But they were marvelous in their clarity.

He picked up the automatic pistol. Then he went to Leonard and turned him on his back. He sat down between the two men, his rifle under his crooked knees, the shorter weapon in his hand.

"By rights I ort to of killed yo'," he said. "Mebbe I will yet." He looked down on Leonard's upturned face, and lowered his lids. The lips seemed to have grown thinner, the line of his mouth was hard.

"My canteen's down there," he told Collins. "Go fetch it. And mind, I'm holding my bead on yo'. Don't try to pass that pint of rocks."

TRIMMINGS MAKE THE GINGERBREAD IN THESE CAKES

Gingerbread men are wearing lots of gingerbread-y trimmings these days. And in the case of these two spicy cakes, the trimmings make the gingerbread.

CHOCOLATE NUT GINGERBREAD

⅔ cup shortening
1 cup brown sugar
2 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted
2 eggs, well beaten
1⅝ cups cake flour
2½ teaspoons baking powder
2 teaspoons ginger
¼ teaspoon cloves
¾ teaspoon salt
½ cup nutmeats, broken
½ cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla extract

Cream the shortening and add brown sugar gradually, creaming until smooth. Add chocolate which has been melted over warm water and the well beaten eggs. Sift dry ingredients together and add alternately with combined milk and vanilla. Add broken nut meats and pour into a large, greased ring mold. Bake in a moderate [350 degrees] oven for 35 to 40 minutes, or until done.

MAPLE GINGERBREAD

1½ cups butter
2 cups maple sirup
1 cup sour milk
1 egg, beaten
3 cups sifted flour, all purpose
1 teaspoon ground ginger
1 tablespoon ground cinnamon
2 teaspoons baking powder
1½ teaspoons soda
¼ teaspoon salt

Melt butter, add sirup and bring to boil. Cool slightly and add combined egg and milk. Sift dry ingredients together and add to first mixture, beating until smooth. Pour into a large greased baking pan and bake in a slow oven [325 degrees] for about 1½ hours or until done.

BY MARY MEADE.

List the foods you'll need for New Year's dinner and parties, and you'll have a list of the featured bargains offered by Chicago grocers this week-end.

There are pickles and olives, fruit juices, ginger ale, and other bottled beverages, a variety of crackers, boiled ham, meat loaf, cold cuts, and all the other bits and bites you'll need to carry you right thru to Jan. 2.

Now don't turn up your nc at the idea of more turkey for New Year's without first looking at the price tag the turkey is wearing. Many dealers are holding what might be termed an end of the holiday clearance sale of the big birds this week-end.

Pork Loin Roast Is Cheap.

If you are surfeited with turkey, you can satisfy your craving for meat in another form without denting your budget. Pork loin roasts are extremely cheap, and there's something holidayish about pork roast—perhaps its relationship to the famous old time boar's head and roast suckling pig.

Legs of lamb, lamb chops, stewing chickens, ham, and beef chuck roasts are other good meat buys.

Vegetables are beginning the new year right by being nicely priced. More than one vegetable that's been wearing a fancy price tag all fall has suddenly come down to normal in the last couple of weeks. Green peas, for example, are even cheaper this week than last and are now inexpensive enough for everyday use.

Broccoli Is a Bargain.

Broccoli is cheaper than it has been all season. It comes in bright green, tight budded heads, too. Green beans [their general quality is good] are much lower priced this week. Also cheaper are bunch beets, Brussels sprouts, both old and new cabbage, green peppers, and spinach.

More cucumbers are coming from the hothouse each week, and their price is rising. Cauliflower too is going up in price.

Sweet potatoes and early new potatoes haven't changed in price, but the old white potatoes are slightly higher.

Ups and downs in fresh fruits are few and slight. You'll find grapefruit somewhat lower this week and western grapes a little higher.

LEFTOVERS MAKE TEMPTING DISH OF BROILED BEEF

It's almost worth roasting an extra pound or two of beef in order to use the leftovers in this tempting fashion:

BROILED BEEF SLICES

6 slices leftover roast beef
3 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon mustard
1 teaspoon vinegar
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
⅛ teaspoon cayenne pepper
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 egg yolk, beaten

Bread crumbs — combine butter mustard, vinegar, Worcestershire sauce and seasonings and moisten with egg yolk. Spread each slice of meat thinly on both sides with this mixture. Roll in bread crumbs and place on broiler rack of a moderate oven long enough to heat thoroly.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: True to His Oath

BUT, DOCTOR—YOU MUST TELL ME WHO SENT YOU—WHO IS PAYING FOR ALL THIS?
NOW, NOW, MRS. RAND—I'M NOT ALLOWED TO DO THAT—HA! HA! DON'T YOU WORRY ABOUT THAT FOR A SECOND—
BUT I'LL WANT TO PAY BACK WHOEVER IT IS, JUST AS SOON AS EVER I CAN—
HM-M—I DON'T IMAGINE THAT WILL BE AT ALL NECESSARY, MRS. RAND—NOR, WILL IT BE EXPECTED—
BUT I CAN'T ACCEPT SO MUCH, JUST AS A GIFT—AND I KNOW BILL WOULDN'T WANT TO, EITHER—
OF COURSE—BUT RIGHT NOW BILL'S LIFE IS THE IMPORTANT THING, EH? LET'S CONCENTRATE ON THAT FOR THE PRESENT—OH, YES, YES, DOCTOR—BUT LATER ON—WE WILL KNOW WHO IS DOING SO MUCH FOR US, WON'T WE?
HA! HA! OH, I'M ONLY A DOCTOR, YOU KNOW—NOT A PROPHET—

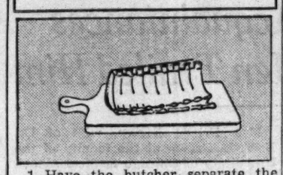
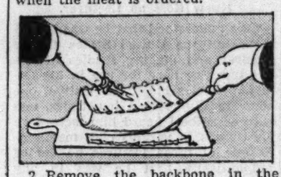
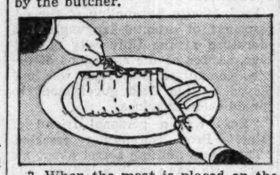
Carving Pork Loin



1. Have the butcher separate the backbone from the ribs with a saw when the meat is ordered.



2. Remove the backbone in the kitchen just before the meat is brought to the table. This is simply a matter of completing the separation of the backbone, which was begun by the butcher.



3. When the meat is placed on the table slice close to each side of the ribs, thus freeing uniform serving slices, every other one of which will be boneless.

CARVING PORK ROAST IS EASY JOB FOR HOST

Carving a roast pork loin is an easy job for the host. Most of the actual cutting is done by the butcher and the cook before the roast reaches the table.

But whatever carving is done at the table must be done with proficiency, because only thin, even slices of pork look attractive.

The first step in carving a roast of pork loin is in the butcher's hands. When you order the meat, ask him to separate the backbone from the ribs. He does this by sawing across the ribs close to and parallel with the backbone. The backbone is loosened additionally during cooking and can easily be removed by the cook, who performs the second step of the carving.

She places the roast fat side up on a cutting board. Holding the roast in place with a fork thrust between the rib bones which are on top, the backbone is cut loose. The knife should slide as close to the backbone as possible and at right angles to the ribs. Sometimes the backbone is entirely severed by the butcher. With the backbone removed, the meat is placed on a platter with the cut side down, so the ribs are standing up. The roast now is ready for the table, where the host performs the final step in carving.

When the platter is brought to the table it should be placed so the carver looks at the rib side of the roast and the guests may see the temptingly browned fat side. This position also makes it easier for the carver to follow the ribs in cutting slices.

There is no difficulty in carving uniform slices, since each slice is the thickness of a rib or the thickness of the meat between ribs. The carver slices the meat close to each side of the rib. He begins on the right end of the roast and works to the left. Each slice should be made parallel and as close to the rib as possible, sliding the knife along first the right side and then the left side of each rib.

Every other serving thus cut will contain a bone. In a large pork loin it may be necessary to cut two boneless slices between the ribs.

To avoid delay and to prevent unnecessary cooling of the meat, all the servings should be sliced before any plates are served. But it is not necessary to lift the slices to the side of the platter as they are cut. The meat should be allowed to fall back as it is cut.

Wrap-Around Princess Slip

WOMAN'S AND MISS' PRINCESS SLIP.

We designed this slip in wrap-around fashion because we feel that it has a great deal more serviceability than the average garment. Altho the lines are those of any well tailored and form fitting slip, they have the added value of not binding. This slip is particularly suitable for the woman of larger proportions who has difficulty finding a costume slip to fit her figure correctly, and for the expectant mother.

Lingerie silks and cottons are the materials to use, in either dark or pastel shades or white.

Style No. 3081 is designed for sizes 12, 14, and 16, and 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, and 46 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3¼ yards of 39 inch material.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

For 15 cents buy the winter Chicago Tribune book of Clotilde Fashions, on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower; 10 cents if ordered with a pattern. Address mail orders to the New York address above.

Noblesse Oblige.

Happy is a colored man who was for some years employed as a railroad tower man at Tower road in Winnetka, and who in his extra time served various Winnetka families as handy man or extra houseman. His amiable disposition won him his nickname, and his dependability won him respect and friendship. A year ago at Christmas time Happy was in the county hospital. He had had a serious operation and on Christmas eve his condition was so serious he was not expected to live. A Winnetka woman who had employed him occasionally went to visit him on Christmas eve, accompanied by her son. They went back again on Christmas day and sat for a time at his bedside.

Happy recovered. He no longer has his former job in Winnetka, but the day before Christmas he came up from Evanston where he now lives, bringing a cake his wife had made as a Christmas greeting for the woman who had visited him in the hospital the preceding Christmas.

"You know what I'm going to do Christmas day?" he asked in his drawling southern voice. "I'm going out to the county hospital and spend the day with whoever's sick in the room I was in last Christmas, because my white folks was so good to me last year," he concluded.

Happy kept his word. He found a colored man in the bed he had occupied last Christmas, a lonely patient who had had an operation similar to Happy's, and moreover a man who had been a railroad employé. Happy spent his Christmas at his bedside.

The little community of Sauganash ablaze with outdoor Christmas trees and lighted houses, worth a special trip to see. . . . Gallant Judy Butler sitting in the balcony at a debutante ball, at which but for her sad accident she would have been a dancing guest—friends and admirers crowding around her 6 feet deep. . . .

Lobster à l'Americaine as Henri Charpentier prepares it at the Little French café in the Park Dearborn. . . . That, altho the characterization of John L. Lewis has been removed from George White's "Scandals," his name still appears in the program: John L. Lewis—Eugene Howard. New programs will be out Monday with his name deleted. A gag also was deleted—Fran English's remark as her husband in the skit returns from picketing: "He's a protége of John L. Lewis—he was born with two strikes on him."

Officer's Plaint.

"Say, didn't you hear my whistle?" he demanded angrily of the driver who had gone thru a red light.

"No, officer, I didn't," answered the motorist.

"Well, I might just as well be home for all the good I'm doing here," said the officer plaintively.

Engagement

The engagement of Miss Joan Lois Samuels to Jerome D. Goldstine has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold J. Samuels of 1234 Madison Park. Mr. Goldstine is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Goldstine of Hyde Park boulevard, formerly of Fort Wayne, Ind.

Miss Samuels.

Miss Samuels attended the University of Wisconsin and Mr. Goldstine went to the University of Illinois and the University of New Mexico. Mr. and Mrs. Samuels are giving a reception on New Year's day from 4 until 7 o'clock for their daughter and her fiancé.

Party for Mrs. Nippert.

Arts Club Will Have Ballet Troupe at Tea

BY JUDITH CASS.

IF THERE is one thing balletomanes like better than seeing their favorite ballerinas and male dancers perform upon the stage, it is to meet them face to face. Consequently, when an individual or an organization persuades members of the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo to attend a party, it is a distinct achievement.

The Arts club is starting the new year with a flourish by having the troupe now performing in the Auditorium theater as guests at a tea next Tuesday that will open two exhibitions.

To see that the young dancers have a good time the daughters of a number of the women who have been invited to pour will act as hostesses. They are Miss Adair and Miss Nancy Orr, Miss Pauline Palmer, Miss Mary Hale, Miss Mary Ryerson, Miss Alice Judson, Miss Cherry Sue Orr, Miss Marie Swift, and Miss Eleanor Perkins.

The new shows that will be on view that afternoon are retrospectives by Amedee Ozenfant and sculpture by a group of painters, including Renoir, Gauguin, and Modiliani.

Mrs. Ernest A. Hamill is to arrange the first tea table of 1940 for the party.

The club has cards out to an illustrated lecture by Walter Pach at 11:30 o'clock on Saturday morning, Jan. 6. Mr. Pach's subject will be "Realism, the Art of the European Race."

Ballet to Benefit Mission of Help.

At tonight's performance of the Ballet Russe, which will benefit the Church Mission of Help, the audience will see the Chicago première of "Bacchanale." The other ballets on the program will be "Devil's Holiday," "Igrouchki," and that old favorite, "Le Beau Danube," with Leonide Massine.

Dozens and dozens of ballet parties have been planned, many of them by the women who are active on the benefit committee. The audience should be one of the smartest of the holiday season. As there is no debutante dinner-dance tonight, most of the buds and their beaux will attend the ballet before going on to a supper-dance the junior Edward A. Cudahys are giving for their daughter, Sheila, at the Blackstone hotel.

One of the largest of the debutante parties will be one Mrs. Robert J. Dunham is giving for Miss Nancy Davis. Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine is giving a dinner at the Casino for her grandchildren before the performance. Mr. and Mrs. Philip D. Armour IV., Mr. and Mrs. Gerald V. Hollins Jr. [Betty Armour], and Lester Armour Jr. will share Mrs. Valentine's box.

Among other boxholders are Mrs. D. Mark Cummings, the James R. Offields, the Theodore W. Robinsons, the Walter R. Kirks, Mr. and Mrs. A. Watson Armour III., Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed, the Laurence Armours, Herman Waldeck, Mrs. Clive Runnells, Dr. and Mrs. Fremont A. Chandler, the Clarence A. McCarthys, and the John D. Allens. Mrs. Robinson and Mrs. Chandler are co-chairmen of the benefit committee.

In addition to Miss Cudahy, one other young woman will be introduced formally to society today. She is Miss Sidney Meeker, daughter of the Lawrence A. Meekers, who are giving a luncheon for their daughter at home in State parkway. Miss Meeker attends Vassar. Miss Cudahy is a student at Bryn Mawr.

Debutante Parties to Follow Concert.

Following the Symphony concert in Orchestra hall this afternoon many in the audience will go upstairs for a cup of tea at the Cliff Dwellers. Mrs. Arthur B. Slade is to be hostess for the club, assisted by Mrs. Harold Eldridge, Mrs. Bowman C. Lingle, Miss Helen Campbell Taylor and Mrs. Paul Guenzel.

Any music loving debutantes will dash off to a cocktail party and musical Mrs. Frank Granger Logan is giving for her debutante grandniece, Miss Shirley Garnett. Or they may go to a tea-dance Miss Sara Peace is giving at home in East Bellevue place for three other buds, Miss Dorothy Warner, Miss Lela Ellis, and Miss Elizabeth Stenson.

Any subdebs attending the concert probably will be wearing their prettiest afternoon dancing frocks, too. This afternoon brings the Christmas tea-dance for people of subdeb age at the Woman's Athletic club. Mrs. Telfer MacArthur and Mrs. Rawleigh Warner are in charge of it.

Wives of Dartmouth alumni will join their husbands at the Dartmouth club's annual Christmas cocktail party following the concert. The party will be held in the ladies' dining room of the University club.

Mrs. Richard T. Crane is entertaining at tea time in her home, 1550 Lake Shore drive, at the fourth in a series of teas for the women who are helping to save grand opera for Chicago.

Mrs. John Alden Carpenter and Mrs. James G. McMillan are co-chairman of the group, which is assisting in raising an Opera Foundation fund of $200,000. The women, in securing foundation members at $200 each, have raised over $45,000. Their work will be continued thru January. A total of $105,000 has been pledged toward the fund. Members of the men's newly formed Opera council will meet for luncheon with Robert Hall McCormick, chairman, on Jan. 3 at the Chicago club.

Colony Club to Hold Family Party Tonight

"What's in a date?" is a question which members of the Colony club answered with a simple "Nothing" when it came to determining the date of their Twelfth Night party. Traditionally the affair should take place on the 12th night after Christmas, but, as most young people have left for school by that time, it was decided to hold the party this evening.

Two hundred families will gather at Ida Noyes hall, on the University of Chicago campus, for supper, dancing, and singing of Christmas carols. Mrs. Robert Platt is chairman of the committee.

A grand Christmas present for Mr. and Mrs. Keith S. Brown was the arrival of a baby daughter last Saturday at the Passavant hospital. Mrs. Brown is the former Katherine McLennan. The baby has been named Julia McLennan for her maternal great-grandmother.

The Donald R. McLennans and the William B. Browns are little Julia's grandparents. She has a baby brother, Keith Jr.

Carl Zeiss Named Head of Chicago Princeton Club

Carl H. Zeiss, an attorney, was elected president of the Princeton club of Chicago yesterday at the club's annual father and son luncheon in the Palmer House. Other officers are Cyrus H. Adams, vice president; John P. Wilson Jr., treasurer, and Morrison Waud, secretary.

True Sisters.

For Home or Sun Spots

[TRIBUNE Studio Photo.]

Jersey in pastels, white or vivid colors travels south or stays at home. Here is one of the newest ensembles, a simply cut dress with a short front shirred skirt and a fitted bodice top with brief sleeves. Around the small waistline is a gay wide belt of vivid checked printed jersey. The bolero has long sleeves and is made of the same color jersey as the dress.

THRU THE LOOKING GLASS

From the notebook:

The purse kits, those little flat bags of silk or rayon with compartments for compact, comb, rouge, a tiny flacon of perfume, and all the odds and ends women like to carry about with them, are a wonderful idea.

In this era of big pocketbooks the little kits keep the contents of the bag in perfect order, which means that the lining of the bag is saved and that the woman carrying it is spared the distracting nuisance of searching in its depths for the beauty aids that slide out of her grasp.

Some of the newest ones are sacheted and nearly all of them come in the "good" colors. And they are amazingly inexpensive. Every woman who likes to be tidy should have at least one.

Have you seen the triple action comb? Women who have trouble making or keeping the little hollow curls that seem to be essential to so many hairdresses find it a great help.

It's a comb of average length and weight, but it's got tricks. One-half of it, for combing out the snarls, has stationary teeth. The teeth in the other end are smaller and are set in a movable section that can be withdrawn into the casing of the comb. And at the end of this section there is a place where a bobby pin is inserted. When the curl is rolled up to the desired height the comb is withdrawn and the curl is not only made but pinned securely!

It's quite a gadget and extremely simple to use. All you need do is follow directions and practice a bit; you'll have almost professional skill in no time. ELEANOR NANGLE.

Knitted Clothes Achieve Swank of Fabric Togs

BY RHEA SEEGER.

There's a collection of fine new hand knitted one and two piece dresses that would tempt any shopper. They are superb examples of fine fitted models, each fortified against stretch, bulge, or wrinkle. Only a connoisseur can fully appreciate the even, smooth handiwork, the fine details, and the expert design, but every one who has seen them has formed some new ideas about knitted clothes.

Skirts flare with the same smart outline that is achieved with many gores in a smoothly cut wool skirt. Bodice tops have the classic simplicity of a well cut top of a one piece wool daytime dress. The entire model has that indefinable swank hitherto only found in superwool dresses designed by dressmakers of long experience.

The clever two piece effects are unbelievably smart, some with elbow length sleeves and a row of covered buttons down the front of the shirtwaist or short jacket effect top. Others have neat collars expertly fitted; some have dressmaker details of bows and bands of the same knitted yarn and narrow belts to define a small, smooth waistline.

Such exquisite hand knit models are not, of course, inexpensive, yet the price mark seems reasonable after an inspection of the smooth texture and matchless fitting. The colors are exceptional . . . from the many unusual pastels, yellow, green, star sapphire blue, dove gray, clear pink, mauve, almond green, and white to the stunning more vivid shades of raspberry, lapis blue, wine, deep green, navy, and brown.

Both one piece and two piece models come in these beautiful hand knits and some have matching cardigans making a three piece costume in either the same shade or with the cardigan adding top color contrast. With these beautiful knitted things come several different models of hats . . . small wrapped turbans, pill boxes, and some with brims. For lovely color, for resort wardrobes, or for under coat dramatics here at home, these smooth hand knits are among the finds of the year.

Fashion photograph . . . jersey steals the fashion spotlights in the midseason and resort clothes showings. Here is a stunning, soft clinging wool jersey combine of dress and long sleeved bolero jacket. The dress has a short shirred front accented with a dashing checked jersey wide belt . . . the bolero is of the same shade as the dress . . . colors and cream white are available.

Good Morning!

One of the most popular holiday hosts—especially with young Chicagoans—is Mr. Roosevelt [theater] and his guest of honor, young Mr. Lemuel Gulliver.

Mr. Gulliver, as you know, ranks high as a traveler and raconteur in the world of fiction, and his adventures among the tiny inhabitants of the Isle of Lilliput, where, a shipwrecked sailor, he woke to find himself, are fascinatingly depicted via animated cartoon in "Gulliver's Travels."

Max Fleischer—well known for his short cartoons—"Betty Boop," "Popeye," "Color Classics," and "Stone Age" spent two years in his Florida studios working on this feature length cartoon. The result is a witty, wacky, and completely charming version of Jonathan Swift's gentle satire on the folly and futility of war.

Mr. Gulliver as pictured is a tall, dark, handsome he-man with a sense of humor and a gentle smile. The Princess Glory is a lovely blonde who sings exquisitely [with the voice of Jessica Dragonette] and Prince David who loves her, carols melodiously thru the throat of Lanny Ross. The principal songs are "Faithful," "Forever," "Bluebirds in the Moonlight," "All's Well," "I Hear a Dream," and "It's a Hap, Hap, Happy Day."

The little cartoon cast folk perform in a manner that keeps youthful audiences in happy uproar, and, speaking of youthful audiences—the west side of State street, between Washington and Randolph, is just plain cluttered up with 'em. One batch files out, another rushes in—and that keeps up ALL day!

See you tomorrow.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

The Observation Post.

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 28.—Far be it from this department to brew a revolt or take up with the cinema revolutionaries. . . . The revolutionaries in this case are two Warner employés, Olivia de Havilland and Jane Bryan, both of whom have been suspended by the studio because they refused flatly to play rôles assigned to them.

Miss De Havilland, as the result of her success in "Gone with the Wind," insists that Warners hereafter give her parts of similar distinction. . . . Miss Bryan, as the result of her fine work in "The Old Maid" and her work in "We Are Not Alone," demands that her studio pick rôles of equivalent dramatic depth.

Of the pair of rebels I would string along most willingly with the complaining Miss De Havilland. . . . Her studio HAS given her a rather shabby array of characterizations, parts that had much technicolor but little else to recommend them.

Miss Bryan's plaint is less believable, because for a youngster she has done handsomely. . . . Judging the future from the past, Miss Bryan was assured that her studio would select her parts with care and discrimination. . . . They have. . . . Gauging the future by the past, Olivia has no such implied guarantee.

I would point out smugly to both of the revolutionaries that the meek shall inherit the earth, but unfortunately the facts contradict this out here. . . . Bette Davis, than whom there is no one less meek, has done magnificently for herself despite the fact that she forced Warner's to sue her in a London court.

The English lawyers were guilty of an understatement when they told the court that "Miss Davis is a naughty girl." . . . The brothers Warner describe her in adjectives less restrained, but Bette gets the parts she wants, and gets the money she demands.

Undoubtedly the Davis success has influenced Olivia and Jane, but it should be pointed out to both, as a matter of record, that Bette is a far more accomplished actress than either of them.

There are other players who stand as proof that in Hollywood the meek inherit only the 8-ball. . . . Jim Cagney ever has refused to be pushed around, and at M.-G.-M. Myrna Loy staged a successful strike and Robert Montgomery and Margaret Sullavan pop off at regular intervals.

Ann Sothern deliberately broke her contract at R. K. O. and didn't work for a year rather than accept the inanities that were offered to her. . . . Joel McCrea has just dissolved a contract with Sam Goldwyn. . . . John Garfield has popped off emphatically. . . . Yet none of them have been chucked out of moving pictures, so it is reasonable to believe that the insurgent Miss De Havilland and the insurrectionary Miss Bryan will improve their prestige rather than detract from it.

The movies, you see, create Frankensteins in stars. . . . So long as that performer is a box office draw, there is no sound business reason for pistolling him or her, much as the studios would enjoy practicing manslaughter upon rebels. . . . All the studios can do is to make prodigious threats, such as threatening Miss De Havilland to loan her to Republic for a Gene Autrey flicker, or threatening to put Jane Bryan on a bread-and-water diet.

Autrey, I think, should sue for inferential libel as the broad imputation is that it's degrading to work in one of his pictures, whereas it's a point of record that Autrey has more fans, makes more dough than 90 per cent of the colony's stars and rides a horse much better than Errol Flynn.

The basis of all successful revolts on the part of players is their box office strength, which is more important in the final decision than talent. . . . Katharine Hepburn had great talent, but little box office strength, so the movies sacked her. . . . Hedy Lamarr's sitdown strike ended abruptly because her agent was aware that her last picture was laying an egg at the box office.

Final disposition of the cases of the Misses De Havilland and Bryan will be made on that basis. . . . For that reason Miss Bryan probably has the better chance to make her rebellion stick. . . . The Warner studio is aware that she is the most promising young actress on the Hollywood horizon; not only that, in Jane they have a club to use over Bette Davis when The Davis starts pouting. . . . Strategically, Jane is in an excellent bargaining position. . . . My best guess is that she will get pretty nearly everything she wants, and that Olivia will be consoled by a nice raise.

Both Matisse and Massine Triumph Here

BY CECIL SMITH.

The front curtain of "Rouge et Noir" ["Red and Black"], the new ballet presented by the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo in the Auditorium theater last night, bears the signature "Henri Matisse" in highly visible lettering. When the curtain rises upon the performance this notable designer of the setting and costumes seems on the way toward stealing the show from Leonide Massine, the choreographer, and from Shostakovich's First symphony.

The setting represents a series of bold, high vaulted arches painted exclusively in black, white and strong primary colors—red, yellow and blue. The abstract, underwearlike costumes of the dancers likewise limit themselves to the same strikingly fundamental color scheme.

As things progress, however, these vigorous Matisse elements do not overpower the interest of the dancing. "Rouge et Noir" is, I believe, Mr. Massine's best symphonic work since the "Fantastic Symphony." The relationship between the thematic and emotional qualities of the dance movement and the corresponding structural and emotional qualities of the music is, for the most part, very happy.

The duet passages danced by Alicia Markova and Igor Youskevitch, in more placid sections of the music, reach a high point of lyric beauty. While there is less mass movement than in any of Mr. Massine's earlier symphonic ballets, the group composition is unfailingly spectacular and exciting. The skilful relating of dance patterns to the contrasting colors of the costumes makes the structural intentions of the ballet unusually clear.

With its good list of principals and its greatly improved corps de ballet, the company danced beautifully, not only in "Rouge et Noir," but also in "Swan Lake," "Bluebird" and "Ghost Town."

SERKIN IS SOLOIST

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Rudolf Serkin and the Chicago Symphony orchestra, Frederick Stock conducting, gave in Orchestra hall last night a remarkably expressive performance of the fourth Beethoven piano concerto. They gave the piece momentum, they did away with all suggestion of the rigidity that sometimes mars it, and they worked lovingly and successfully to beautify its surfaces. As a result the concerto was alive, flexible, glowing.

The performers seemed to know to a T just what they could do to the piece without spoiling its classical lines. They achieved their momentum not by brash emphasis nor theatrical bursts of speed but rather by subtle, persistent accents which served to keep in constant perspective what had gone before and what was about to come.

And they did away with all suggestion of rigidity by similarly restrained means. There would be a slight lingering at the end of a long metrical period, time would be taken for an eloquent turn of phrase in places where strict attention to the time scheme would have produced a headlong effect. Yet never did the performers approach the sticky or the sentimental in their desire for flexibility.

But it was in beauty of surfaces—in sheer excellence of tone—that the performance's principal greatness lay. Colors were pure and translucent, with an innocent April brightness and an indescribable serenity.

Mr. Stock gave over the early part of the evening to three gay pieces of music—Von Reznicek's "Donna Diana" overture, Weinberger's variations and fugue on "Under the Spreading Chestnut Tree," and the suite from Kodály's "Háry János."

The Stage

"Three After Three," a new musical comedy featuring Simone Simon, Mitzi Green, and Mary Brian, will begin an engagement at the Selwyn theater Sunday, Jan. 21. Other prominent members of the cast are Stepin Fetchit, Frances Williams, Art Jarrett, and Marty May. The music is by Hoagy Carmichael. The musical will be shown in Chicago before its New York openings. This booking does not alter the two weeks' engagement already announced of Constance Bennett in "Easy Virtue" at the Selwyn beginning Jan. 7.

*Blackwood convention.

"West opened the diamond nine, on which East played the jack, forcing South's ace. South then led three rounds of hearts, ending with the ace in dummy. West discarded a low diamond. The club nine now was taken by the jack in the closed hand; a small spade was returned to the ace, and another club lead dropped East's king. The club queen was cashed and South then led his last club. On the lead of this club, the hands were as follows:

NORTH

WEST

"On the last club West discarded a low spade, and East a low diamond. Declarer then led the spade king and followed this up with the spade nine. West won with the queen and was forced to lead to declarer's K-10 of diamonds.

"If at the ninth trick West had discarded a diamond and kept three spades to the queen, declarer then could have cashed the diamond king, discarded the heart nine from dummy, then cashed the spade king, after which he could merely exit with the spade nine. West would win with the queen, but then would have to lead a spade to dummy's ten spot at the 13th trick.

"What do you call this play, and can it be defeated? It looks to me like a double end-play on West.

"H. B. L."

Since the club king was onside, South's contract was unbeatable. Indeed, it could have been made in several different ways, including the concession of a spade trick and the consequent establishment of an extra spade in dummy. As actually played, it involved only a simple elimination and throw-in. As pointed out in my correspondent's comments. West was "hooked" whether or not he kept a diamond.

The most remarkable part of the hand, however, was not in the play, but in the bidding. Apparently, North's opening bid of one club excited no comment—which to me seems very strange. Obviously, North had nothing like an opening bid, inasmuch as he was short at least one-half an honor trick. Since he did open the bidding, and later, in response to the Blackwood four no trump convention, showed that he held two aces, it was lucky for him that his partner, South, did not contract for a grand slam. With five-plus honor tricks, South might well have made that bid without incurring criticism.

Miss Moyer Is the Bride of A. A. Burrows

Miss Laura Moyer and Arthur Andrews Burrows Jr. were married yesterday afternoon at St. James' church. The ceremony was followed by a reception at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Col. and Mrs. Robert G. Peck. The bride is the daughter of Paul S. Moyer of Lake Forest and the late Mrs. Moyer.

The bridegroom is a son of Mrs. Swigart Burrows of Chicago and of Arthur A. Burrows of Lake Forest.

The bride wore a charming gown of white satin with a deep bertha of heirloom lace, and carried an ivory bouquet holder which has been carried by four generations of brides in her mother's family. The flowers it held were camelias and lilies of the valley.

The six bridesmaids wore gold faille dresses and carried rust colored roses. Only white flowers and greens were used in the church. Mr. Moyer gave his daughter in marriage, but she walked down the aisle with Col. Peck. Mr. Burrows and his bride will be at home in New Haven, Conn., until he finishes his senior year at Yale university.

Chicago friends of Dr. and Mrs. Horace L. Bridges yesterday received announcements from Mr. and Mrs. John Cushman Truesdale of the marriage of their daughter, Mary Elizabeth, to Horace English Bridges, on Tuesday. The bridegroom is the youngest son of Dr. and Mrs. Bridges. The wedding took place in the Truesdale home in Grinnell, Ia.

Dr. Bridges was to have performed the ceremony, but was forced to remain in the Presbyterian hospital. Mrs. Bridges, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Bridges, and Frank Bridges of East Orange, N. J., who was his brother's best man, were at the wedding.

Mr. Bridges and his bride will make their home in Cleveland, O., where he is engaged in business.

With only members of the families attending, Miss Jane Brooks will become the bride of A. Alexander Baldwin of White Post, Va., at 12 o'clock today. The ceremony and reception will take place at the Lake Forest home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Mason Phelps, and Mr. Phelps.

The bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur G. Baldwin, have come from Cleveland, O., as have his brothers and sister, the Frederick Baldwins, Louis Baldwin, and Mrs. Woods King. The Henry Baldwins are here from Wisconsin Rapids, Wis. Mrs. Phelps' aunt, Mrs. Eugene J. Carpenter, arrived from Minneapolis, and Mrs. Thomas Schriber, the bride's sister, is here from Bedford Hills, N. Y.

In a small ceremony today at St. Andrew's church in Edgartown, Mass., Miss Ann Moinette Watson will become the bride of Courtenay Barber Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Courtenay Barber of Chicago and Edgartown. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert William Watson of New York and Edgartown. Miss Josephine Barber will be her sister-in-law's only attendant. Winselaer W. Lee of Evanston will be best man.

Sheil Declares CYO Is Lesson for Sociology

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The Catholic Youth organization with its 5 million members was cited yesterday by Bishop Bernard J. Sheil, administrator of the archdiocese of Chicago, as a principal application of Catholic sociological views. Bishop Sheil, founder and national director of C. Y. O., spoke before the American Catholic Sociological society at the Morrison hotel.

Bishop Sheil said that a new spirit is growing in American youth, adding that it is yet to be seen whether the new spirit will follow that of struggle, traditional among youths of this country, or of passive acceptance of situations as they arise. It was against the latter spirit of defeat, the bishop declared, that the C. Y. O. came into being.

While the C. Y. O. began in athletic competitions, Bishop Sheil explained, the program now is fully rounded to illustrate values of Catholic teaching in solving problems of democracy. He pointed to the newly organized Back-of-the-yards community council in which various races and creeds meet to plan better conditions for that area.

Bishop Sheil declared that one result of C. Y. O. activities is the renunciation by youth of foreignisms. He said the spirit among youth is toward thwarting all attempts to ruin or communize this country. A democracy stabilized on a higher level, he added, will follow the youth organization's work.

GASOLINE 'ALLEY,—EMERGENCY, CALL

Your Posture on Stairs Is Cue to Years

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

What kind of a picture do you create going up and down stairs? Did you know that that is the supreme test of a woman's poise and posture? Of her youth, too, it is said by experts.

Ever watch people going up or coming down a public stairway? Do it some time and see how youth comes bouncing down on sure, fleet feet without ever a look at the steps they're taking. See how age clutches banisters and feels its careful way with the foot set gingerly on each tread.

Walking well on a level floor is no particular test of balance and correct body handling. There is no reason under heaven for doubling over when you go up steps. Nor does one need to clutch the banister. You don't have to be pulled up step by step. Don't slouch going up. Keep decently erect. Put one foot on the first tread up. Then, keeping the body erect, straighten the upbent knee and ankle joint.

Use the leg as a jack, so to speak, and you'll rise more easily and properly. Coming down, let one foot hang over the top step, bend the other knee and ankle and you'll sink to the next step without having to bend over to see where you are going.

It's safer to do it the right way. If stairs just wear you out, it's probably because you are putting a kink in your back and a wheeze in your lungs.

Mothers Need Good Health to Raise a Family

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

You may consider the thought not exactly novel, but the new year really is, for most of us, synonymous with the making of resolutions. Now there's one very practical resolution that a certain proportion of mothers should make. Those women, I mean, who are more or less staggering around, half sick or overfatigued, trying to take care of a home for their husband and children, making a very poor job of it and getting little joy out of what should be the most satisfying of human relationships. Those women should resolve that next year they will do something about it.

You need good health to be a good mother.

Now at once my mind begins to do the exact thing that some of your minds are doing—that is, to think of the exceptions. And of course there are exceptions.

You really do need good health to be a good mother.

In the first place, there's the actual hard physical work connected with the job, especially if you do all your own house work, but often even if you have help, too.

Then there are all the things that don't require physical strength and endurance but that require steady nerves, an even disposition, and limitless patience.

If you are not well, do everything you can to get well. If you are nervous to a degree where it affects your life and your children's, do something about it. Go to a good doctor. If you can't afford that, go to a good clinic. If it's a fine hospital they will give you treatment for your physical condition, and if you are really a nervous case, they will send you to their neurological department.

Take yourself in hand and do something to restore yourself to good health.

SEND OUT CUB CONTRACTS AND AWAIT MOANS

Former Headliners Face Pay Cuts.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

It won't be long now before one or more salary squawks are likely to be emitted by some of the best known Cubs. Contracts will be mailed out today, and while the list of unsigned athletes is shorter than usual, it is reasonable to assume that some of the boys either will roar back about pay trims or express shock that the club didn't boost them in keeping with their own ideas of their value to the team of 1939.

Because of the club's industry at the close of the season, 10 of the athletes signed up for 1940 before digging themselves in for the winter. This crowd of contented performers includes Billy Herman, Charley Root, Larry French, Bill Lee, Claude Passeau, Vance Page, Bill Nicholson, Phil Cavarretta, Jim Gleeson, and Pitcher Vern Olsen, a Tulsa rookie who put in a few days as a Cub near the end of the season. But among the gentlemen not signed are a few who boast classy reputations as spring hagglers.

Dizzy May Be Shocked.

Among those who are going to receive news which may not be as good as they expect are Dizzy Dean, who has been strangely silent all winter, Clay Bryant, Augie Galan, Stan Hack, and Hank Leiber. All these fellows are experienced in the art of wangling a few extra dollars out of their employers, and, if the figures submitted aren't exactly satisfactory, they'll be heard from.

The sort of a salary dose which has been prepared for Dean, isn't known. For two seasons he drew around $20,000 per and actually earned only a small piece of it but, judging by a hint dropped some weeks ago by Owner P. K. Wrigley, his famous $185,000 invalid will be started off on rookie's pay in 1940. If Diz proves he can pitch his salary would be boosted accordingly. Of course, Wrigley may have changed his mind about the whole thing.

Hank Has the Figures.

The National league slugging averages appeared yesterday, just in time for Leiber to use them as an argument in case the proffered terms do not meet his fancy. The official tabulation showed that Hank drove in 88 runs, topping all the Cubs in this respect. If Hank should find it necessary to use this as a wedge for a better offer the club might counter with a reminder that, while his performance was appreciated, he did much of its damage when the pennant pressure was about gone and played in only 112 games.

Altogether there are 20 Cubs unsigned, the batch including Bob Sturgeon and Ken Raffensberger, obtained two days ago from the St. Louis Cardinals' chain stores, and Gabby Hartnett, the manager. Gabby's present contract expires Sunday night and the last statement on this point from Owner Wrigley was that it would be renewed.

MIKE KARAKAS, NEW MATES ARE BEATEN, 4 TO 1

Providence, R. I., Dec. 28 (AP).—With Mike Karakas, veteran goalie of the Chicago Blackhawks, in their cage, the Rhode Island Reds lost tonight to the Indianapolis Capitals, 4 to 1, in an International-American Hockey league game.

Only two Indianapolis goals, however, were scored on Karakas, operated to Providence this week. With the Capitals leading 2 to 1 and 74 seconds to go, Coach Bun Cook called him to the bench and put on six attackers. Into the unguarded cage Bernie Hudson and Ken Kilrea fired the puck for two goals in 16 seconds, saving the Reds no chance of tying it up.

Syd Abel scored the first Indianapolis goal early in the first period on passes from Hudson and Ken Kilrea. The Reds protested vigorously that Abel was in the crease when he deflected Hudson's pass but the goal was allowed.

Just a minute before the end of the period, Glen Brydson, who was sent to Indianapolis only today on loan by New Haven, beat Karakas on a swift shot from a few feet out.

Tennessee Sends a Good Fellow to Rose Bowl Game

Johnson City, Tenn., Dec. 28 (AP).—Two weeks ago Floyd Allen, 21 year old State Teachers' college student, bought a 25 cent bank, set it on the counter in the drug store where he works, and put this sign on it: "Floyd Allen's Rose bowl fund. Help send a good fellow to the Rose bowl."

Tuesday he opened the bank, found $40.40 in coins, bills, and an $8 check. Today he was Pasadena bound—equipped with a ticket.

THE GUMPS—HE CAN'T LOSE

She stood there—calm, collected, cool—
And the while I acted quite the fool,
As I stared at this vision of loveliness
In the sable coat and sequin dress;
And her jewels were in brilliant symmetry,
And, wonder of wonders, she smiled at me!

That queenly poise, that jaunty hat,
The classic nose, the red lips that
Beckoned me closer [Gosh! this is absurd!]
We stood face to face—but she spoke not a word.

The Reason.

Some one has asked why mighty monuments
Have not been reared for women as for men;
Have women played no part in world events?
Have not their deeds been told by tongue and pen?
Why should the marble shaft and the bronze plaque
Not boast of women's glories near and far?
Why should the chisel of the sculptor lack
The cunning to depict them as they are?
This is the reason: Every noble man
That in the floodlight of renown has stood
Since the first syllable of time began
Has been a monument to womanhood—
To mother or to sweetheart or to wife
Who was the inspiration of his life.

A strong and binding covenant
I've made with friends and foes
To abstain from handing grammar
A black eye and crimson nose.

To always put on surplus
Adjectives a curb
And to never use an adverb
To split the infinitive verb.

To boldly greet the lowly
Common names with frowns
While hob-nobbing only
With dignified proper nouns.

And to always be more careful
When writing prose or rhyth
Not to use a preposition
To finish a sentence with.

New Year's Eve Prevue.

In the bar at the Yar
He told tall tales from afar,
To which I listened raptly and quite breathless;
In a room yclept "The Pump"
[I must have been an awful chump],
With thoughts of trust eternal and love deathless;
In a spot called Rendezvous
[This is just between us two]
He carelessly referred to sums colossal,
Of a very prosperous biz
That would one day soon be his—
I was stunned and must have looked the perfect fossil.

But when we reached the Chez Paree
I let him hear from me,
I casually brought in the London "season";
And at Bel Air, entre nous,
I made a pass or two
Which sort o' put him congé to the reason;
We were wintering "in town"
And hadn't thus far started down
To our winter place in lovely old Miami;
I tossed off a name or two
Of a duchess that I knew
And reached across the bar for more salami.

But it wasn't in the gloom
Of the well known Empire room
That each the other came to truly know,
Where we really went to town
And took the well known tresses down
Was where the neons read "Hamburger Joe":
There the sorry truth came out
That I modeled stylish stouts—
He dealt in motors, stressing the used car;
So we paid up and departed,
Went back to where they started

COACHES RENEW ATTACK ON THAT PASSING CLAUSE

Award Swim Meet

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 28 (AP).—The executive committee of the National Collegiate Athletic association tonight awarded the 1940 national swimming championship to Yale university. The competition will be held in New Haven, March 29 and 30.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 28 (AP).—Football coaches of the country, applying the maxim that "a good offense is the best defense," huddled today over a set of proposed rule changes for the game in 1940.

The 30 man committee, representing the American Football Coaches' association, was called to order by Dr. Lou Little of Columbia. Little, president of the association and chairman of the committee, indicated he favored revision of the pass rule to permit the ball to be tossed from any place behind the line instead of five yards back.

The coaches' recommendations will be turned over to the national rules committee at its session in Palm Springs, Cal., next week for final action.

N. C. A. A. Meets Today.

The National Collegiate Athletic association swings into its official session tomorrow, but President William B. Owens of Stanford university called an executive committee session today to confer with a coaches' group.

A premeeting checkup of the coaches' deliberations disclosed that Little's pass change recommendation had numerous supporters. The old free passing idea has been popularized by professional football teams.

Coach Tex Oliver of Oregon had the same thought, Oliver pointed out that a high school player has to "relearn" the regulations on entering college, and then if he goes into pro ball, has to readjust himself again.

Jimmy Phelan of the University of Washington recommended that the strict rule governing a player's knee touching the ground be abandoned. Instead of ruling the ball dead at the point of the knee touch, he would let the play continue until the player is downed.

"The present rule is particularly unfair to a safety man who may slip on a wet turf as he catches the ball," Phelan remarked.

Would Widen Goals.

Field goal kicking will be given a new lease on life in 1940 if a proposal by the committee is adopted. The coaches' committee left the mathematical adjustments of the uprights to the rules group. They merely proposed that more space and less height be provided.

The coaches also voted approval of the following proposed changes:

Reduce from fifteen to five yards the penalty for an ineligible man catching or being hit by a pass behind the goal line. Two years ago the penalty was loss of the ball. Last year it was changed to a penalty of fifteen yards but retention of the ball.

Maintain rules clinics and enforce physical examination of game officials. The general opinion was that some officials were so slow of foot they got in the way of players.

The recommendations will be presented to the rules body by an advisory committee of coaches consisting of Dr. Little, Harry Stuhldreher of Wisconsin, Phelan, and Dick Harlow of Harvard.

Big Six Co-Champions Divide New York Games

New York, Dec. 28 (AP).—Oklahoma and Missouri, co-champions last year of the Big Six conference, split a basketball double header in Madison Square Garden tonight. New York university walloped Missouri, 68 to 47, after Oklahoma had stopped Fordham, 55 to 42.

Cox, Clemson Guard, Hurt in Texas Drill

Coach Jess Neely said he would start Charley Tisdale if Cox is unable to take his position at the kickoff. The others of the Clemson squad were all in tip-top shape, the coach said.

Boston Gets Welcome.

Boston college's ponderous football team arrived today somewhat awed by the reception accorded them by booted Texans who welcomed them with rebel yells. They arrived amid band music, an aerial bomb salute, and a welcome many times warmer.

Coach Frank Leahy said all the Eagles were in great shape mentally and all right physically except for an epidemic of grippe that has passed on but left some of them in a weakened condition.

Praise for O'Rourke.

Boston college's starting line will average 190 pounds and its back field 175, Leahy said. O'Rourke, lightest player on the squad—6 feet tall and 153 pounds—was pronounced a truly great back by his coach.

U. S. C. RESERVES STRONG

Pasadena, Cal., Dec. 28 (AP).—Southern California's football team rates an edge over Tennessee in reserve strength, but it remains to be seen whether the Trojans can make the advantage pay dividends in the Rose bowl New Year's day.

The Volunteers have three splendid offensive threats in George Cafego, Johnny Butler, and Buist Warren, but Cafego's much discussed knee injury puts him in the probable player ranks.

Coach Howard Jones has the same number of quarter back aces in Grenville Lansdell, Doyle Nave, and Amby Schindler. All three are in top condition. If one fails to develop a spark, another will—at least one or the other has all season.

Volunteers' Line Will Do.

In the line, Tennessee's second unit, from all accounts, is just as potent as the starting seven. Its supporters say there is little to choose between

Hirsch Beats 1938 Tourney Champ, 31-18

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The Hirsch High school basketball team beat Crane, the defending champion, 31 to 18, in the second round of the University of Chicago's annual interscholastic tournament last night in the Midway fieldhouse.

Austin, last year's runner-up, and the other two semifinalists of last season—Wells and Lane—are among the eight survivors. The others are Farragut, Hyde Park, Waller, and Calumet.

These teams will play this afternoon and evening in the quarterfinals. The semi-finals will be run off tomorrow night. The title will be decided Monday afternoon.

Waller Surprises Tilden.

Austin advanced yesterday by defeating Manley, 27 to 20; Lane beat Foreman, 26 to 24; Wells beat Sullivan, 45 to 14; Farragut beat Amundsen, 23 to 17; Hyde Park beat Von Steuben, 35 to 23; Waller beat Tilden, 48 to 43, and Calumet beat Marshall, 31 to 14.

In overthrowing the defending champions Hirsch held control of the situation at every stage of the game. The south side boys stepped away to an 11 to 4 lead at the quarter, increased it to 17 to 8 at the half, and 25 to 8 for three quarters.

Miss 23 in a Row.

Thruout the third period Crane was unable to score a single point. Hirsch was controling the rebound consistently. When the Crane boys did get possession of the ball long enough to try a shot they were unable to get the range. At one time they missed 23 consecutive attempts.

The Klein brothers, Jack and Peter, figured prominently in Waller's victory over Tilden in the first game of the evening. Jack made 18 points, and Peter 10, to account for 28 of Waller's 48—the highest team total of the tournament. Waller surprised by getting away to a 25 to 17 half time lead.

Last Minute Long Shot.

Dick Triptow's long shot in the last three seconds of play enabled Lane to defeat Foreman. Eight seconds before the end two free throws by Buczak of Foreman had tied the score.

Calumet's team again demonstrated its defensive strength by holding Marshall to one field goal and a free throw in the first half, the score at that stage being 17 to 3. In its first round game on Wednesday, Calumet had yielded only four points to Taft in the first half. Bob Haarlow, Calumet center, who led his team's scor-

HOOSIERS DEAL 3D STRAIGHT FOE ITS 1ST DEFEAT

Purdue Rally Beats Rice, 52-41.

Villanova, Pa., Dec. 28 [Special].—Indiana university's basketball team swept to its seventh straight victory tonight by handing Villanova its first defeat, 45 to 33. Villanova was the third consecutive unbeaten team to have its record spoiled by the Hoosiers. Butler and Duquesne were other victims of Indiana on its present road trip which was ended tonight.

After trailing, 17 to 11, at the half, the Hoosiers, sparked by Paul Armstrong, high scorer with 18 points, and Herman Schaefer, who tallied 9, brought the game on even terms during 10 minutes of the second half. Indiana then sped up its attack and soon pulled away to a comfortable lead. Only Paul Nugent's brilliant work for Villanova kept Indiana from making a runaway of it. Lineup:

PURDUE, 52; RICE, 41

Lafayette, Ind., Dec. 28 [Special].—Purdue put on a second half rally tonight to deal Rice Institute its first basketball defeat of the season, 52 to 41, in one of the fastest games played here in years. The comeback enabled the Boilermakers to enter the Big Ten campaign with a record of six victories, including four in intersectional competition, and two defeats.

The sharp shooting of Purdue's lithe forwards, Forest Sprowl and Bob Igney, sparked the second half comeback after Rice had earned a 29 to 24 lead at the half, largely due to the brilliant under-the-basket work of Bob Kinney, sophomore center.

Purdue Takes Lead.

Turning on full speed as the second half got under way, the Boilermakers first tied the count at 31-all as Sprowl and Fisher collected field goals in rapid succession. Igney then put Purdue into the lead for the first time, 33 to 32, and Sprowl hit his third field goal of the half to give Purdue a 35 to 32 lead with 4 minutes and 25 seconds of the half played.

BRADLEY WINS, 35-31

Peoria, Ill., Dec. 28 [Special].—Jimmy O'Brien's short shot and two free throws by Lloyd Bortel gave Bradley Tech a 35 to 31 victory over Cornell university tonight. It was Tech's fourth victory in five games. Bradley led, 18 to 14 at half time. Led by Ken Jolly, Cornell moved into a 31 to 31 tie with less than three minutes to play. O'Brien, a reserve, then scored the winning basket.

Chris Hansen, sophomore center from Dundee, made 10 points to lead Bradley. Jolly made 13 to be the game's high scorer. Lineup:

GOPHERS WIN, 28-26

Seattle, Wash., Dec. 28 [Special].—A low score contest in which Minnesota experimented with its floor game and Washington tried desperately but failed to connect ended with the easterners winning, 28 to 26, tonight. It was the Gophers' second victory in the three game basketball series.

Outstanding in an otherwise slow game was Minnesota's ball hawking and accurate passing. The Gophers led, 13 to 11, going into the second half and built their lead to 26 to 15 after six minutes of play in that period. Washington held them scoreless for the next twelve minutes, meanwhile narrowing their margin to one point. Then, with two minutes remaining, John Dick of Minnesota connected on two free throws. A charity toss by Bill Fleming was the best Washington could do.

ENTRIES FLOW IN FOR 23D ANNUAL SILVER SKATES

Races to Start Jan. 13 in Garfield Park.

Chicago's skaters apparently are convinced that winter is here, whether the weather man agrees or not. Entries for the 23d Silver Skates Derbies, scheduled for Garfield park Jan. 13 and 14, began arriving yesterday following the first publication of the official blank. Skaters in all sections of the city and suburbs appear to be determined to win one of the twenty-four pairs of skates which are to be awarded to the winners, runnersup, and third place contestants in the eight divisions of competition.

Winners in the senior men and senior girls sections will receive sterling skates. Plated silver skates will be the prizes in the other six. Second prize in each of the eight divisions is a pair of chromium skates and third place finishers will be rewarded with bronze skates.

Others to Get Medals.

To further stimulate the spirit of competition, THE TRIBUNE will give the boy or girl who places fourth in each class a silver medal and the one who comes in fifth a bronze medal.

The Walter Eckersall memorial trophy, named in honor of the late Tribune sports writer, who was one of the founders of the derbies in 1917, will go to the team entry scoring the greatest number of points in all derbies. Skaters who can not match the speed of boys and girls of their own age class in the finals, can find consolation in the fact that each winner of a preliminary heat will receive a gold medal.

Entries Close Jan. 7.

Furthermore every skater who reports for his first trial heat will carry away a souvenir button. More than 56,000 have become the proud possessions of Chicagoland boys and girls since the derbies were inaugurated.

Entries will close at midnight Jan. 7. They should be mailed to Wilfrid Smith, sports department, CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

CHANGE ICE MEET SITE

The site of the opening ice racing meet of the season was changed last night when William M. Himmer, chairman of the Catholic Order of Foresters, decided to hold the Derby in Waveland park, Addison street at the outer drive, tomorrow afternoon.

The change was made from Garfield park when the Chicago park district maintenance superintendent, George J. Ehmann, declared that the ice in Waveland park was in better condition.

Pete Miller, president of the Illinois Skating association, also announced yesterday that the C. Y. O. Derby set for Sunday in Garfield park would be postponed until the ice surface improves.

In place of the C. Y. O. meet on Sunday, a special program of events will be sponsored by the Illinois Skating association in Waveland park. The regular list of events for all classes is scheduled and will serve as a warmup for the city championships, sponsored by the Northwest S. C., New Year's day in Humboldt park.

Tomorrow's races are for men and boys only, eight of them open to skaters of the Illinois association and seven closed to Forester members. The program includes races for all classes: Midgets, juvenile, junior, intermediates, class A, B, and C.

WINDY CITY FIVES TO OPEN SEASON TUESDAY NIGHT

The Windy City Basketball league will open its season Tuesday night with three games in St. Philip gymnasium, Jackson boulevard and Kedzie avenue. Thereafter, double headers will be played every Tuesday and Thursday night in that gymnasium. The Spencer Coals and I. C. Co-Ed girl teams will play an exhibition game before the league contests Tuesday night. Following is next week's schedule:

TUESDAY.

7:30 p. m.—Spencer Coals vs. I. C. Co-Eds (girls).
8:30 p. m.—Bill Hands vs. Doc Masons.
9:30 p. m.—Frankie Harmons vs. Representative Petrones.

North Carolina Coach Turns Down Rice Offer

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 28 (AP).—Coach Raymond Wolf of the University of North Carolina said today he had rejected an offer to take over the football coaching position at Rice Institute. "It was a fine proposition and Rice is an outstanding university, but I am happily situated at North Carolina and turned it down," Wolf explained. Wolf is attending the American football coaches meeting.

Leafs Defeat Canadiens in Stormy Game

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 28 (AP).—The Toronto Maple Leafs took second place in the National Hockey league tonight by handing the Montreal Canadiens their fifth consecutive defeat, 6 to 4. Referee Frank [King] Clancy called back two Montreal goals and Hector [Toe] Blake of the Canadiens and Bob Davidson of the Leafs put on some fisticuffs that cost them major penalties.

When Clancy called back the second Montreal score in the second period President Ernest Savard of the Canadiens called him over to the Montreal bench and discussed the matter with his hands on Clancy's shoulders, but that apparently ended the incident. Gordon Drillon, the league's leading scorer, sent in two of the goals for the Leafs.

PRAISE GOODMAN

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 28 [Special.]—The Chicago Blackhawks are here to battle the Maple Leafs Saturday in a National Hockey league game for the second time in Toronto this season. The first encounter ended in a 3 to 3 tie.

Paul Goodman, who manned the nets in last night's 4 to 2 defeat at the hands of the Americans in New York, will be on the job again Saturday.

"Goodman played a good game in New York last night—far better than the score indicates," said Thompson on his arrival here. "Goodman came to the Hawks upon my recommendation after the poor showing of Karakas in the last games against the New York Rangers and the Boston Bruins. Prior to those games Karakas had played excellent goal for us at times and at others his playing was hardly up to major league standards. In my opinion a change was necessary.

"In New York Goodman was not outplayed—he was outlucked," Thompson continued. "No goalie in the league could have stopped any of the four scores made by the Americans."

Two dollar mutuels paid: Fair, $21.50 straight, $8.60 place, $4.80 show; R. Pinchot, $4.10 place, $3.10 show; Never Cease, $3.30 show.

FAIR, away fast and hustled along, showed excellent speed and held on gamely. R. PINCHOT went up on inside, was hard ridden all thru stretch and just failed to get up. NEVER CEASE was taken wide around turn, finished fast. HUSTLE ALONG, well up from the start, ran good race. LADY SARA ran good race. BRIERTON broke slow, suffered interference, but finished fast when clear.

THIRD RACE—Mile and 70 yards. Purse $700. Claiming prices, $2,500 to $2,000. Maiden 2 year olds. Start good. Won driving, place same. Went to post at 2:57½. Off at 3:00½. Two dollar mutuels paid: Arch Hero, $11.90 straight, $4.90 place, $3.50 show; White Hope, $4.10 place, $3.10 show; Shasta Mollie, $3.00 show.

ARCH HERO got away well in his stride and assumed lead going into paddock turn. He opened a good lead and, then rated along, stood long drive gamely. WHITE HOPE was weakly handled all the way. He finished fast on his own courage. SHASTA MOLLIE, well up and kept on outside, finished fast. MISS GALLANT tired badly in final furlong. NOPALOSA ROJO had speed for six furlongs.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse $700. Claiming price, $1,500. Three year olds and up. Start good. Won easily, place same. Went to post at 3:28. Off at 3:28½. Two dollar mutuels paid: Mar Le, $4.80 straight, $3.90 place, $3.10 show; Foxy Maude, $9.80 place, $4.70 show; Pause, $4.50 show.

MAR LE, showing a startling form reversal, moved up when ready, raced PADDY into submission and drew away easily. FOXY MAUDE displayed good speed and finished fast. PAUSE was hustled along from the start and just lasted to save the show. FORFEND was outrun to the stretch where she closed very fast. PADDY had plenty of speed but quit badly in last quarter mile. NOBLE BOY was outrun.

SIXTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse $800. Claiming price, $3,000. Two year olds. Six furlongs. Start good. Won driving, place same. Went to post at 4:20. Off at 4:22½. Two dollar mutuels paid: Sun Mica, $45.90 straight, $13.10 place, $7.80 show; Conrad Mann, $3.90 place, $3.90 show; Reminiscent, $10.50 show.

SUN MICA, going in best form, was rushed to the front, saved ground all the way and stood long drive gamely. CONRAD MANN as usual trailed far back, was steered to the outside and just failed to get up. REMINISCENT had plenty of speed and ran a good race. BROADUS failed to show any speed and never threatened. OLD MAID is sure to improve.

EIGHTH RACE—Mile and an eighth. Purse $700. Claiming prices, $1,250 to $1,000. Three year olds and up. Start good. Won driving, place same. Went to post at 5:16. Off at 5:17. SIX ARE HELD AS SCALPERS OF ICE SHOW TICKETS

Acting on complaints of citizens to the police commissioner's office, Lieut. Walter McGloon, of the Warren avenue station, arrested six men last night in a tavern at 1841 West Madison street as alleged scalpers of tickets to the Sonja Henie ice show in the Chicago Stadium. Those held and the addresses they gave are: Jack Foreman, 24, 1105 South Hermitage avenue; a peddler; Edward Zimmerman, 18, 746 North Hoyne avenue; Michael Hammerman, 40, 1020 North Central Park avenue, an accountant; his brother, David, 41, 3726 Grenshaw street, a clerk; Joseph Wolf, 30, 75 West Randolph street, a waiter; and Lewis Novak, 22, 1655 West 14th street, a peddler.

"These men are professional scalpers," said Lieut. McGloon in ordering the men held overnight.

DE KALB QUINTET AND CENTENARY CLASH TONIGHT

Vacation time means little to the members of the De Kalb Teachers college basketball team, for tonight they meet Centenary of Shreveport, La., in a game to be played in the West Aurora High school gymnasium. The contest was shifted to Aurora because of a high school tournament being held in De Kalb.

During the absence of Head Coach George G. Evans, who is on a honeymoon trip, the De Kalb squad will be under the direction of Hap Lawson.

Defending Champions Eliminated at De Kalb

De Kalb, Ill., Dec. 28 [Special].—Glenbard High school, defending champion in the De Kalb High school holiday basketball tournament, was eliminated today by Hinsdale, 24 to 23, in a sudden death overtime period. Petty made the winning basket after Glenbard had tied the score a few seconds before the regulation game ended.

Bradley, Watseka Clash Tonight in Title Game

Kankakee, Ill., Dec. 28 [Special].—Bradley, defending champion, defeated Lockport, 53 to 15, and Watseka won from Kankakee, 34 to 27, in the semi-finals of the second annual Kankakee High school invitational holiday basketball tournament tonight. The winners will clash tomorrow night for the championship.

LOYOLA QUINTET CLASHES TONIGHT WITH RICE TEAM

Games Tonight

Rice at Loyola.
Illinois at Drake.
Minnesota at Washington.
Centenary vs. De Kalb at Aurora.
Southern Methodist at Butler.

Loyola university's basketball team, determined to end a three game losing streak, will play Rice institute tonight in Loyola gymnasium. Carnegie Tech, Oklahoma A. and M., defending Missouri Valley Conference champions, and Southern Methodist have defeated Loyola.

Capt. George Wenskus and Vinny Graham have starred in the season's six games. Wenskus leads the scorers with 57 points. Graham, while collecting 45, has been the leader on defense. Eddie Schell, showing improvement with each game, has 42 points. The trio has scored 144 of Loyola's 211 point total.

Danny Cahill's performance at guard is satisfactory for a sophomore, while Ed Lee at forward is in need of more work. These two have 55 points between them.

ILLINOIS MEETS DRAKE

Champaign, Ill., Dec. 28 [Special].—Following their victory over Notre Dame last night, which kept them in the undefeated class, the Illinois basketball players departed today for Des Moines, Ia., where Drake will be played tomorrow night. Coach Doug Mills selected these players for the trip: Capt. Bill Hapac, Walter Evers, John Drish, Joe Frank, Colin Handlon, Bill Hocking, Harry Lasater, Bob O'Neill, Vic Wukovits, Bob Richmond, and Harold Shapiro. The squad will return Saturday to prepare for its engagement with Butler at Indianapolis on Monday.

N. U. AWAITS IRISH

Northwestern's basketball team will wind up its five game preconference schedule tomorrow night against Notre Dame in Patten gymnasium in the 25th game between these two traditional rivals.

The Wildcats, unbeaten in four games this season, see a chance to narrow Notre Dame's margin of victories which now stands at 13 for the Irish to 11 for the Purple. Past performances usually count for little, however, when these two powerful rivals clash. Last year, Notre Dame won the first game, 48 to 30, but in the return contest the Wildcats triumphed, 43 to 29.

Notre Dame will attempt to even its season's record with Big Ten teams by defeating the Wildcats. The Irish won from Wisconsin, but lost to Michigan and Illinois.

Evert, Larned Win in Indoor Junior Tennis

New York, Dec. 28 (AP).—The seven seeded players remaining in the national junior indoor tennis tournament pounded their foes into submission today, and at the end of the day Calvin Friedman of New York was the only outsider to reach the quarter-final round. Friedman defeated Edgar Buttenheim of Taft school, Wallingford, Conn., 3-6, 6-3, 6-3.

Aside from second seeded Jimmy Evert of Chicago, who was forced into extra work before he eliminated Allen McDonald of Kenyon college, Gambier, 4-6, 6-3, 7-5, the ranking players won their engagements in straight sets. McDonald, a teammate of Don McNeill, the nation's fourth ranking player, demanded the best from Evert and the little Chicagoan was equal to the occasion.

Umstaedter, Bender Win.

Bill Umstaedter of Milburn, N. J., top seeded, defeated Paul Napolitano of Trenton, N. J., 6-2, 6-0, and third seeded Dick Bender of Westfield, N. J., trimmed Hamilton Albaugh of New York, 6-0, 6-1. Gardner Larned of Chicago, Evert's doubles mate, romped past Alfred Roser of New York, 6-0, 6-1.

Melvin Schwartzman, Judah Lober, and Fred Krais, New Yorkers, who complete the seedings, achieved quarter-final berths, with Lober having the hardest time. He beat Dick Shipp of Le Moyne, Pa., 8-6, 7-5. Schwartzman defeated Jerome Lieberthal of Cornell university, 6-1, 6-1, and Krais beat Burton Hellman of New York, 6-1, 6-3.

Quarter-Final Pairings.

In the boys division the quarter-final bracket also was filled with the completion of four matches in the lower half of the draw today.

Included in the advance were second seeded Irvin Dorfman of New York, who defeated Hollis Young of Great Neck, N. Y., 6-2, 6-1, and Albert Shafer of Tarrytown, N. Y., seeded fourth, who turned back James Field of New York, 6-3, 6-2.

Ted Backe of Bayshore, N. Y., eliminated Charles Oliver of Perth Amboy, N. J., 6-4, 0-6, 6-4, and Fred Kovaleski of Hamtramck, Mich., defeated Alan Watson of Elizabeth, N. J., 6-2, 6-0.

CHARITY TO GET PURSES OF BOXER WHO TURNS PRO

Madison, Wis., Dec. 28 (AP).—Charles Rasmussen, 19 year old amateur welterweight undefeated in 36 fights, 16 of them won by knockouts, disclosed today he had signed with Jack O'Brien, a Chicago manager, for 11 professional fights—and that he was going to give his net earnings away.

"I'm going to fight only 11 fights and then continue my work at vocational school," Rasmussen said. "I'm not going into this to make any big money. I want to get it out of my system."

New Coaching Offers Denied by Shaughnessy

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 28 (AP).—Clark Shaughnessy, football coach at the University of Chicago, where intercollegiate football has been abolished, said tonight he had received no coaching offers and had made no overtures for any. "I'm still with the University of Chicago as professor of physical education," Shaughnessy said, "and as far as I am concerned I'll continue in that capacity."

North and South Team Captains Named for Game

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 28 (AP).—Smiley Johnson, Georgia guard, and John McIntyre, Notre Dame center, today were elected captains of the Southern and Northern all-star football teams which will meet here Saturday. Ken Kavanaugh, Louisiana State end, was chosen alternate captain for the Dixie outfit. The Yankees did not choose an alternate. Both teams continued practice today for the game.

With practically every player a sectional standout and many picked on national honor teams, betters offered this proposition: "Give us 3 points and you take either team."

Coaches Ray Morrison of Vanderbilt and Josh Cody of Florida sharpened the rebel aerial attack, with Ken Heineman of Texas Mines and Young Bussey, L. S. U., firing alternately.

Heineman and Bussey also are doing the rebel kicking, and teaming occasionally with Jack Nix, Mississippi State, and Art Rooney, North Carolina State, in wheeling off on Morrison's famed razzle dazzle plays.

Out at Cramton bowl, the game scene, Coaches Lynn Waldorf of Northwestern and Carl Snavely of Cornell sent their Blues thru a long offensive workout, into which they worked some kicking and defensive maneuvers. Deception had a part in almost every play and there was passing galore.

IDLE BANK CASH RISES ANOTHER 150 MILLIONS

Total Above Five Billions; Holiday Funds Return.

An increase of $150,000,000 in the lendable excess reserves of banks which are members of the federal reserve system was reported by the federal reserve board yesterday for the week ended Wednesday.

The piling up of reserves, which followed an increase of $50,000,000 in the preceding week, raised the total on the latest date to $5,050,000,000.

Causes of Upturn.

Return of Christmas shoppers' funds to the banks from retail stores was one cause of the large gain in idle money, the board said. It said gold imports also were a contributing factor.

The 12 federal reserve banks increased their holdings of government bonds by $93,000,000 during the week, the board reported, but holdings of government notes declined $100,000,000.

Loans to brokers and dealers on securities held by reporting member banks in New York city totaled $551,000,000. A decrease of $115,000,000.

DELISTING.

I saw a report recently that Oshkosh B'Gosh, Inc., had applied to the Securities and Exchange commission for permission to withdraw its preferred and common stocks from listing on the Chicago Stock exchange. How will delisting affect stockholders?—J. R. P.

Answer: Oshkosh B'Gosh, Inc., in its application to delist its stocks from the Chicago Stock exchange, said it was taking the action because transactions in the stocks were so small and infrequent that the advantages of the listing did not justify the expense and inconvenience involved. The trading, it said, could be handled adequately in the over-the-counter market.

The company was required to maintain a transfer office in Chicago under the exchange rules, and stand the expense of preparing a detailed annual financial report, required by the exchange and the SEC. Delisting would relieve the company of these duties and some of the expense involved, altho it would still have to maintain a transfer office.

Capitalization of the company consists of 16,500 shares of $2 cumulative preferred and 70,000 no par common shares. Both stocks have been listed on the exchange since 1929.

In 1938 only 980 shares of common and 300 shares of preferred stock were traded. The turnover in the common thus far in 1939 was 700 shares and in the preferred 610 shares.

An SEC hearing is scheduled in Chicago Jan. 4, 1940, on the company's delisting application. The purpose of the hearing will be to determine whether stockholders have been given full information on the reasons for the proposed delisting.

Delisting may at times work to the disadvantage of stockholders. Withdrawal from listing sometimes deprives stockholders of an easily available record of market transactions and the detailed annual financial report required by exchange rules. Listing also provides the additional safeguard of having a separate transfer office and registrar to insure a correct record of the stock ownership.

Unlisted stocks are not accepted as collateral for loans by brokers and dealers, and are not as readily acceptable to banks as listed securities.

When, however, a company's stocks are traded infrequently, the cost involved in complying with exchange and SEC requirements may outweigh the advantages of listing. With inactive stocks, the printed quotations appear only when transactions occur so that listing alone does not necessarily provide a continuous record of the market value of the security.

OFFER LARGEST RAIL BOND ISSUE IN MANY YEARS

Market 60 Millions for L. & N. Road.

Public offering will be made today of $60,000,000 of Louisville and Nashville railroad 3½ per cent and 4 per cent bonds—the first large railroad issue to be marketed publicly in years. The bonds are to be offered by a nation-wide syndicate headed by Morgan Stanley & Co., subject to approval by the Interstate Commerce commission.

The 3½ per cent bonds, due in 10 years, are priced at 101 to yield 3.38 per cent. The 4 per cent bonds, due in 20 years, are priced at 100½ to yield 3.96 per cent. Proceeds, together with treasury funds, will be used to pay off $89,243,000 of unified 4 per cent bonds due July 1, 1940.

Watch Controversy Over Bids.

Meanwhile security dealers are watching the controversy stirred by awarding of the bonds to the Morgan Stanley group. Halsey, Stuart & Co., big Chicago investment banking house, in a letter to Lyman Delano, chairman of the board of the L. & N., criticized the awarding of the bonds without competitive bidding for them.

Robert Bulkley, former Ohio senator, who has represented Halsey-Stuart & Co. and Otis & Co. in other transactions, yesterday urged the Interstate Commerce commission to require competitive bidding on railroad bond issues, particularly of the Louisville and Nashville.

Previously Delano had replied to the Halsey-Stuart letter to say the objections of the banking house would put on it the "grave responsibility of attempting to interfere" with the best judgment of the railroads' directors in arranging the financing. Delano said the present favorable state of the bond market caused the board to act at once to provide for the July 1 maturity.

Letter Expresses Attitude.

Harold L. Stuart, head of Halsey, Stuart & Co., was still at home because of illness and could not be reached for comment. At the offices of the company it was said the Halsey-Stuart attitude on the transaction was expressed in the letter to Delano and there was nothing more to be said.

Investment house officials in La Salle street declared that the present controversy is in part due to the bitter competition among investment bankers for the business of handling high grade securities, of which the supply is limited and for which the demand is large.

The Great Northern railway has under consideration the refunding or other means for meeting the July 1 maturity of its last major underlying bond issue, the $28,100,000 of St. Paul, Minneapolis, and Manitoba railway Pacific extension 4s, it was reported.

Libby, McNeill Files Bonds.

Libby, McNeill & Libby, Chicago food packing and distributing company, yesterday filed a registration statement with the Securities and Exchange commission at Washington covering the sale of $11,000,000 of first mortgage 15 year sinking fund 4 per cent bonds, due Jan. 1, 1955. The offering price will be announced later. Glore, Forgan & Co., Chicago investment banking house, will head the underwriting group.

Of the proceeds $9,197,930 will be used for the retirement on April 1 at 101½ of $9,062,000 of first mortgage 5 per cent bonds, due Oct. 1, 1942. The remainder will be added to working capital and applied to the reduction of loans.

Filing of the registration statement is a part of the program of recapitalization and refinancing made necessary because Swift & Co. is required to sell its large Libby, McNeill stock holdings under a federal law which prohibits a meat packing company from ownership of food companies not engaged in the meat packing business.

ENGLAND SELLS, FRANCE BUYS U. S. SECURITIES

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28 (AP).—England made heavy sales of American securities during the first month of the war, but France was a net purchaser, the treasury revealed today.

The figures on international capital movements—made available three months late in accordance with treasury policy—showed that net sales of American securities in September by foreign holders amounted to the relatively small sum of $2,307,000.

While British investors sold $25,-000,000 worth and Canadians sold $3,000,000, the transactions were nearly offset by purchases of $23,000,000 by France, $7,611,000 by the Netherlands, $7,530,000 by Switzerland, $1,640,000 by residents of smaller European countries, $1,472,-000 by Latin Americans, and $7,943,-000 by the far east. Germany also sold, but only to the extent of $33,000.

PREDICT W. A. JONES WILL HEAD VAST OIL AND UTILITIES SYSTEM

New York, Dec. 28 (AP).—W. Alton Jones, first vice president of the billion dollar Cities Service company is slated to succeed the late Henry L. Doherty as chief executive of the vast oil and utility system, it was predicted in well informed quarters today. He had been acting in that capacity under Doherty's guidance during the long illness of the president.

W. Alton Jones.

Jones has had extensive experience in public utility and oil fields. He served as president of the National Electric Light association, predecessor to the Edison Electric institute, in 1930 and 1931.

BATA SHOE FIRM RESTRICTED TO 10 ALIEN WORKERS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28 [Special].—James L. Houghteling, commissioner of immigration and naturalization, tonight notified Jan A. Bata, head of the $300,000,000 Bata Shoe manufacturing organization, with main offices at Zlin, Czecho-Slovakia, that he will be permitted to employ only 10 of the 72 Czechs brought to Belcamp, Md., to act as instructors of new employés in the company's first United States factory. He acted with the approval of Frances Perkins, secretary of labor. The commissioner withdrew his previous approval of the importation of 28 more Czech shoe workers.

The commissioner notified Bata that the immigration service's investigation had disclosed "very few processes employed at the Bata plant which are not known to skilled American workers, and which might justify the importation of Czecho-Slovakian workers."

Protests against the entry of the Bata employés had been made by shoe workers' unions, American manufacturers, and members of congress.

Court Ends Appointment of Midland United Trustee

Wilmington, Del., Dec. 28 (AP).—An order terminating the appointment of Ray Garrett of Chicago as co-trustee of the Midland United company, as of Jan. 1, 1940, was issued today by Judge John P. Nields. Objections had been made by the securities exchange commission and a stockholders' committee of Midland utilities to permanent appointment of Garrett as a co-trustee with Hugh M. Morris of Wilmington.

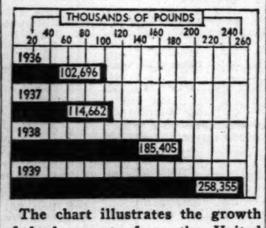
War Increases Lard Exports to 6-Year Top

Warring nations bought large quantities of American lard last month, the department of commerce disclosed yesterday. Exports were the largest since last January and at a peak for any November since 1933.

The month's lard shipments totaled 21,706,337 pounds, an increase of 60 per cent compared with November exports last year and 97 per cent above the November average of the last four years. There is usually a seasonal decline in sales of lard abroad between October and November. This year there was an increase of 6,615,077 pounds.

Sales of lard abroad during the first eleven months of 1939 rose to 258,-354,923 pounds, the largest in five years. This total compared with 185,-405,041 last year, 114,661,509 two years ago, and 102,695,611 three years ago.

Foreign nations showed a much broader demand for lard than for pork. Sales of pork, exclusive of lard, totaled only 7,302,058 pounds during November, against 11,066,264 last year.



The chart illustrates the growth of lard exports from the United States which last month were the largest for any November since 1933.

Attorneys Ash and Korshak Set Up a Law Partnership

Harry A. Ash and Sidney R. Korshak announced yesterday that they have formed a law partnership. Ash is a former Cook county inheritance tax attorney and a former assistant attorney general of Illinois. Korshak is a former assistant corporation counsel. The attorneys will have offices at 100 North La Salle street.

CO-OP OFFICIAL QUITS; PROTESTS WALLACE'S FARM CREDIT SEIZURE

Ithaca, N. Y., Dec. 28 (AP).—H. E. Babcock, president of the coöperative GLF Products, Inc., and formerly assistant chairman of the federal farm board, said today he had resigned as a director of the Central Bank for Coöperatives in protest against what he described as Secretary Wallace's "recent decision to assume active control of the Farm Credit administration."

H. E. Babcock.

Babcock, an organizer and former general manager of the Grange League Federation exchange, farmers' coöperative buying organization which does a $25,000,000 business, said he wrote in his letter of resignation:

"Regardless of your intentions, and I believe you fair enough to recognize that under the circumstances, they are open to questioning by cautious men, it is, in my opinion, extremely dangerous and unfair to farm stockholders to place the machinery of the Farm Credit administration in a position where it may be utilized to enforce economic philosophies or further political ambitions."

FOREIGN TRADE PIERS CONGESTED; ASK MORE SPACE

New York, Dec. 28 (AP).—Facilities of New York foreign trade zone, a five-pier area on Staten Island, are so overtaxed with $18,500,000 worth of war materials and other goods that zone officials have asked the city to permit them to use two additional piers for storage.

Frank Gruenthal, zone manager, said owners of 50,000 tons of cargo have been unable to get accommodations at the "free port," operated by a private corporation on lease from the city. All available space has been booked six months in advance.

The war materials, awaiting shipment to Great Britain and France, include 60 bombers, part of an order for 250 built for the British; 2,500 trucks, and 13 trench diggers costing $3,000 each, Gruenthal said. One thousand more trucks and 270 more trench diggers are en route to the port for shipment to those countries.

Predict Freight Upturn in Great Lakes Region

The Great Lakes regional advisory board yesterday forecast a freight traffic gain of 21.8 per cent over 1938 for the first quarter of 1940. Total loadings for the period were estimated at 350,378 cars, against 287,575 a year earlier.

REP. REED OPENS STRONG BATTLE ON TRADE PACTS

Says Davies Will Be 'Superlobbyist.'

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28 (AP).—The struggle over the trade pact program opened in earnest today when Rep. Daniel A. Reed [R., N. Y.] issued a statement charging that the administration had chosen Joseph E. Davies as a "superlobbyist" to fight for the program by holding "gorgeous and costly salons" and by exercising powers of "patronage, punishment, and persuasion."

Rep. Daniel A. Reed.

Reed referred to the fact that Davies, the ambassador to Belgium and former envoy to Russia, has been appointed to new duties as a special assistant to Secretary of State Hull.

"I insist that there are able farm and labor leaders in this country who could contribute much more of the American viewpoint, if drafted as advisors, than can Ambassador Davies," Reed said. "Apparently, however, President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull want as their foreign trade expert and supercongressional lobbyist one who is thoroly experienced and entirely sympathetic with the interests and viewpoint of foreign governments."

Expects Social Activities.

"It is suggested from different sources that social activities will play a large part in Mr. Davies' operations as the administration's superlobbyist for the extension of the reciprocal trade act. There is no question but that American farmers and working men are going to read with interest, if not with mixed emotions, the lists of those in official life who participate in the gorgeous and costly Davies salons while administration powers of patronage, punishment, and persuasion are exercised thru Mr. Davies on the hill."

Reed also accused the administration of favoring "copper barons" in its program. He referred to the fact that it had announced recently that the duty on copper would not be reduced in a pending trade pact with Chile. He said the conclusion seemed inescapable "that when the copper barons, who contribute so handsomely to the Democratic campaign fund, put the pressure on, they are singled out for assurances that their tariff schedules will not be disturbed."

Bitter Fight Is Likely.

Reed's denunciation was regarded a foretaste of the bitterness expected to develop on both sides when the administration presses for renewal of its power to negotiate, without the consent of the senate, pacts which lower tariff barriers on a reciprocal basis. The power expires next June unless congress acts.

Senator George W. Norris [Neb., Independent] entered the lists on the Roosevelt side today by predicting that public opinion would enable the administration to obtain extension of the power. He said he would "do his part" in the debates.

Norris suggested that most members of congress should actually be happy at a chance to avoid acting on subjects when "sectional bickering and interests" play an important part.

Raise Metropolitan Trust Surplus to $400,000

Directors of the Metropolitan Trust company yesterday voted to enlarge the surplus account to $400,000. This marked the second increase during 1939. Several months ago surplus was raised from $250,000 to $325,000. Both increases were made from accumulated earnings, according to Reuben A. Lewis Jr., executive vice president. Capital continues at $500,-000.

Most Chicago Business Indices Register Gains Over Last Year

Chicago business in all but two lines used in key indices showed gains during November, the Chicago Association of Commerce reported yesterday in its monthly survey. Activities in which declines were noted in comparison with last year were in the real estate market and in sales on the Chicago Stock exchange.

Among the most notable increases were the 720,024 gross ton production of pig iron compared with the 429,748 ton production in 1938; output of electric power and the employé index for the manufacturing industries. Electric power output totaled 816,140,000 kilowatt hours, compared with 694,982,000 in November, 1938, and the employé index was 80.3, compared with 69.6.

Telephones in use—rated as a good business barometer—totaled 992,641, compared with 958,606 a year ago. The total in use broke all records. Surface line passengers totalling 57,463,296 showed a gain of slightly less than 1,000,000.

While there were a number of declines from the October, 1939, totals, many of them were seasonal.

SQUARE D VOTES PLAN TO ACQUIRE INSTRUMENT UNIT

Stockholders of Square D company, meeting yesterday at Detroit, approved a plan under which the company will acquire the Kollsman Instrument Company, Inc., manufacturer of precision aircraft instruments.

A new issue of 5 per cent cumulative convertible preferred stock was authorized. This issue, together with Square D common stock, will provide the shares to be issued in the acquisition. F. M. Magin, president of Square D, said the merger will be completed before the end of this year.

The Kollsman company will receive either $2,000,000 par value of the new preferred stock and 70,000 shares of Square D common stock, or $3,000,000 of the new preferred and 35,000 shares of common. The Square D company, with headquarters at Detroit, manufactures electrical equipment.

Engineering News-Record reported private building awards were 24 per cent higher during the week ended yesterday than in the corresponding week last year. Public contracts declined 37 per cent, and total awards were off 25 per cent. The latest week's compilations included the Christmas holiday.

Private construction awards during the week totaled $14,778,000, compared with $8,746,000 in the preceding week, and $11,944,000 a year ago. Total awards dropped to $44,728,000 from $47,702,000 in the week ended Dec. 21, and $59,510,000 in 1938. Statistics follow:

SEC APPROVES STOCK SALE TO HOLDING FIRM

Utility's Bond Issue Cut 10 Million.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28 (AP).—The Securities and Exchange commission today authorized the Consumers Power company of Jackson, Mich., to sell $18,594,000 of bonds to the public for refunding purposes and to sell 125,000 shares of common stock at $28.25 a share to its parent, Commonwealth and Southern corporation.

Jerome Frank announces SEC decision on financing.

The commission split several ways in its order which climaxed a fight by middle western financial houses, led by Otis & Co., of Cleveland, to obtain a share in the handling of the securities.

In an opinion by Chairman Jerome Frank the commission made this disposition of the major issues:

Reduced by $10,000,000 the amount of 3¼ per cent first mortgage 30 year bonds the company could issue.

Accepts Underwriters' Offer.

Accepted an offer by the two principal underwriters, Morgan Stanley & Co., and Bonbright & Co., that their fees on the sale of the bonds be impounded until the question of whether they are "affiliates" of Consumers Power and Commonwealth and Southern is decided.

Ruled that it was not necessary for the commission to pass on the sale of $3,531,250 of common stock by Consumers Power to its parent, since the acquisition is exempt under SEC rules.

Held that the company should raise

Time Loans in a Hurry!

You may pay up in a hurry
You may take plenty of time

It's the customer's choice—when you borrow at this bank. You may pay up in a hurry or take plenty of time. Convenient Time Tables for amounts from $50 to $5,000 will help you to make your choice.

When you make a Time Loan at this bank, you give a note which includes the amount of cash received and the moderate cost of the loan. Then month by month you "save up" in an account with us to have the funds to pay your note when it falls due.

— Personal Loan Time Table —

For Example:

Suppose you want $350 in cash and suppose you prefer a low monthly installment, take an 18 month loan and "save up" $21.64 a month . . . If you want to get it paid back in a hurry, make a loan for, say, 5 months and provide $72.79 a month for retirement . . . If the reason for a loan is an annual need, which may recur in another year, then it would be logical to borrow for 12 months, and $31.44 will be the monthly installment.

Monthly provision for payment based on amount of cash received			Number of Months
$250	$350	$450
$15.61	$21.64	$27.75	18
16.43	22.79	29.22	17

Stocks, Bonds

New York Stocks.

New York, Dec. 28 (AP).—Waning of year-end tax selling attracted buyers in today's stock market and leading issues rallied fractions to more than two points at the best. Steels, aviations, mail orders, rails, coppers, and specialties led the upturn after a hesitant start.

Dealings, slack for a time, subsequently picked up momentum and transfers for the five hours totaled 1,080,680 shares against 1,146,340 the day before. It was the second session in two weeks in which the turnover topped a million shares.

There was an assortment of "cash" sales during the proceedings, apparently from those who wished to make sure there would be no argument regarding establishment of losses for income tax statements. Under the new rule transactions for tax purposes do not have to be actually cleared before the end of 1939. In past years it was necessary to sell for cash in the final days in order to get in under the wire.

Business news, on the whole, was favorable and many traders returned to the bullish side when they recalled that in recent times January has usually experienced substantial stock market revivals.

Retaining sizable advances were United States Steel, Bethlehem, Douglas Aircraft, Glenn Martin, Eastern Air Lines, American Airlines, Lockheed, Montgomery Ward, New York Central, Anaconda, Cerro de Pasco, Dow Chemical, du Pont, International Harvester, and International Paper preferred.

Brightening earnings prospects for air transport companies and war plane manufacturers stimulated aeronautical stocks. Forecasts of a brisk rebound in steel mill operations next week buoyed this metal group. Rails were aided by estimates last week's freight loadings registered a sharply less-than-seasonal drop.

New York Bonds.

New York, Dec. 28 (AP).—Some secondary rails gained more than 2 points in fairly active trading in the bond market today. Strength in a number of Scandinavian issues featured the foreign dollar list. Denmark 4½s of 1962 rose 1¼ at 48¼. Norway 4s of 1963 were up 2 at 34. Finland 6s held at 40.

In the corporate division, gainers of 2 points or more included: Baltimore and Ohio convertible 4½s, at 17⅜; Illinois Central 4¾s, at 43⅜, and the refunding 4s, at 46; Nickel Plate 4½s, at 56½; Northern Pacific 6s and 4½s, at 61½ and 77½ respectively.

United States government obligations were quiet and mixed, with gains running up to 11-32 and declines to 2-32.

Chicago Stocks.

Trading quickened on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday. Transactions totaled 49,000 shares in 132 issues. Bonds totaling $95,000, par value, also were traded. Two stocks touched new high marks for 1939. They were Commonwealth Edison, up ¼ point at 32, and Katz Drug, which reached 6 but slid back from the peak to close at 5¾, up ¼ point net.

Bank Stocks.

First National bank shares rose two points yesterday, closing at a bid of 224. Continental-Illinois gained half a point to 93. Chicago Title and Trust declined one to 118. Other issues were steady.

BEATRICE INCOME SHARPLY HIGHER IN LAST QUARTER

Share Earnings Reach $1.07, Against 73c.

Beatrice Creamery company yesterday reported net income of $525,740 for the three months ended Nov. 30, compared with $397,214 in the corresponding period of 1938. The large dairy products company's consolidated earnings for the latest three months equaled $1.07 a share, against 73 cents a share in the corresponding 1938 period.

C. H. Haskell, president, told stockholders that sales for the quarter amounted to $17,565,842, compared with $16,641,447 in the 1938 quarter. The average sales price of butter advanced about 6 per cent over the 1938 quarter, he said.

Haskell attributed higher prices of dairy products to the drouth in the middle west, which cut production and reduced warehouse supplies of butter.

Murray Corporation Reports Profit.

The Murray Corporation of America, large producer of automobile bodies, sheet metal products, and auto parts, yesterday reported its net income for the quarter ended Nov. 30 was $203,069, equal to 21 cents a share. No exact comparison with the preceding year is available due to a change in the company's fiscal year. The corporation reported a net loss of $547,456 in the quarter ended Dec. 31, 1938.

Production schedules were slowed down to some extent by seasonal curtailment in September and by the Chrysler labor controversy, which adversely affected earnings, it was stated.

Waco Aircraft company came onto the profit side of the ledger in the year ended Sept. 30, for which it reported net income of $4,582, equal to 1 cents a share. In the preceding year the company, which manufactures airplanes, had a net loss of $34,326.

INVESTING FIRM STOCKHOLDERS VOTE MERGER

Stockholders of Lawbeck corporation have approved the proposed merger with Manhattan-Dearborn corporation, it was announced yesterday. Stockholders of the latter company will vote today on the proposal.

Under the plan, both companies will be merged into a new company to be known as Consolidated Dearborn corporation. The new company's capitalization will consist of $3,907,200 in debentures and 377,084 shares of common stock.

Manhattan-Dearborn owns the common stock of Lawbeck corporation, and guarantees payments on the Lawbeck preferred stock. Holders of the latter will receieve $100 in debentures and 2½ shares of the new company's common stock in exchange for each share held. Manhattan-Dearborn common shareholders will exchange their stock for the new common on a share for share basis.

Federal 'Back Seat Drivers' Blamed for Economic Upset

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 28 [Special].—Government planning is the cause of, not the remedy for, the nation's economic troubles, the American Economic association was told at a meeting tonight.

Dr. Benjamin M. Anderson Jr.

Benjamin M. Anderson Jr., professor of economics for the University of California at Los Angeles, said in an address:

1. Government economic planning is back seat driving by a man who does not know how to drive and who, except in war time, does not know where he wants to go.

Lays Disorders to Planning.

2. The great disorders in economic life since 1929 have been caused by such planning, particularly by governmental interferences with the orderly functioning of markets, increased taxes, and deficits created by expanding government functions.

3. The agricultural adjustment administration's parity price policy is a reversion to medievalism.

4. The drop in private investment in business enterprise is the result of a fear of government spending, fear of growing federal debt, and fear for the future stability of money.

5. Government planning, to be effective, would require the abolition of democracy and individual rights.

Free Markets Termed Vital.

Stressing the importance of freedom in the markets, Anderson said: "The market place is a far more modern and efficient instrumentality of economic coördination than government. The substitution of government control for control by freely moving market prices is not progress but dangerous retrogression."

To be effective, he said, economic planning would have to be preceded by a complete centralization of the American government.

"The reconstitution of government in Italy and Germany," he said, "points the way for those who wish to pursue it."

Joseph B. Eastman, chairman of the interstate commerce commission, and Homer Jones of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation, also addressed the meeting.

BUSINESS BITS

Services to Chicago of C. L. Rice, retiring head of the Hawthorne plant of the Western Electric company, will be recognized by the Union League club at a farewell luncheon next Wednesday. Two hundred members of the club and friends of "Dad" Rice will pay tribute to him. A week later Rice is to leave for the seaside home he recently completed on Holly Point, Chesapeake bay, near Gloucester, Va. Rice for two years was president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, has been chairman of the public affairs committee of the Union League club, and has taken part in numerous civic activities.

C. L. Rice.

Malcolm MacHarg, formerly of Chicago, was elected vice president of the McCall corporation, publishers. MacHarg is a graduate of the University of Michigan and was associated with several advertising agencies in Chicago and New York before joining the McCall organization.

Seven employés of the H. J. Heinz company were given service awards at a dinner last night at the Drake hotel on the 70th anniversary of the company's founding. The meeting was addressed by Howard Heinz, president of the company, who spoke by telephonic hookup to 70 such meetings thruout the country. Chicago employés receiving awards were Carolyn Kieffer, W. K. McKee, Frank Pulice, E. G. Roos, H. G. Shoger, John Stepak, and E. J. Muldoon.

BOOST BENEFITS TO EMPLOYES OF SWIFT & CO.

Swift & Co., announced yesterday in its year book for 1939 that the company will deduct only half of the amount of benefits received by employés from government agencies from the benefits paid to them under the company's pension plan.

Formerly employés qualifying Jan. 1 for benefits under the social security act would have had the entire amount of such payments deducted from pension payments made by the company.

In a proxy statement the company announced that Charles H. Swift, chairman of the board, owned 47,800 shares of the company's capital stock on Nov. 30, and an additional 575 shares beneficially but not of record. He also owned 17,800 shares of the common stock of Libby, McNeill & Libby, an affiliated company.

John Holmes, president, was paid $65,000 in the fiscal year ended Oct. 28. On Nov. 30 he owned 2,000 shares of Swift & Co. stock and Lewis L. Clarke, a director, held 3,000 shares as co-executor of an estate, without beneficial interest.

SEC APPROVES SALE OF STOCK TO HOLDING FIRM

Consumer Power Bond Issue Cut 10 Million.

thru the sale of common stock the additional $10,000,000 which it originally proposed to obtain by selling bonds.

The commission said Consumers Power could readily obtain additional funds by selling more common stock.

Willkie Arranged Financing.

Sale of the bonds originally was scheduled for Dec. 8, but had been postponed repeatedly by the intervention of Otis & Co., and a number of other middle western financial houses.

The middle western firms had sought to have the financing thrown open to competitive bidding rather than arranged thru direct negotiations with the New York bankers.

Otis & Co. opposed the deal on the ground that it was prepared to offer a better price for both the bonds and the common stock. Willkie had said that the price on the bonds was 105½.

The underwriters would have received more than $500,000 if sale of the full $28,594,000 of bonds had been approved. Middle western houses raised a question of whether the commission's "arms length bargaining" rule had been violated in the arrangements with the New York firms.

Commissioner Frank called attention to Consumers Power's failure to discuss with the commission in advance of its formal application its intention to seek permission for 10 million dollars of new financing. He said, however, that if the company applied within 10 days the commission would grant a rehearing on its decision to deny the application for issuance of 10 million dollars of bonds.

Refund Outstanding Bonds.

The $18,594,000 of bonds are to be issued for the refunding of outstanding issues bearing higher interest rates.

Willkie said he hoped that failure to get authority for the full amount of bonds "will not require us to lessen our extensive projected construction program in Michigan nor act as a deterrent to the proposed construction program of other utility companies which promise so much for reëmployment." He added that the decision will "require readjustment of our plans."

It was learned that public offering of the $18,594,000 of bonds will not be made until early next week.

"We negotiated a sale of the bonds to 30 of the country's leading underwriters at a better price than had been received for over 97 per cent of the utility bonds permitted to be sold during the year with the authorization of the SEC," Willkie said.

Chides "Disappointed" Bankers.

"We had no anticipation nor advice that it would become the occasion for disappointed nonparticipating underwriters to bring forth such controversial questions as the various methods of selling bonds; or for a discussion of how underwriters should be measured along class, historic, political, and sectional lines.

"We do not seek with every business transaction to remake the economic map of the United States—we even have the boldness to doubt if any one has the wisdom to do so."

BID FOR NAVAL CONTRACT.

The Orton Crane and Shovel company, Chicago, has submitted a low bid of $26,125 for a locomotive crane for the Boston navy yard. The Browning Crane and Shovel company, Cleveland, bid $28,365 and the Industrial Brown Hoist, Bay City, Mich., $34,800.

SEARS ADDS HALF MILLION MORE TO EMPLOYES' FUND

Report Profit Above Expectations.

Because profits of Sears, Roebuck & Co. for the fiscal year to date have "surpassed expectations," the company will contribute an additional $500,000 to the Sears employés' savings and profit sharing fund for 1939, T. J. Carney, president, announced yesterday.

The fund will be increased another $600,000 because the company has decided not to exercise its right to deduct that amount from its profit sharing contribution as a partial offset to the $3,400,000 which it pays for old age and unemployment compensation under the Social Security act.

Also Get 5 Per Cent.

The half million dollar contribution is in addition to the usual contribution of 5 per cent of the company's net profits, and will be apportioned among fund members without regard to seniority classification, Carney said.

The fund owns the largest single holding of the company's stock. It held 576,267 shares at the end of the last fiscal year, Jan. 31, 1939.

Membership 98 Per Cent.

Membership in the fund is restricted to Sears employés with one year or more of continuous service, and 98 per cent of the eligible employés are members.

It was estimated that the fund's stock holdings will approximate 630,000 shares by the end of the current fiscal year.

Week's Bank Clearings Run Well Above Year Ago

New York, Dec. 28 (AP).—In 22 leading cities bank clearings during the week ended Dec. 27 rose sharply above the similar 1938 week, Dun & Bradstreet reported today. The volume of $5,582,654,000 was 15.6 per cent more than $4,828,660,000 a year ago. Due to the holiday, however, this was $1,319,745,000 less than in the preceding week.

WHEAT FUTURES RISE ON FEARS OF DAMAGE TO CROP

Wheat prices advanced 1 cent or more at one time yesterday as the result of buying induced by a growing belief that the moisture received in Nebraska and Kansas earlier in the week would not be as beneficial as anticipated.

Fears that millions of acres seeded in the dust in the west and southwest would sprout following the heavy week-end snowfall and then be killed by freezing and thawing weather were responsible for the upturn, brokers said.

More Corn Is Exported.

Corn was affected by reports that additional quantities of that grain had been sold for export, and the continued refusal of farmers to sell cash grain in volume. Futures were unchanged to ¼ cent higher at the close.

Chicago crop experts are unanimous in the belief that the recent snows are of value to wheat as a protection against cold weather and as a temporary check against soil drifting, but they have made no estimates as to the probable outcome of the crop despite the breaking of a four months' drouth over part of the main producing area.

More Moisture Is Needed.

Drouth has been only partially relieved in Oklahoma despite one-half to one inch of moisture the last week, according to the weather bureau weekly report, and much more moisture is needed in practically all sections for permanent relief.

All records for soy beans futures transactions on the Board of Trade were broken this month. Trading during December up to and including Wednesday, totaled 22,402,000 bushels, the largest for any month since trading in the commodities was begun three years ago, and approached transactions for all 1938, which amounted to 23,478,000 bushels. Sales for 1939 to date totaled 78,924,000 bushels.

Pope Pius XII. (facing camera) being greeted by King Victor Emmanuel as former arrived at Quirinal palace in Rome. The visit symbolized recognition of two sovereignties on opposite banks of the Tiber. The pope voiced a plea for world peace.

Air view of 2,500 trucks parked in foreign trade zone of Staten Island, N. Y., awaiting shipment to the empires. Officials say the foreign trade zone is so overtaxed with $18,500,000 in war materials that New York must provide more space.
